Viet Cong Pull Back

U.S. Paratroops Drive Into Mekong Delta Area

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — U.S. paratroopers slogged through mud and swamp today in their first big invasion of the Mekong Delta but a large Viet Cong force slipped deeper into the Red sanctuary, eluding their pursuers.

The probe by the 173rd Airborne Brigade, backed by artillery, air strikes and even tanks, began with high hopes of rousing the guerrillas from their stronghold.

Although they offered some brisk sirmishes and steady sniper fire at the start of the operation New Year's Day, the Viet Cong withdrew into the marshes in the direction of the Plain of Reeds near the Cambodian frontier.

By this afternoon, there was only occasional contact with the guerrillas.

A U.S. spokesman said the 173rd Brigade had killed 111 Viet Cong, captured 7 and detained 502 suspects. Vietnamese troops killed 125 guerrillas in the fighting, their spokesmen said.

The U.S. paratroopers had moved westward from Saigon into the sugar and rice fields around Bao Trai, 20 miles from the capital. They captured a large store of rice and other food and some National Liberation Front flags.

After the initial encounters, however, the Viet Cong headed toward the Plain of Reeds, a marshy Communist area on the northern fringe of the Mekong Delta. It has long been considered a Viet Cong infiltration route and base camp.

It was considered doubtful that the heavily armed Americans would attempt to pursue the Reds over terrain unsuited to their equipment.

Although American planes again spared the Communist North from attack, U.S. Air Force B52s bombed jungle targets in Binh Duong Province 40 miles northwest of Saigon.

The Communists attacked a Vietnamese scout company command post with flamethrowers and grenades 12 miles south of Tuy Hoa, on the central coast. They were beaten off. Ten Reds were reported killed. A military spokesman said it was the first time the Communists used flamethrowers. The South Vietnamese didn't capture any of them, but they were believed of Chinese make and part of the equipment of abattalion of North Vietnamese regulars.

The government force was taking part in a search-and-destroy operation with South Korean troops in Phu Yen Province.

Another 100 miles up the coast, Vietnamese troops launched three relatively large operations to relieve pressure on Quang Ngai City, a provincial capital. Several battalions took light casualties in a skirmish eight miles south of Quang Ngai while other companies of regional forces operated about a mile southeast of this battleground.

A third government force came under heavy small-arms fire about midway between Quang Ngai and Da Nang, 380 miles northeast of Saigon. Unofficial reports said the light government casualties included

Boy Sees Suspects After Holdup And Unties Employe

The two cleaned out the cash register and a small safe at the 12th St. Market, managed by Joseph Heiney, a former Wellsville patrolman.

Mrs. Thelma Peterson, a clerk, was the only one in the store at the time. She told police the stickup took place about 9:30.

The two forced her at gunpoint into a back room, where her hands and feet were tied with rope.

Mrs. Peterson said one of the men made two trips into the store on the pretense of obtaining a loaf of bread. She said he went out twice, stating he wanted to check with his wife on what brand to purchase.

On the third trip, he said: "This is a stickup." Mrs. Peterson said the men brandished guns.

They were carrying clothes line later used to bind the clerk when they entered.

She described both as being between 32 and 35. One is 5 foot 10 inches, with stocky build and wavy black hair. He was wearing a dark jacket and dark boots. The other is about the

Price Boost In Steel May Bring Action

Government Could Reduce Bethlehem Orders For Metals

WASHINGTON (AP) — Administration sources hint the government may reduce its purchases of structural steel framings from the Bethlehem Steel Corp. if the firm refuses to withdraw a $5-a-ton price boost — an increase which Bethlehem claims is not inflationary.

So far, no other steel firms have followed Bethlehem's move for higher prices. President Johnson has called the increase unwarranted and said it could lead to inflation.

But Edmund F. Martin, chairman of second-ranking Bethlehem, said in a statement Sunday night the three-day-old price hike was a result of product improvements that enable lighter-weight steel to do heavier jobs.

Mother, Children Lose Possessions

A mother and three young sons escaped without injury but lost almost all their possessions in a fire which gutted their rented home on W. 3rd St. near Jackson St. Saturday night. It was the first fire alarm of the new year.

Mrs. Estell Butler, of 207 W. 3rd St. calmly called firemen and then gathered her three boys, including twins, and left the one-room frame dwelling owned by Merle McSwegin, a city realtor.

Firemen said the blaze originated in the kitchen and had spread over the entire home when they arrived after receiving the call at 7:58 p. m. The cause of the fire couldn't be determined, they said.

Mrs. Butler was talking on the phone to a friend when one of the twins told her the house was on fire. She hung up, called the department and then fled with her children.

Acting Fire Chief Alfred Van Dyne said damage to the house and contents was extensive. There was no insurance on the contents, he added.

Van Dyne also praised the police department for handling traffic on busy W. 3rd St.

Mrs. Butler and her twin boys, 7, and the other son, 5, are residing temporarily with her daughter, Constance Virden of 1054 Oak St.

New York Strike Causes Auto Jam

NEW YORK (AP)—The brunt of a two-day-old transit strike hit New York this dreary Monday, threatened for a time to overwhelm Manhattan with automobiles, then eased into a flow described as normal.

As traffic had piled up during the early rush hour Mayor John V. Lindsay warned he might be forced to close off the city to any more automobiles.

Lindsay, who took office just hours before the bus and subway workers struck New Year's Day, climbed into a police helicopter for a personal inspection of the choked arteries from the foggy, drizzly skies.

Then, like a breaking fever, the crisis passed and Traffic Commissioner Henry A. Barnes reported traffic in Manhattan was "loosening up."

And the mayor lifted his threat.

By 8 a.m. he said traffic was "about normal now," but urged that no additional drivers head for Manhattan.

He predicted there would be continuous traffic jams in Manhattan throughout the day.

Barnes attributed the easing of Manhattan's traffic to the fact that drivers headed for work about two hours earlier than usual. This caused early-morning tieups, but eased conditions in the midst of the usual rush hour.

New Yorkers didn't feel the full impact of the strike until today because of the holiday weekend.

Lindsay went on radio and television early today to make a last-minute appeal to commuters not to drive into the city.

Principals in the negotiations get back to the bargaining table early today.

Michael J. Quill, head of the Transport Workers Union, AFL-CIO, the man who called the strike, was due to appear in State Supreme Court today to answer a show-cause order.

As hopes for an early settlement brightened Sunday night, then suddenly faded, the nation's largest city put into effect emergency measures to handle the 7.4 million persons who normally ride the subways and buses every working day.

Extra commuter trains and buses were added, emergency parking and taxi regulations were applied, and schools were closed. But above all else, Mayor Lindsay urged people not to drive automobiles in the city except on absolutely essential business.

The strike is expected to cost stores an estimated $40 million a day in lost sales.

The 33,000 bus and subway employes walked off the job in defiance of a court injunction at 5 a.m. Saturday — just five hours after Lindsay took office

Viet Claims 'Trickery'

2 U.S. Envoys Continue Peace Bid Despite Hanoi

WASHINGTON (AP)—Two of President Johnson's peace envoys continued their efforts today despite new dampening blasts from Hanoi.

The North Vietnamese Communist party organ Nhan Dan branded the current U.S. peace moves as "trickery" and said that if any political solution to the Viet Nam war is to be achieved the United States must halt "definitely and unconditionally" all acts of war against the North.

The Hanoi newspaper also said Washington would have to acknowledge the four conditions the Communists have set down for an end to the war. What was meant by "acknowledge" was not immediately clear. Washington has let it be known that it would be willing to discuss the four points if negotiations got under way.

U.S. efforts to get such talks started moved ahead with roving Ambassador W. Averell Harriman's arrival in Pakistan for talks with President Mohammed Ayub Khan while G. Mennen Williams carried the American view to African leaders.

As the flurry of American diplomatic activity continued, the lull in the bombings of North Viet Nam targets moved into its 11th day.

The bombing moratorium is viewed as a part of Washington's efforts to establish conditions favorable to the beginning of peace talks with North Viet Nam.

The public reaction from Hanoi was anything but encouraging. Only hours before the party organ Nhan Dan made its declarations North Viet Nam's President Ho Chi Minh had declared that the Communists would fight until final victory.

He said he was standing firm on his terms for peace — terms

Robert Taft Expected To Reveal 1966 Plans

CINCINNATI (AP)—Former Congressman-at-large Robert Taft Jr. called a news conference for later today and there was immediate speculation that Taft, beaten for a U. S. Senate seat in 1964 by Democrat Stephen Young, will announce his political plans for 1966.

The feeling generally has been that he will seek the Republican nomination for the First District U. S. House of Representatives seat now held by Democrat John W. Gilligan.

Records Set For Holiday Road Deaths

556 Die In Crashes Across U.S. Over New Year's Period

By The Associated Press

Traffic fatalities set records for the second straight holiday weekend today as well over 500 persons died on the nation's highways during the three-day New Year observance.

The death toll in traffic was 556, and late reports were expected to raise the final figure even higher.

In Ohio, 46 lost their lives over the holiday. Nineteen were killed in Pennsylvania, and five in West Virginia.

The record toll passed last New Year's traffic death count of 474 early Sunday. The lowest toll for any New Year's holiday since World War II was 269 during the three-day period of 1949-1950.

The New Year deaths, however, were still far short of the all-time holiday traffic death count of 720 set during the three-day Christmas period.

An Associated Press survey of a non-holiday weekend of the same length as the New Year holiday showed 420 deaths in traffic. The survey was made from 6 p.m. Thursday, Dec. 9, to midnight Sunday, Dec. 12.

The National Safety Council said the final toll for the New

Latins Fear Meeting May Bring Terror

HAVANA (AP) — Revolutionists from three continents assembled in Havana to open a nine-day meeting today, increasing apprehension among governments of some of Communist Cuba's neighbors.

"The peace of the continent is at stake," said President Raul Leoni of Venezuela. The so-called Tricontinental Conference of Solidarity is "a new aggression against Venezuela," he said.

Leaders of Brazil, Peru and Colombia were also worried. Each nation has tasted the guerrilla terrorism that the conference delegates favor for the "liberation of the people from oppressive regimes."

Many Latin-American, Asian and African nations will watch the conference closely for any developments signaling renewed Communist subversion in their own countries.

Most of the decisions by the approximately 500 delegates from 100 countries will not be revealed. A few open sessions are planned, but they are expected to be filled with long speeches spouting the usual anti-American line.

Pair Gives Up In Carroll On Holdup Count

A widespread hunt for two men wanted for armed robbery of a fruit market near Malvern and abduction of two Minerva officers ended early Sunday afternoon when the two suspects surrendered themselves to the Carroll County sheriff's office in Carrollton.

Charles Howard, 26, and Harold Pitts, 19, both of Hanoverton R. D. 2, were being held without bond today in the Carroll County jail, charged with suspicion of kidnaping and armed robbery.

A third suspect was arrested early Friday at his home near Hanoverton. He was identified as Leslie Pitts, 18, brother of Harold, also being held in the Carroll County jail.

Authorities said Howard and the elder Pitts walked into the sheriff's office to surrender about 12:30 p. m. yesterday, turning over $90 which allegedly was taken in the stickup and a revolver and shotgun taken from the two kidnaped officers.

It all began Thursday night at 10 in a $150 stickup at the Fruit Basket, a market east of Malvern and five miles south of Minerva.

The three men encountered a Minerva roadblock shortly after the holdup. Gunfire was exchanged at the barricade and the holdup trio subsequently overpowered and disarmed Patrolman James Nelson of Mi-

Vice President Returns From Far East Journey

HONOLULU (AP) — Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey returns home today after a journey through the Far East where the wars past and present seemed to blend.

Humphrey stood in a cemetery in the hills above Honolulu where dead of World War II, Korea and Viet Nam lie buried. Only a short drive away men wounded in Viet Nam lie in an Army general hospital.

It is like that in the Pacific — the old battles running into the new.

On another stop, Humphrey saw ships destined for Viet Nam riding at anchor in Manila harbor with the island of Corregidor and Bataan looming on the horizon.

Speaking at the University of Hawaii Sunday, Humphrey said that since World War II the United States has suffered 175,000 casualties.

"We did not ask for war in Korea. We have not sought war in Berlin. We have not sought

Temperature To Dive Into Low 20's Tonight

Chilly weather moving into the Tri-State District will send the mercury plunging into the low 20's tonight, the Ohio forecaster said.

Tuesday will be mostly sunny with little temperature change, the weatherman reported.

The dip in the mercury came after intermittent heavy rains on the holiday weekend. The mercury hit 39 at 6 a. m. today in the downtown area. It stood at 34 at the same time in the suburbs.

Bandits Tie Clerk With Rope Strips

Boy Sees Suspects After Holdup And Unties Employe

A search continued today for two gunmen who fled with $1,400 from a small Wellsville grocery store Sunday night.

The two cleaned out the cash register and a small safe at the 12th St. Market, managed by Joseph Heiney, a former Wellsville patrolman.

Mrs. Thelma Peterson, a clerk, was the only one in the store at the time. She told police the stickup took place about 9:30.

The two forced her at gunpoint into a back room, where her hands and feet were tied with rope.

Mrs. Peterson said one of the men made two trips into the store on the pretense of obtaining a loaf of bread. She said he went out twice, stating he wanted to check with his wife on what brand to purchase.

On the third trip, he said: "This is a stickup." Mrs. Peterson said the men brandished guns.

They were carrying clothes line later used to bind the clerk when they entered.

She described both as being between 32 and 35. One is 5 foot 10 inches, with stocky build and wavy black hair. He was wearing a dark jacket and dark boots. The other is about the

Pair Gives Up In Carroll On Holdup Count

A widespread hunt for two men wanted for armed robbery of a fruit market near Malvern and abduction of two Minerva officers ended early Sunday afternoon when the two suspects surrendered themselves to the Carroll County sheriff's office in Carrollton.

Charles Howard, 26, and Harold Pitts, 19, both of Hanoverton R. D. 2, were being held without bond today in the Carroll County jail, charged with suspicion of kidnaping and armed robbery.

A third suspect was arrested early Friday at his home near Hanoverton. He was identified as Leslie Pitts, 18, brother of Harold, also being held in the Carroll County jail.

Authorities said Howard and the elder Pitts walked into the sheriff's office to surrender about 12:30 p. m. yesterday, turning over $90 which allegedly was taken in the stickup and a revolver and shotgun taken from the two kidnaped officers.

It all began Thursday night at 10 in a $150 stickup at the Fruit Basket, a market east of Malvern and five miles south of Minerva.

The three men encountered a Minerva roadblock shortly after the holdup. Gunfire was exchanged at the barricade and the holdup trio subsequently overpowered and disarmed Patrolman James Nelson of Mi-

Wife Hospitalized

3 Suffer Injury In Auto Crashes

A woman was hospitalized, a husband and wife were treated at City Hospital and two drivers were cited in four traffic mishaps starting the new year.

Mrs. Jean E. Buckley, 39, of the Y. & O. Rd. remains in "fair" condition with injuries received when she was slammed into the dashboard as her husband halted suddenly in attempt to avoid another car.

The collision involved cars operated by Raymond H. Crawford, 51, of Rogers R. D. 1 and Robert Buckley, 42, of the Y. & O. Rd.

Crawford was cited by police on a charge of starting a stopped, standing or parked vehicle without determining the movement could be made with reasonable safety.

Crawford forfeited a $32.50 bond today in Municipal Court.

The new year was only three minutes old when a young husband and wife were hurt and a Toronto area driver was cited for failing to yield the right-of-way.

George Larkins, 35, of Toronto R. D. 2 told officers he was driving north in Green Ln. at 12:03 a. m. Saturday and was not aware of the intersection.

His auto hit Taylor's 1961 auto broadside as the other driver said he slowed for the bump at the intersection.

Larkins forfeited a $32.50 bond this morning when he failed to appear in Municipal Court.

Dresden Ave. Ext. was the scene of a second crash at 3:04 a. m. involving cars operated by David M. Tarbuck, 21, of 1239 Oakwood Ave. and owned by Edward F. Ryan of 215 W. 7th St. and the auto of William Endicott of 784 Fenton St.

Tarbuck told police the other car backed out of the Roma Cafe lot and hit his car as he was headed north. His statement was supported by Ryan, a passenger, and by Edwin Orr of 831 Valley Ave. and Sam Orr of Youngstown, police said.

William Endicott Jr. and Norman Stearns of 136 W. Center Ln. claimed they were parked when Tarbuck struck them, police said.

A cruising patrolman discovered early Saturday that a parked station wagon had been damaged heavily in the left rear by a hit - skip driver.

Officer Jack Strobel discovered the damage to the vehicle owned by Drive-A-Lease of E. 5th St. while it was parked on Pennsylvania Ave.

L. M. Shields, a driver for Bloor's Pharmacy, told police he parked the station wagon about 10:30 p. m. Friday. The officer found the damage at 2:12 a. m. Saturday.

Strike Ended At Vital Plant

EAST ALTON, Ill. (AP) — Production of gunpowder for use in Viet Nam resumes at the Olin Mathieson Chemical Corp. munitions plant after striking union members voted to accept new contracts and return to work today.

The International Association of Machinists AFL-CIO voted 1,599-1,543 Sunday to accept a contract worked out last week in Washington. The International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers ratified a similar pact by a 50-25 vote.

Two other unions that struck the plant Dec. 1, the International Chemical Workers AFL-CIO and the Western Employees Trade Council, had voted previously to return to work.

A company official says full production of gunpowder could begin in a day and that full production of finished ammunition will take about a week.

The strike of about 4,200 union members halted production by the nation's only manufacturer of a special gunpowder for some rifle and tracer bullets and 20mm cannon shells used in Viet Nam.

The machinists' three-year contract includes fringe benefits and improvements in seniority rights, a 4 per cent hourly wage increase with a 10-cent minimum the first year, a 10-cent across-the-board raise the second year and a 4 per cent increase with a 10-cent minimum the third year. The average hourly wage was $2.78.

William Parker, Electrical Workers business agent, said his union's contract included substantial improvements in job assignments, seniority rights and fringe benefits.

The chemical workers accepted a contract Dec. 23 calling for a 35-cent-an-hour wage increase, plus added fringe benefits. Terms of the contract approved Saturday by members of the Western Employees Trade Council were not announced.

Auto Crash Kills Aliquippa Driver

ALIQUIPPA — John R. Yuhasz, 37, of 617 Grand Ave. became Beaver County's first traffic victim of 1966 when his auto went out of control on Kennedy Blvd. Saturday night about 6:30 and crashed into an abutment.

Mr. Yuhasz, who was alone, was pronounced dead at the scene of a fractured skull and crushed chest, authorities reported.

His death was one of seven that marred the long holiday weekend in Western Pennsylvania.

In addition to the Beaver County fatality, three were killed in traffic crashes in Allegheny County and three others died in adjacent counties.

Car Window Broken; Officers Cite 2 Boys

Two teen-age boys were taken into custody by police Saturday accused of shooting out a window on a car parked on Lisbon St.

The boys, 15 and 13, were turned over to juvenile authorities after they alleged shattered the rear window in the car of Herbert T. Dorsey, 946 Lisbon St., while it was parked near his home.

Theodore Spencer, 304 Center St., reported to police Sunday that 6-and 12-volt batteries were stolen from his pickup truck parked near his home over the weekend.

The country's canine population is estimated at 26 million by the Pet Food Institute, which puts the cat population between 20 and 29 million.

East End Man Due Hearing On 2 Charges

A hearing for an East End man on two charges filed by the State Highway Patrol following a two - car collision early Thursday on Route 7 was continued today by Municipal Judge Samuel M. Chertoff until Jan. 14.

George Crawford of 541 Mulberry St. had been cited by the patrol on charges of driving a car without an operator's license and failing to transfer the registration. He had posted a $115 bond for today's hearing.

Crawford pleaded guilty to driving without a license and admitted to Judge Chertoff that his previous license had been suspended for drunken driving. However, he produced a temporary permit and said he had passed the driving test.

The East End man denied anyone was in his auto and Judge Chertoff pointed out the defendant also was violating the law since the provisions of a temporary permit require the driver to be accompanied by a licensed motorist.

Agreeing to continue to case until Jan. 14 to allow Crawford time to secure his new license, Judge Chertoff admonished him not to drive. Crawford replied that his car, purchased in November, was demolished in the collision.

A hearing for Robert E. Powell of 636½ Henry Ave., Wellsville, was continued until Jan. 12 at the request of George Aronson, counsel for John E. Scritchfield of 843 Pennsylvania Ave., who filed the affidavit.

Scritchfield charged that Powell drove recklessly on Dec. 21 at the intersection of St. Clair and Lincoln Aves. and Broadway by entering the intersection from the A. & P. parking lot "without due regard for the safety of other persons." Powell is represented by Charles Lang.

A hearing is scheduled Wednesday for Dennis Neal Putnam of the old Irondale Rd., Wellsville, on a State Highway Patrol charge that he was traveling 65 miles an hour in a 50-mile zone New Year's Day on the East Liverpool - Wellsville Rd.

Some Loot Recovered After East End Theft

A man's Bulova wristwatch, three straight razors and a penknife, stolen sometime Friday from an East End home, still haven't been recovered but other articles were found by a housewife as she prepared to burn trash.

Mrs. Robert Pearson, 1831 Ohio Ave., told officers she found some 16-gauge shotgun shells, two men's watches, a woman's necklace watch and a new billfold.

Police said the items apparently had been hidden by a thief who planned later to return for them.

already rejected by the United States.

Ho's views were in messages to the Japanese newspaper Asahi Shimbun and to a Havana meeting of leftists from three continents. The message suggested anew that Hanoi would agree to negotiate only after the United States accepts its four-point demand, which includes withdrawal of American troops from South Viet Nam.

In Peking, the official Chinese Communist party paper People's Daily assailed the American diplomatic missions. It said "monsters and freaks of all descriptions are scurrying hither and thither and raising a lot of dust with their sinister activities." It added the United States "is merely spreading a smokescreen to conceal its preparations for war expansion."

One of the most extensive of the diplomatic missions ends today with Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey's return to Washington. He visited the capitals of Japan, the Philippines, Nationalist China and South Korea during the past week.

Stopping off Sunday in Honolulu, Humphrey declared that U.S. emissaries had fanned out all over the world seeking "the key to peace."

Commenting on the bombing lull, the vice president said some people had urged that the strikes be stopped to bring the North Vietnamese to the peace table. "It stopped," he said, "the table is there."

While Humphrey spoke in Honolulu of U.S. peace efforts, Pope Paul VI told a crowd in Vatican City's St. Peter's Square that he had prayed for the help of heaven in his new appeals for mediation and an end of conflict in Viet Nam.

The Pope said, "We feel the scantiness of our humble and unarmed efforts, strong only in the human and Christian reasons which inspire them, but weak in the face of the enormous difficulty which they seek to overcome.

"Once again the help of heaven is necessary, and for this our diplomacy — if it can so be called — is integrated in great measure with prayer."

American diplomatic efforts were at a busy pace Sunday in Africa and India. Williams, assistant secretary of state for African affairs, conferred in Algiers with Col. Houari Boumedienne, Algerian chief of government. Williams later told newsmen the meeting was very satisfactory. He then headed for Tunisia, with later steps scheduled in other African countries.

Harriman followed a whirlwind pace in New Delhi. He spent 40 minutes with Prime Minister Lal Bahadur Shastri, 44 with President Sarvepalli Radhakrishnan and 45 with Foreign Minister Swaran Singh.

After meeting today with Ayub, Harriman planned to fly on to Tehran or a conference with the Shah of Iran.

as the city's first Republican mayor in 20 years.

The Transport Workers Union, and the Amalgamated Transit Union, AFL-CIO, are demanding higher wages, a shorter work week and other benefits the Transit Authority estimated would cost $680 million.

Sunday night Quill offered to cut the demand "by 80 per cent" to $180 million, but the TA quickly rejected it.

Transit Authority Chairman Joseph O'Grady said the offer had not been made "in good faith" and he accused Quill of "stalling tactics."

The TA had offered a $25-million package as an alternative, but Quill termed that as "operation peanuts."

Transit employe hourly wages now range from $2.64 for a station cleaner to $3.46 for a motorman.

Theodore W. Kheel, one of three mediators, said efforts to reach a settlement on a new two-year contract would go on a round-the-clock schedule with time out only for an occasional rest.

Lindsay pleaded with employers to excuse as many workers as possible. He urged that every car entering New York be filled to capacity — then be immediately driven out.

Thousands of workers streamed into the city Sunday by every available means and checked into hotel rooms. Many businesses are using charter buses to bring employes to work.

ments," Martin said, "the cost of equivalent steel framing for structures will be less than five years ago. This is not inflationary."

Government sources indicated Sunday that a cutback of federal purchases from Bethlehem may be forthcoming if the company refuses to withdraw its increases. The government now consumes about 25 per cent of the total output of structural steel shapes.

The sources said the administration feels that if other major steel firms can be convinced not to raise prices, Bethlehem will rescind its boost.

But if the increase is not rescinded and other company's follow Bethlehem's lead, the officials said, it would be a matter of "grave concern" to top administration officials and Congress.

The source said that in the steel case, as in earlier price hikes in the aluminum and copper industry, the government does not consider its actions an attempt to control prices.

The price hike, which affects about 7 per cent of the market, was announced Friday for structural steel shapes used in the construction of big buildings, bridges, highways and some equipment. The new prices went into effect Saturday.

Gardner Ackley, chairman of President Johnson's Council of Economic Advisers, and Cabinet members have joined the President in condemning the Bethlehem price hike.

The government contends the firm also may be open to a charge of profiteering if it does not rescind the increase. Sources said Bethlehem's profits for the first nine months of 1965 were 83 per cent above 1963 figures for that period, reflecting the healthy profit trend in the steel industry.

war in Cuba. We have not sought war in Viet Nam."

But, Humphrey added, "We have been called to the defense of others as well as to ourselves."

Americans do not want to have it written, he said, that "we were the warriors of the 20th Century."

Rather, he said, it should be written that the Americans were educators.

Humphrey was confronted by a band of demonstrators carrying signs reading "End the war in Viet Nam" and "Peace in Viet Nam."

He told his audience at the university ceremony where he received an honorary degree, "I hear people say we want peace in Viet Nam. I'll say we do.

"If you have any influence in Hanoi, use it. If you have any influence in Peking, use it."

Humphrey said President Johnson "is building peace."

American emissaries have fanned out all over the world seeking "the key to open the door to peace," Humphrey said.

He noted that the American bombing in North Viet Nam had been halted. He said some people had urged that if the raids were halted the North Vietnamese might come to the peace table. "It's stopped. The table is there," he said.

But he declared that the United States would not bow to blackmail and he said he found in his travels to Japan, the Phillippines, Nationalist China and South Korea that "while they yearn for peace in Southeast Asia, the people of free Asia are not willing to have peace at the sacrifice of a neighbor."

Humphrey said he observed in the Far East "a growing recognition that the problems of Asia in a very real sense must be solved by Asian leadership."

But he said he found in the areas he visited clear recognition that "the shield of American power is essential for their peaceful progress and development."

Delta

ing zone and hang tight for the night.

Whatever he did, trouble awaited him, because the Mekong Delta for 20 years has meant trouble.

During the Indochina war, the French kept the main roads open with a series of heavily fortified outposts and generally stayed out of the rest of the delta.

The French tried to clean out the Red River delta above Hanoi and failed. They didn't even try on the Mekong.

The South Vietnamese government has four infantry divisions — an estimated 20,000 men — in the Mekong Delta, most of them securing government installations. The Viet Cong have an estimated 30,000 men under arms in the area.

In the past year the Viet Cong and government forces have maintained a sort of standoff in the delta.

Now the Americans have come into this battleground.

The paratroopers of the 173rd Airborne Brigade had known only jungle in Viet Nam — the jungles of Zone D, the Iron Triangle and Phuoc Tuy. The increasing momentum of the Viet Cong offensive brought them to the delta west of Saigon.

American units probably will soon be operating in Long An Province, south of Saigon, in the island provinces of Kien Hoa and Vinh Binh, and in the Camau Peninsula.

"Fighting here is a lot better than the jungle," said Sgt. Banks. "You can see where you are going and where you came from."

But the Viet Cong also can see, and they have detailed knowledge of every canal and every dike. Some of the bloodiest battles of the war have been fought in the delta. The paddy-field dikes and canals provide superb cover for the guerrillas.

Havana Hilton hotel in downtown Havana.

Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro anticipated the "hate-America" mood of the conference in a speech Sunday on the seventh anniversary of his revolution. Most of the speech provided gloomy news for Cubans.

Castro disclosed that Communist China had broken a trade agreement and would not ship any more rice nor buy any more Cuban sugar.

He said he had expected Peking to continue last year's arrangement of sending one ton of rice for each two tons of Cuban sugar received.

"I thought this was a long-term proposition," he said, "but the other party did not understand it thus."

China also informed Cuba, he said, that it could not accept 800,000 tons of sugar that Castro thought were safely sold.

"We now find we have only half the rice we had in 1964," he said. "We did not grow more rice ourselves because we were concentrating on other agricultural products."

Although China broke the sugar-rice agreement, Chinese Communist Chief Mao Tze-tung cabled Castro that a "proud friendship" existed between the the two countries.

The bad news about the rice was coupled with an admission from Castro that Cuba's sugar harvest this year would fall short of its target of 6.5 million tons. But he added without elaborating: "We shall have a high yield if we carry out our harvesting plans."

Americans own about 70 per cent of all passenger cars.

Only Solution For India

Birth control is not a subject for abstract discussion but concrete necessity in India. Yet, because of the pervading ignorance of the Indian people there is little hope of progress in this generation. Starvation will continue.

Each year there are 12 million more mouths to feed in India. The ordinary Indian is poorly nourished, at best, getting less than the minimum total of calories for subsistence.

Food rationing has been in effect in some large cities and densely populated areas. It will go into effect in all large cities within a week.

President Johnson has accelerated the rate at which U.S. wheat is being shipped to India, in hope of minimizing the tragedy of famine. But in this respect, India is the prisoner of a monstrous paradox. The more food it gets, the closer it is to starvation.

This is because the only realistic population control in India is a high death rate. Anything that disturbs the grim equation between food supply and food demand accentuates the fact that India cannot feed itself.

When food is imported for famine relief, the net effect is to keep people alive who otherwise would die of hunger, making it certain there will be more mouths to feed from a chronically inadequate food supply.

The immediate cause of the food shortage is the worst drought of the century. Indians eat grain — wheat in the north, rice in the south. Estimates by New Delhi put the grain shortage at between three and 11 million tons. In a country already chronically hungry anything short of a bumper crop represents a disaster.

The government has switched emphasis from industrialization to agriculture, but this will have little effect unless population growth can be leveled off.

Only one thing could give Indians enough to eat — a crash program to stabilize the birth rate at a point which would make it possible for food supply to catch up to the oversupply of mouths to feed.

It Was Very Embarrassing

For all of us who have been morbidly curious about what the big men of political affairs talk about to their wives when day is done, the shade was lifted for a quick peep when Amintore Fanfani resigned as Italy's foreign minister because of an interview arranged by his wife.

The interview was with the foreign minister's friend Giorgio La Pira, recently in the news as the bearer of supposed peace feelers from North Viet Nam. The incident was intricately tied up in the maze of Italian politics, but its chief import is the foreign minister's declaration that his wife embarrassed him by her "improvident initiative."

What he meant was that she gave Professor La Pira a chance to say in an interview what she and presumably her husband knew he was going to say and none of it was flattering to The Establishment. Not only were unkind things said about Premier Aldo Moro but also about U.S. Secretary of State Rusk.

This left the Fanfani image as a loyal minister battered and besmirched. It left no doubt in Italian minds that the La Pira comments must have been just about what the Fanfani comments would have been if someone had been eavesdropping. It was very embarrassing.

Or, as President Johnson presumably observes on occasion to Lady Bird Johnson when the latest notable has departed and it's bedtime? "Bird, that maverick gives me the bloat. If I ever get close enough to drop a rope on him, I'm going to tie the critter to a cottonwood tree and let the coyotes scare him to death and that premier of his is no better. But don't quote me."

The remarks that must pass between a statesman and his missus when the lights are low!

Let's Make It Worthwhile

Periodic uproars over fox bounties in Ohio have no more long-range significance than the state's other periodic uproars.

But there is one angle to the fox bounty that intrigues Ohioans who consider payments of from $1 to $5 for a set of fox paws a hard way to earn money.

How did the master minds of an evolving civilization ever settle on the idea of paws as a certificate for collecting the bounty? It would seem that the problem of scalawagging all stems from this. Some committed a "fox paws."

Any scoundrel who would present fox paws from somewhere else to claim for a bounty he did not deserve to collect from a decent Ohio county would stoop to anything.

He might even cut off the ears and take them to Indiana to collect that state's ear bounty. He might use the fox tail to collect a bounty from somewhere else. There's only way to stop this sort of thing.

Make bounty hunters bring in the whole fox. Make them plop it down on the appropriate counter in a county court house before they can collect any bounty. Oblige them to leave it with county authorities as a token of faith. That would end bounty hunting as a potentially shady business.

Nothing could be potentially shady in the presence of a fox carcass. No moment of truth ever was more vivid, more indelibly etched, more illuminating and more memorable than Brother Fox in a moribund condition.

Letter From Max

By Martin Miller

Dear Truman Twill:

There are several writers and magazines that bug me because I cannot understand their high-flown language, but I may have the problem licked soon.

Years ago, a couple of young smart guys worked together to write fancy stuff. One would write out the material in ordinary words and the other would go through the dictionary and substitute big words for little words to make the writing sound highbrow.

My plan is to reverse this system. I am going to go through this mysterious writing and substitute little words for all the big ones and then maybe I can understand it.

Your stuff is usually clear to me, Twill.

An old-time lady movie fan was telling how she outsmarted those old thriller series when she was a child.

Five minutes before the end of an episode when the hero would be left hanging over a precipice or something, she would leave so as not to be too curious in case she could not make the theater the following week to see how it turned out.

Years later, to compensate for what she had missed in these movies serials, she went to a theater 18 weeks in a row just to see all the installments of a Lone Ranger serial.

Has it ever occurred to anybody that the Chinese may be willing to fight to the last Viet Cong? Hanoi papers please copy.

Every time I hear mention of William McChensey Martin Jr., chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, I am reminded of the time he entered the Army early in World War II, or just before.

He had been president of the New York Stock Exchange and the story went that in the Army some sergeant told him, "It's a good thing you got in the Army because you never could make a living on the outside."

Sad to see that Republican leaders feel impelled to adopt a resolution advising members not to join "any radical or extremist organization, including any which attempt to use the Republican party for its own ends or any which seek to undermine the basic principles of American freedom and constitutional government."

Whatever can they be thinking of?

The Democrats may have had similar resolutions, but I can't remember any. For decades, the Democratic party has been notorious as a catch-all of divergent views, and also as a catch-all of most of the votes for national offices.

Just this last presidential election the Democrats had beatniks and bankers voting as one, along with most of the people in between those two different groups.

Faithfully yours,
MAX

Power Struggle

Poverty Act Stings City Hall

By David Wise

WASHINGTON

The nation's mayors, in a report that has seeped out here, have blasted President Johnson's multi-million dollar poverty program for "serious and continuing lack of coordination at the federal level."

Largely unnoticed was the ironical fact that the mayors, not an impoverished group by and large, wrote the stinging report with a $98,000 grant from the poverty program.

The United States conference of majors bit the hand of Sargent Shriver's Office of Economic Opportunity in a nine-page, blue covered document that accused OEO of fostering "confusion" and "administrative failure" by not channeling programs of various federal agencies through city hall-connected poverty boards. Furthermore, the mayors complained, the OEO was trying to dictate composition of the local boards.

The report was more hard evidence of the fact that the poverty program, now in its second year, is caught in a political crossfire between the nation's city halls and Washington. Whether the poor will benefit from all the shooting is another matter.

UNDERLYING THE CONFLICT are issues more subtle than the question of who will control the poverty pork barrel (the poverty budget is $1.5 billion this year).

What is at stake was well illustrated recently in Syracuse, N.Y., where the poverty skirmishing broke into open warfare.

Nine months ago, the OEO had handed $314,000 to Syracuse University for an experimental project in organizing the poor to better their lot.

It all sounded fine until Mayor William Walsh, a Republican found the poor marching on city hall to demand better garbage collection. The mayor reacted unkindly to the expenditure of federal funds to bug him.

He viewed the university organizers with even deeper suspicion when they launched a voter registration drive. He charged the university poverty warriors with organizing poor people to register as Democrats.

In Syracuse, the organizers helped form neighborhood councils representing 10,000 people. A picket line was thrown around a supermarket that employed no Negroes, welfare recipients were encouraged to press for cash payments and security guards were obtained for public housing projects.

THEN, SHRIVER'S OFFICE informed Dr. Warren Haggstrom, director of the university project, that it had turned down his request for a 15-month extension of the program. It gave him $110,000 for the next three months but told him to go to the local poverty board, on which city hall is represented, for any more funds.

The olive branch from Washington to the Syracuse City Hall could foreshadow a policy change that would channel most federal poverty money through the city hall boards. A spokesman for Shriver vigorously denied this was the case, and noted that the university project could appeal directly to the OEO if the city hall board in Syracuse turns down its request for more money.

Other officials in the poverty program said frankly that they didn't know whether the Syracuse case marked a major shift in policy or not. They said time and test cases in other cities over the next two months would tell.

The key to the conflict lies in the words contained in the Economic Opportunity Act of 1964, which established the program. The law specifies that there be "maximum feasible participation of residents of the areas and members of the groups served."

Some experts here consider those words the most significant social welfare development since the days of the New Deal. Although mayors and local political leaders were slow to get the idea, the phrase meant that the young men who put the program together for President Johnson were committed to organizing the poor politically to give them power as a group.

In plainer language, the mayors were telling Johnson and Shriver to stop handing out money to people who will use it to fight city hall.

Turmoil In The Kitchen Cabinet

By Douglas Kiker

Of course, everybody knew all about Lyndon Johnson's eating habits long before White House chef Rene Verdon resigned in anger recently.

On a normal day, he has hominy grits, red-eye gravy, fried fat-back, hoecake and six-shooter coffee for breakfast. For lunch it's fried catfish, hushpuppies, black-eyed peas and collard greens—with lots o' pot likker. And for dinner —what else? — barbecue, biscuits, and watermelon.

Right?

And now that a Texas lady named Mrs. Mary Kaltman has been named White House food coordinator, everybody has a pretty good idea of what future state dinners at 1600 Pennsylvania Avenue will be like.

WHY, MY DEAR, it's just going to be as gauche as all getout. The quality of the food is going to be just one cut or so above those horrid, frozen TV dinners. I mean, all the recipes are going to come out of those magazines you buy in supermarkets for a dime, aren't they? And the wine will be California sweet muscatel.

Right?

Right?

No, that's not right at all.

The Johnsons may not eat like Parisian gourmets, but they don't exactly eat like Southern sharecroppers, either. They eat like very well-off Americans, and most of the people in Darien and Westchester who are dismayed by Chef Verdon's departure would feel right at home at their table, sharing any meal.

MRS. KALTMAN is a Texan, sure enough. But her approach to food is not "Texan," in any sense. If it must be defined, it probably should be called "upper-middle class American," and lots of ladies who live in big white houses in Bryn Mawr and Grosse Pointe would love to know some of her recipes.

White House correspondents, who travel to Texas with Mr. Johnson the way they used to travel to Palm Beach with John Kennedy, used to kiss her hand in thanks for the menus she offered them when she was food director at Austin's Driskill Hotel.

No, the clash in the White House kitchen was not really one of cultures. It was one of temperament. M. Verdon is an artist of independent mien. Mrs. Kaltman — who as a lady of good taste no doubt recognizes his genius with a skillet — was under firm presidential order to bring better management to what really is a restaurant.

So M. Verdon is leaving and, according to Mrs. Johnson's press secretary, Mrs. Elizabeth Carpenter, a new, "very excellent" mystery chef already has been employed to take his place. No one knows whether or not he will be French, but he certainly will not be Texan. "He will be continental enough to suit the taste of all foreign guests," Mrs. Carpenter says.

MEANWHILE, in the spirit of the season, all this demands that we ask what about President Johnson? People keep saying he's got no style. He has lots of style. It is just that it is his own particular style, that's all.

After all, he wears Saville Row suits and shirts of a cotton so fine that they shine. He drinks tea for breakfast. The cocktail table at his Texas ranch is hewn from a tree in the Sherwood Forest and he has a big, gold watch, similarly foreign made and equally fine. He is, in fact, fairly classy in most respects.

But the White House is a haunted house. We listen vainly for the sound of Bach played on cellos and, not hearing it, imagine country guitars. We vaguely remember the low-throated laughter of high society ladies in low-cut gowns and not hearing it, imagine rural whoops. We taste, in the mouth of our mind, "quenelles de brochet" and delicate poached force-meat balls make of pike, and think we smell, instead, the scent of dreary, common cooking.

He really ought to put a sign out front which says, "John & Jacqueline Kennedy don't live here anymore. But we aren't all that bad."

Peace Stalemate

By Lewis Gulick

Hanoi Stand Prevents Parley

WASHINGTON

A couple of ingredients in Hanoi's four-point program on the Viet Nam war make it totally unacceptable to the United States. Until something changes on these, the two sides are not about to sit down at the conference table.

Point one of Hanoi's four calls, among other things, for a withdrawal of American forces from South Viet Nam and an end to their attacks on the North.

Point two stipulates neutrality for North and South Viet Nam — no foreign military alliances and no foreign bases or troops there.

Point four proposes peaceful reunification of the divided country to be settled by the Vietnamese people "without any foreign interference."

U.S. diplomats see plenty of room for reaching agreement on points 1, 2 and 4.

AS SECRETARY OF State Dean Rusk put it: "We have said that we want no bases in Southeast Asia. We have said that we do not wish to retain U.S. forces in South Viet Nam if there is peace. We have said that the question of reunification is something which the Vietnamese themselves can decide on their own free choice."

But Hanoi's point three is something else. It demands that "the internal affairs of South Viet Nam must be settled by the South Vietnamese people themselves in accordance with the National Liberation Front program, without any foreign interference."

Washington sees this as a demand for imposing the Communist, or "National Liberation Front," program on the South, which would amount to a Red takeover there. The United States is committed to prevent this and that is what the fighting is all about.

A second sticking point lies in the terms for any negotiations. Hanoi has never really made it clear on the record whether it insists on U.S. acceptance of its four points as preconditions for talks.

President Johnson has offered unconditional discussions — including conferring on Hanoi's four points but on U.S. proposals, too.

THIRD PARTIES have hinted from time to time that North Viet Nam was willing to negotiate without preconditions. After following through on these "peace feelers," U.S. diplomats reported Hanoi was in fact demanding its four points as a sole basis for settlement.

Hanoi has been sticking to its four points since Johnson set forth his offer last April. His current peace offensive is probing for a change, at least in willingness to talk unconditionally.

Not an outstanding issue at this time is the question of elections — a point often raised elsewhere by critics by U.S. policy on Viet Nam.

Hanoi's four points contain no call for elections. The United States endorses elections in South Viet Nam. Free-choice elections are not allowed in the Communist North.

Through The Years

From The Review Files

New Interest

The solar system's smallest and fastest planet — Mercury — is arousing wide interest among astronomers.

Most scientists doubt that Mercury has life as known on earth, but they seem a little less sure now than they were a few years ago. They also seem somewhat more hopeful that astronauts may be able eventually to land on Mercury and explore it safely.

The fact remains, however, that little is known about Mercury, the National Geographic Society says. Radio astronomers recently upset the widely accepted belief that Mercury always keeps the same face to the sun.

The belief had seemed reasonable enough. Powerful land tides raised by the earth on the moon have so slowed the moon's rotation that it now always shows the same face to the earth. Mercury is less than a twentieth the size of the earth and only one-third as far from the sun as the earth is. Astronomers thought Mercury must surely be "locked" onto the sun the way the moon is locked onto the earth.

Old observations seemed to confirm the theory. For years textbooks have stated that Mercury revolves only once during the 88 earth-days it takes to complete a circuit around the sun.

In 1965, however, signals received by radio astronomers at Arecibo, Puerto Rico, indicated that Mercury turns on its axis once every 54 to 64 days.

Only Solution For India

Birth control is not a subject for abstract discussion but concrete necessity in India. Yet, because of the pervading ignorance of the Indian people there is little hope of progress in this generation. Starvation will continue.

Each year there are 12 million more mouths to feed in India. The ordinary Indian is poorly nourished, at best, getting less than the minimum total of calories for subsistence.

Food rationing has been in effect in some large cities and densely populated areas. It will go into effect in all large cities within a week.

President Johnson has accelerated the rate at which U.S. wheat is being shipped to India, in hope of minimizing the tragedy of famine. But in this respect, India is the prisoner of a monstrous paradox. The more food it gets, the closer it is to starvation.

This is because the only realistic population control in India is a high death rate. Anything that disturbs the grim equation between food supply and food demand accentuates the fact that India cannot feed itself.

When food is imported for famine relief, the net effect is to keep people alive who otherwise would die of hunger, making it certain there will be more mouths to feed from a chronically inadequate food supply.

The immediate cause of the food shortage is the worst drought of the century. Indians eat grain — wheat in the north, rice in the south. Estimates by New Delhi put the grain shortage at between three and 11 million tons. In a country already chronically hungry anything short of a bumper crop represents a disaster.

The government has switched emphasis from industrialization to agriculture, but this will have little effect unless population growth can be leveled off.

Only one thing could give Indians enough to eat — a crash program to stabilize the birth rate at a point which would make it possible for food supply to catch up to the oversupply of mouths to feed.

It Was Very Embarrassing

For all of us who have been morbidly curious about what the big men of political affairs talk about to their wives when day is done, the shade was lifted for a quick peep when Amintore Fanfani resigned as Italy's foreign minister because of an interview arranged by his wife.

The interview was with the foreign minister's friend Giorgio La Pira, recently in the news as the bearer of supposed peace feelers from North Viet Nam. The incident was intricately tied up in the maze of Italian politics, but its chief import is the foreign minister's declaration that his wife embarrassed him by her "improvident initiative."

What he meant was that she gave Professor La Pira a chance to say in an interview what she and presumably her husband knew he was going to say and none of it was flattering to The Establishment. Not only were unkind things said about Premier Aldo Moro but also about U.S. Secretary of State Rusk.

This left the Fanfani image as a loyal minister battered and besmirched. It left no doubt in Italian minds that the La Pira comments must have been just about what the Fanfani comments would have been if someone had been eavesdropping. It was very embarrassing.

Or, as President Johnson presumably observes on occasion to Lady Bird Johnson when the latest notable has departed and it's bedtime? "Bird, that maverick gives me the bloat. If I ever get close enough to drop a rope on him, I'm going to tie the critter to a cottonwood tree and let the coyotes scare him to death and that premier of his is no better. But don't quote me."

The remarks that must pass between a statesman and his missus when the lights are low!

Let's Make It Worthwhile

Periodic uproars over fox bounties in Ohio have no more long-range significance than the state's other periodic uproars.

But there is one angle to the fox bounty that intrigues Ohioans who consider payments of from $1 to $5 for a set of fox paws a hard way to earn money.

How did the master minds of an evolving civilization ever settle on the idea of paws as a certificate for collecting the bounty? It would seem that the problem of scalawagging all stems from this. Some committed a "fox paws."

Any scoundrel who would present fox paws from somewhere else to claim for a bounty he did not deserve to collect from a decent Ohio county would stoop to anything.

He might even cut off the ears and take them to Indiana to collect that state's ear bounty. He might use the fox tail to collect a bounty from somewhere else. There's only way to stop this sort of thing.

Make bounty hunters bring in the whole fox. Make them plop it down on the appropriate counter in a county court house before they can collect any bounty. Oblige them to leave it with county authorities as a token of faith. That would end bounty hunting as a potentially shady business.

Nothing could be potentially shady in the presence of a fox carcass. No moment of truth ever was more vivid, more indelibly etched, more illuminating and more memorable than Brother Fox in a moribund condition.

Letter From Max

By Martin Miller

Dear Truman Twill:

There are several writers and magazines that bug me because I cannot understand their high-flown language, but I may have the problem licked soon.

Years ago, a couple of young smart guys worked together to write fancy stuff. One would write out the material in ordinary words and the other would go through the dictionary and substitute big words for little words to make the writing sound highbrow.

My plan is to reverse this system. I am going to go through this mysterious writing and substitute little words for all the big ones and then maybe I can understand it.

Your stuff is usually clear to me, Twill.

An old-time lady movie fan was telling how she outsmarted those old thriller series when she was a child.

Five minutes before the end of an episode when the hero would be left hanging over a precipice or something, she would leave so as not to be too curious in case she could not make the theater the following week to see how it turned out.

Years later, to compensate for what she had missed in these movies serials, she went to a theater 18 weeks in a row just to see all the installments of a Lone Ranger serial.

Has it ever occurred to anybody that the Chinese may be willing to fight to the last Viet Cong? Hanoi papers please copy.

Every time I hear mention of William McChensey Martin Jr., chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, I am reminded of the time he entered the Army early in World War II, or just before.

He had been president of the New York Stock Exchange and the story went that in the Army some sergeant told him, "It's a good thing you got in the Army because you never could make a living on the outside."

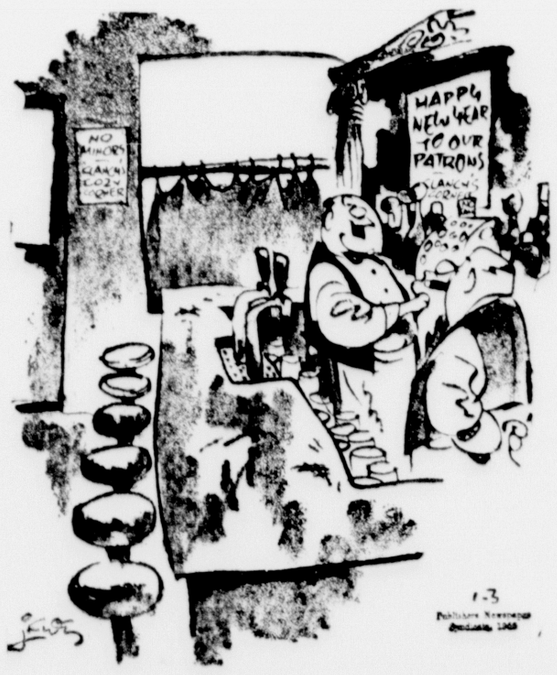

Sad to see that Republican leaders feel impelled to adopt a resolution advising members not to join "any radical or extremist organization, including any which attempt to use the Republican party for its own ends or any which seek to undermine the basic principles of American freedom and constitutional government."

Whatever can they be thinking of?

The Democrats may have had similar resolutions, but I can't remember any. For decades, the Democratic party has been notorious as a catch-all of divergent views, and also as a catch-all of most of the votes for national offices.

Just this last presidential election the Democrats had beatniks and bankers voting as one, along with most of the people in between those two different groups.

Faithfully yours,
MAX

Power Struggle

Poverty Act Stings City Hall

By David Wise

WASHINGTON

The nation's mayors, in a report that has seeped out here, have blasted President Johnson's multi-million dollar poverty program for "serious and continuing lack of coordination at the federal level."

Largely unnoticed was the ironical fact that the mayors, not an impoverished group by and large, wrote the stinging report with a $98,000 grant from the poverty program.

The United States conference of majors bit the hand of Sargent Shriver's Office of Economic Opportunity in a nine-page, blue covered document that accused OEO of fostering "confusion" and "administrative failure" by not channeling programs of various federal agencies through city hall-connected poverty boards. Furthermore, the mayors complained, the OEO was trying to dictate composition of the local boards.

The report was more hard evidence of the fact that the poverty program, now in its second year, is caught in a political crossfire between the nation's city halls and Washington. Whether the poor will benefit from all the shooting is another matter.

UNDERLYING THE CONFLICT are issues more subtle than the question of who will control the poverty pork barrel (the poverty budget is $1.5 billion this year).

What is at stake was well illustrated recently in Syracuse, N.Y., where the poverty skirmishing broke into open warfare.

Nine months ago, the OEO had handed $314,000 to Syracuse University for an experimental project in organizing the poor to better their lot.

It all sounded fine until Mayor William Walsh, a Republican found the poor marching on city hall to demand better garbage collection. The mayor reacted unkindly to the expenditure of federal funds to bug him.

He viewed the university organizers with even deeper suspicion when they launched a voter registration drive. He charged the university poverty warriors with organizing poor people to register as Democrats.

In Syracuse, the organizers helped form neighborhood councils representing 10,000 people. A picket line was thrown around a supermarket that employed no Negroes, welfare recipients were encouraged to press for cash payments and security guards were obtained for public housing projects.

THEN, SHRIVER'S OFFICE informed Dr. Warren Haggstrom, director of the university project, that it had turned down his request for a 15-month extension of the program. It gave him $110,000 for the next three months but told him to go to the local poverty board, on which city hall is represented, for any more funds.

The olive branch from Washington to the Syracuse City Hall could foreshadow a policy change that would channel most federal poverty money through the city hall boards. A spokesman for Shriver vigorously denied this was the case, and noted that the university project could appeal directly to the OEO if the city hall board in Syracuse turns down its request for more money.

Other officials in the poverty program said frankly that they didn't know whether the Syracuse case marked a major shift in policy or not. They said time and test cases in other cities over the next two months would tell.

The key to the conflict lies in the words contained in the Economic Opportunity Act of 1964, which established the program. The law specifies that there be "maximum feasible participation of residents of the areas and members of the groups served."

Some experts here consider those words the most significant social welfare development since the days of the New Deal. Although mayors and local political leaders were slow to get the idea, the phrase meant that the young men who put the program together for President Johnson were committed to organizing the poor politically to give them power as a group.

In plainer language, the mayors were telling Johnson and Shriver to stop handing out money to people who will use it to fight city hall.

Turmoil In The Kitchen Cabinet

By Douglas Kiker

Of course, everybody knew all about Lyndon Johnson's eating habits long before White House chef Rene Verdon resigned in anger recently.

On a normal day, he has hominy grits, red-eye gravy, fried fat-back, hoecake and six-shooter coffee for breakfast. For lunch it's fried catfish, hushpuppies, black-eyed peas and collard greens—with lots o' pot likker. And for dinner —what else? — barbecue, biscuits, and watermelon.

Right?

And now that a Texas lady named Mrs. Mary Kaltman has been named White House food coordinator, everybody has a pretty good idea of what future state dinners at 1600 Pennsylvania Avenue will be like.

WHY, MY DEAR, it's just going to be as gauche as all getout. The quality of the food is going to be just one cut or so above those horrid, frozen TV dinners. I mean, all the recipes are going to come out of those magazines you buy in supermarkets for a dime, aren't they? And the wine will be California sweet muscatel.

Right?

Right?

No, that's not right at all.

The Johnsons may not eat like Parisian gourmets, but they don't exactly eat like Southern sharecroppers, either. They eat like very well-off Americans, and most of the people in Darien and Westchester who are dismayed by Chef Verdon's departure would feel right at home at their table, sharing any meal.

MRS. KALTMAN is a Texan, sure enough. But her approach to food is not "Texan," in any sense. If it must be defined, it probably should be called "upper-middle class American," and lots of ladies who live in big white houses in Bryn Mawr and Grosse Pointe would love to know some of her recipes.

White House correspondents, who travel to Texas with Mr. Johnson the way they used to travel to Palm Beach with John Kennedy, used to kiss her hand in thanks for the menus she offered them when she was food director at Austin's Driskill Hotel.

No, the clash in the White House kitchen was not really one of cultures. It was one of temperament. M. Verdon is an artist of independent mien. Mrs. Kaltman — who as a lady of good taste no doubt recognizes his genius with a skillet — was under firm presidential order to bring better management to what really is a restaurant.

So M. Verdon is leaving and, according to Mrs. Johnson's press secretary, Mrs. Elizabeth Carpenter, a new, "very excellent" mystery chef already has been employed to take his place. No one knows whether or not he will be French, but he certainly will not be Texan. "He will be continental enough to suit the taste of all foreign guests," Mrs. Carpenter says.

MEANWHILE, in the spirit of the season, all this demands that we ask what about President Johnson? People keep saying he's got no style. He has lots of style. It is just that it is his own particular style, that's all.

After all, he wears Saville Row suits and shirts of a cotton so fine that they shine. He drinks tea for breakfast. The cocktail table at his Texas ranch is hewn from a tree in the Sherwood Forest and he has a big, gold watch, similarly foreign made and equally fine. He is, in fact, fairly classy in most respects.

But the White House is a haunted house. We listen vainly for the sound of Bach played on cellos and, not hearing it, imagine country guitars. We vaguely remember the low-throated laughter of high society ladies in low-cut gowns and not hearing it, imagine rural whoops. We taste, in the mouth of our mind, "quenelles de brochet" and delicate poached force-meat balls make of pike, and think we smell, instead, the scent of dreary, common cooking.

He really ought to put a sign out front which says, "John & Jacqueline Kennedy don't live here anymore. But we aren't all that bad."

Peace Stalemate

By Lewis Gulick

Hanoi Stand Prevents Parley

WASHINGTON

A couple of ingredients in Hanoi's four-point program on the Viet Nam war make it totally unacceptable to the United States. Until something changes on these, the two sides are not about to sit down at the conference table.

Point one of Hanoi's four calls, among other things, for a withdrawal of American forces from South Viet Nam and an end to their attacks on the North.

Point two stipulates neutrality for North and South Viet Nam — no foreign military alliances and no foreign bases or troops there.

Point four proposes peaceful reunification of the divided country to be settled by the Vietnamese people "without any foreign interference."

U.S. diplomats see plenty of room for reaching agreement on points 1, 2 and 4.

AS SECRETARY OF State Dean Rusk put it: "We have said that we want no bases in Southeast Asia. We have said that we do not wish to retain U.S. forces in South Viet Nam if there is peace. We have said that the question of reunification is something which the Vietnamese themselves can decide on their own free choice."

But Hanoi's point three is something else. It demands that "the internal affairs of South Viet Nam must be settled by the South Vietnamese people themselves in accordance with the National Liberation Front program, without any foreign interference."

Washington sees this as a demand for imposing the Communist, or "National Liberation Front," program on the South, which would amount to a Red takeover there. The United States is committed to prevent this and that is what the fighting is all about.

A second sticking point lies in the terms for any negotiations. Hanoi has never really made it clear on the record whether it insists on U.S. acceptance of its four points as preconditions for talks.

President Johnson has offered unconditional discussions — including conferring on Hanoi's four points but on U.S. proposals, too.

THIRD PARTIES have hinted from time to time that North Viet Nam was willing to negotiate without preconditions. After following through on these "peace feelers," U.S. diplomats reported Hanoi was in fact demanding its four points as a sole basis for settlement.

Hanoi has been sticking to its four points since Johnson set forth his offer last April. His current peace offensive is probing for a change, at least in willingness to talk unconditionally.

Not an outstanding issue at this time is the question of elections — a point often raised elsewhere by critics by U.S. policy on Viet Nam.

Hanoi's four points contain no call for elections. The United States endorses elections in South Viet Nam. Free-choice elections are not allowed in the Communist North.

Legislative Problem

Constitution Action Seen Modest In West Virginia

CHARLESTON (AP) — Hardly anyone close to the legislature expects the 1966 session to resurrect the constitutional convention act that was passed last year only to be nullified by a State Supreme Court decision.

Insiders think it more likely the lawmakers will restrict their constitutional revision activities to a modest effort by the familiar method of submitting amendments directly to West Virginia voters.

Four amendments taking this approach won approval by the required two-thirds majorities in the 1965 session. All that remains to be done to get the issues before the voters in the general election next November is passage of enabling acts by the 1966 session, which opens next week.

Enabling acts, requiring only simple majorities for legislative passage, cover the form and mechanics of placing amendments on the election ballot. One amendment that needs only this final step to clear it for a November ratification vote would permit a governor to serve two successive terms. The State Constitution now prohibits a governor from succeeding himself.

The fact that this is an election year partly explains the cooling of ardor to hold a constitutional convention. Constitutional revision by the convention method requires three elections. Many legislators are reluctant to entangle these with their own re-election campaigns.

Another important element is belief — grown considerably since a year ago — that much more missionary work is needed to sell the public on a convention.

Some of the strongest convention advocates — Gov. Hulett C. Smith among them — doubt that a convention proposal could win approval in a referendum in the near future.

The convention act passed by the 1965 legislature was in trouble even before the court threw it out. The West Virginia Farm Bureau was among groups opposing the proposed convention. In a personal appearance before the State Chamber of Commerce convention last summer, Gov. Smith struck out in an attempt to win a strong endorsement for holding a convention.

Smith still makes clear that he favors the convention method. But he is not pushing it as he was when it was a major part of his election campaign and one of his chief proposals to the 1965 legislature.

However, Smith's proclamation setting the limited agenda for the 30-day session this year leaves the legislature free to go either way. The language permits another try at a constitutional convention bill or completion of legislative action on the amendments that were approved last year.

The other amendments awaiting enabling acts would:

— Give the governor sole responsibility for preparing annual budget recommendations to the legislature, a duty he now share with fellow members of the Board of Public Works.

— Permit ratification votes on constitutional amendments either in special or general elections. At present, amendments submitted by the legislature may be put before the voters only in general elections.

— Let the legislature set the number of circuit judges for each of the state's 29 judicial circuits.

The judicial amendment, outgrowth of a between-sessions study by a special legislative committee, is intended as a step toward equalizing circuit court work loads. The Constitution now prescribes two judges for the Northern Panhandle's 1st Judicial Circuit and one judge each for the 28 other circuits.

Port In Canada Sets Ship Tonnage Record

HAMILTON, Ont. (AP) — The port of Hamilton has set a cargo tonnage record for the sixth consecutive year with more than 10 million tons moved in 1965.

Joseph Lanza, chairman of the Hamilton harbor commissioners, said the final tally for the year is not yet complete but the total was at least 913,000 tons more than the 1964 record. It was also the largest increase since the St. Lawrence Seaway opened in 1959, he said.

Negroes Gain More Power In Political Scene Over Ohio

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Negro voice in Ohio politics is getting stronger, bolstered by recent city elections and the prospect of new legislative districts.

Negro leaders predict more Negroes will vote, run for office and get elected in Ohio this year than ever before.

They base the predictions on the narrow defeat by state Rep. Carl B. Stokes in Cleveland's mayor's race, election of Negro commissioners in Dayton and Springfield and legislative reapportionment which seems likely to give more representation to Negro areas.

"This has given new hope to young Negroes all over the country, as well as given the public a new reservoir of talent on which to draw," Stokes said of his 2,000-vote loss to Mayor Ralph Locher.

This feeling is shared by Robert C. Henry, of Springfield, who tonight may become the first Negro ever elected mayor of a large city, and Don L. Crawford, Dayton's first Negro commissioner who ran second in a five-man race last November.

Henry was the top vote-getter in Springfield's city election. Traditionally that means election as mayor. The city commission meets tonight to formally designate one of its members for the largely ceremonial office, with indications Henry will be chosen.

But arithmetic makes it clear that any Negro seeking a major city or statewide office will need white support. Only about one-tenth of Ohio's five million eligible voters are non-white. They are clustered mainly in the major cities.

It is in the urban areas that Negroes stand to gain most from legislative reapportionment in the 1966 elections. The reapportionment plan made separate districts of predominantly Negro neighborhoods which previously had their vote absorbed by white pluralities in county-wide races.

Some observers say Negroes will be able to win 12-15 House seats and three to four in the Senate. The House will have 99 members, the Senate 33.

In Dayton, for instance, the winner in the 88th House district "certainly will be a Negro," said Republican Rep. David D. Albritton of Dayton, one of two Negro House members in the last Legislature. He feels reapportionment "certainly will mean more Negores" in the legislature.

In Cleveland, traditionally a Democratic stronghold, Republicans see new hope in the support given Stokes.

For the first time "it is possible to elect five Negroes to the House and possible two to the Senate," said Richard L. Gunn, chairman of a GOP committee to find Negro candidates.

Five of the new Cuyahoga County House districts have a majority of wards with a heavy Negro vote. Negro voting is 50 per cent in one senatorial district, slightly less than that in two others.

Negroes already have made significant inroads on the political scene, through the civil rights movement and individual performance. Now Negro leaders cite a growing awareness of Negroes to voting rights, acceptance and support by whites of Negro officeholders and availability of more government talent among Negroes.

Stokes called his Cleveland race proof "not only will white people work with and for a Negro candidate, but they will vote for him if he is best qualified."

Some observers did not agree with certain conclusions drawn by Stokes. They contend he received only about 5.5 per cent of the white vote while receiving virtually solid Negro support.

But the Cleveland Plain Dealer commented, "it all adds up to growing political power for the Negro in Cleveland."

Officers Locate 2 Missing Autos

Two cars stolen New Year's Eve or early New Year's Day were recovered later Saturday by police.

The 1962 Corvair of Gary Bowersock of Lisbon R. D. 2 stolen from the Horn Switch between 10:15 p. m. Friday and 1:30 a. m. Saturday, was located by Patrolman Orin C. Smith early Saturday afternoon on Price St. Ext.

There was very minor damage to the right front fender, the officer said.

The 1957 auto which Thomas McDonough, 118 W. 4th St., reported missing at 5 a. m. Saturday was found the same afternoon on Minerva St. by Capt. R. B. Pyle and Patrolman Paul Burson Jr.

Jaycee Reservations Requested By Jan. 12

The deadline for reservations for the annual Jaycee Bosses Night dinner has been set for Jan. 12, according to Edward Massey Jr., chairman.

Reservations may be mailed with checks or money orders in full payment to Post Office Box 723. Massey said the guests are asked to pay in advance in order to eliminate confusion at the dinner. Some 200 are expected to attend. Lou Groza, place-kicking specialist of the Cleveland Browns, will be speaker.

The highlight of the dinner will be the presentation of the "Distinguished Service Award" and the "Civic Service Award." The DSA is given to a man under 35 while the CSA is given to a man over 35.

Selection of the winners is made by anonymous committees appointed by Vincent Laneve, president.

Legislative Problem

Constitution Action Seen Modest In West Virginia

CHARLESTON (AP) — Hardly anyone close to the legislature expects the 1966 session to resurrect the constitutional convention act that was passed last year only to be nullified by a State Supreme Court decision.

Insiders think it more likely the lawmakers will restrict their constitutional revision activities to a modest effort by the familiar method of submitting amendments directly to West Virginia voters.

Four amendments taking this approach won approval by the required two-thirds majorities in the 1965 session. All that remains to be done to get the issues before the voters in the general election next November is passage of enabling acts by the 1966 session, which opens next week.

Enabling acts, requiring only simple majorities for legislative passage, cover the form and mechanics of placing amendments on the election ballot. One amendment that needs only this final step to clear it for a November ratification vote would permit a governor to serve two successive terms. The State Constitution now prohibits a governor from succeeding himself.

The fact that this is an election year partly explains the cooling of ardor to hold a constitutional convention. Constitutional revision by the convention method requires three elections. Many legislators are reluctant to entangle these with their own re-election campaigns.

Another important element is belief — grown considerably since a year ago — that much more missionary work is needed to sell the public on a convention.

Some of the strongest convention advocates — Gov. Hulett C. Smith among them — doubt that a convention proposal could win approval in a referendum in the near future.

The convention act passed by the 1965 legislature was in trouble even before the court threw it out. The West Virginia Farm Bureau was among groups opposing the proposed convention. In a personal appearance before the State Chamber of Commerce convention last summer, Gov. Smith struck out in an attempt to win a strong endorsement for holding a convention.

Smith still makes clear that he favors the convention method. But he is not pushing it as he was when it was a major part of his election campaign and one of his chief proposals to the 1965 legislature.

However, Smith's proclamation setting the limited agenda for the 30-day session this year leaves the legislature free to go either way. The language permits another try at a constitutional convention bill or completion of legislative action on the amendments that were approved last year.

The other amendments awaiting enabling acts would:

— Give the governor sole responsibility for preparing annual budget recommendations to the legislature, a duty he now share with fellow members of the Board of Public Works.

— Permit ratification votes on constitutional amendments either in special or general elections. At present, amendments submitted by the legislature may be put before the voters only in general elections.

— Let the legislature set the number of circuit judges for each of the state's 29 judicial circuits.

The judicial amendment, outgrowth of a between-sessions study by a special legislative committee, is intended as a step toward equalizing circuit court work loads. The Constitution now prescribes two judges for the Northern Panhandle's 1st Judicial Circuit and one judge each for the 28 other circuits.

Port In Canada Sets Ship Tonnage Record

HAMILTON, Ont. (AP) — The port of Hamilton has set a cargo tonnage record for the sixth consecutive year with more than 10 million tons moved in 1965.

Joseph Lanza, chairman of the Hamilton harbor commissioners, said the final tally for the year is not yet complete but the total was at least 913,000 tons more than the 1964 record. It was also the largest increase since the St. Lawrence Seaway opened in 1959, he said.

Negroes Gain More Power In Political Scene Over Ohio

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Negro voice in Ohio politics is getting stronger, bolstered by recent city elections and the prospect of new legislative districts.

Negro leaders predict more Negroes will vote, run for office and get elected in Ohio this year than ever before.

They base the predictions on the narrow defeat by state Rep. Carl B. Stokes in Cleveland's mayor's race, election of Negro commissioners in Dayton and Springfield and legislative reapportionment which seems likely to give more representation to Negro areas.

"This has given new hope to young Negroes all over the country, as well as given the public a new reservoir of talent on which to draw," Stokes said of his 2,000-vote loss to Mayor Ralph Locher.

This feeling is shared by Robert C. Henry, of Springfield, who tonight may become the first Negro ever elected mayor of a large city, and Don L. Crawford, Dayton's first Negro commissioner who ran second in a five-man race last November.

Henry was the top vote-getter in Springfield's city election. Traditionally that means election as mayor. The city commission meets tonight to formally designate one of its members for the largely ceremonial office, with indications Henry will be chosen.

But arithmetic makes it clear that any Negro seeking a major city or statewide office will need white support. Only about one-tenth of Ohio's five million eligible voters are non-white. They are clustered mainly in the major cities.

It is in the urban areas that Negroes stand to gain most from legislative reapportionment in the 1966 elections. The reapportionment plan made separate districts of predominantly Negro neighborhoods which previously had their vote absorbed by white pluralities in county-wide races.

Some observers say Negroes will be able to win 12-15 House seats and three to four in the Senate. The House will have 99 members, the Senate 33.

In Dayton, for instance, the winner in the 88th House district "certainly will be a Negro," said Republican Rep. David D. Albritton of Dayton, one of two Negro House members in the last Legislature. He feels reapportionment "certainly will mean more Negores" in the legislature.

In Cleveland, traditionally a Democratic stronghold, Republicans see new hope in the support given Stokes.

For the first time "it is possible to elect five Negroes to the House and possible two to the Senate," said Richard L. Gunn, chairman of a GOP committee to find Negro candidates.

Five of the new Cuyahoga County House districts have a majority of wards with a heavy Negro vote. Negro voting is 50 per cent in one senatorial district, slightly less than that in two others.

Negroes already have made significant inroads on the political scene, through the civil rights movement and individual performance. Now Negro leaders cite a growing awareness of Negroes to voting rights, acceptance and support by whites of Negro officeholders and availability of more government talent among Negroes.

Stokes called his Cleveland race proof "not only will white people work with and for a Negro candidate, but they will vote for him if he is best qualified."

Some observers did not agree with certain conclusions drawn by Stokes. They contend he received only about 5.5 per cent of the white vote while receiving virtually solid Negro support.

But the Cleveland Plain Dealer commented, "it all adds up to growing political power for the Negro in Cleveland."

Officers Locate 2 Missing Autos

Two cars stolen New Year's Eve or early New Year's Day were recovered later Saturday by police.

The 1962 Corvair of Gary Bowersock of Lisbon R. D. 2 stolen from the Horn Switch between 10:15 p. m. Friday and 1:30 a. m. Saturday, was located by Patrolman Orin C. Smith early Saturday afternoon on Price St. Ext.

There was very minor damage to the right front fender, the officer said.

The 1957 auto which Thomas McDonough, 118 W. 4th St., reported missing at 5 a. m. Saturday was found the same afternoon on Minerva St. by Capt. R. B. Pyle and Patrolman Paul Burson Jr.

Jaycee Reservations Requested By Jan. 12

The deadline for reservations for the annual Jaycee Bosses Night dinner has been set for Jan. 12, according to Edward Massey Jr., chairman.

Reservations may be mailed with checks or money orders in full payment to Post Office Box 723. Massey said the guests are asked to pay in advance in order to eliminate confusion at the dinner. Some 200 are expected to attend. Lou Groza, place-kicking specialist of the Cleveland Browns, will be speaker.

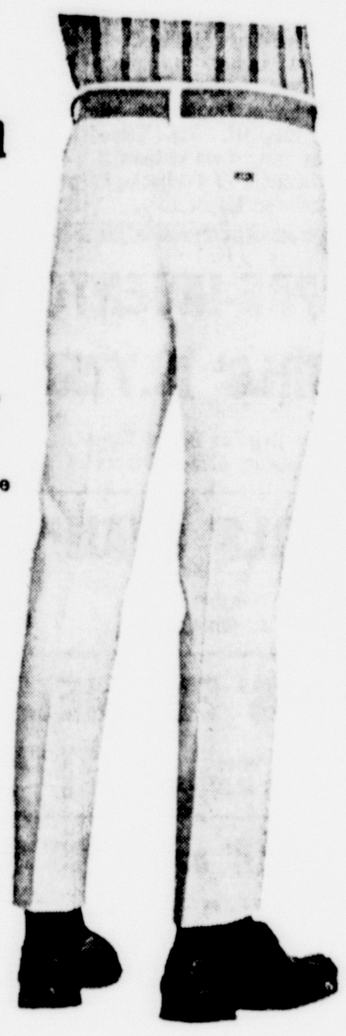

The highlight of the dinner will be the presentation of the "Distinguished Service Award" and the "Civic Service Award." The DSA is given to a man under 35 while the CSA is given to a man over 35.

Selection of the winners is made by anonymous committees appointed by Vincent Laneve, president.

DIAMOND INVESTMENTS

I'm often asked about the use of diamonds for investment purposes. Throughout history, the people in Europe and Asia have kept much of their wealth in precious gems. In time of trouble, their easily transportable diamonds and other jewels made the difference between poverty and comfort when they had to make their home in a new area.

In this century, with our more stable government, this is not a major consideration in owning diamonds. Rather, the pleasure, pride of ownership, and delight in their beauty has made many of our citizens invest in fine gems. For another thing, there is no sliding scale of automatic depreciation on precious gems, as there is on furs, automobiles and other perishable luxury items.

If one is interested in monetary comparison, it can be said that a fine diamond purchased around World War I or in the 20's would now realize as much or more than its original purchase price. As an investment, what other commodity is there that could be in constant use for such a long period of time, maintain all its charm and beauty and still be worth more today?

The key to buying diamonds, of course, is in getting the best quality gem for the price you pay. As members of the American Gem Society, we are always ready to advise you on the fine points of diamond evaluation, in accordance with the Society's standards and rules. Please stop in at any time to see our fine collection of diamonds, and learn about the 4C's of diamond pricing.

War Cost Won't Trim Welfare, Aide Reports

WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite the rising costs of the Viet Nam war, 1966 will not be a slowdown year for welfare spending, says Secretary of Welfare John W. Gardner.

Interviewed on NBC's radio-television program "Meet the Press," Gardner said most of the Great Society programs will cost more money in 1966 than last year. He said, however, that because of the war some of the increases will be trimmed slightly.

Death Claims 6th Husband Of Late Marie McDonald

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Just five days ago, the coroner's office ruled that actress Marie McDonald's death was accidental, not probable suicide.

Sunday, a friend found the body of her sixth husband, movie producer Donald F. Taylor, 47, a few feet from the bedroom dressing table where Taylor had found the body of the 42-year-old actress Oct. 21.

The verdict was the same as the first delivered in Miss McDonald's death.

The coroner said Thursday that a "suicide team" of consulting psychologists and psychiatrists had reviewed Miss McDonald's life and ruled her death accidental. The cause, said the coroner, was "drug intoxication due to multiple drugs."

Taylor's body was discovered by William Baile, 22, of Hidden Hills, who had come to visit Taylor with Denise Karl, 15. Denise was Miss McDonald's daughter by her former marriage to shoe magnate Harry Karl. She lives with Karl and his present wife, actress Debbie Reynolds.

Miss Barbara Anne Raley, Ensign McMahan Wed

Miss Barbara Anne Raley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Raley of Lisbon R. D. 5, became the bride of Ensign Robert Charles McMahan, U.S. Naval Reserve, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. McMahan of 734 Cambridge Ave., Youngstown, at 7:30 o'clock Tuesday night at the Methodist Church in Rogers.

The Rev. Paul Sells performed the candlelight double-ring ceremony before the altar setting in seasonal greens and white poinsettias. Mrs. Glenn Baker was soloist, accompanied by Mrs. Richard Moore.

THE BRIDE was given in marriage by her father. Her gown of ivory peau de soie, fashioned with a fitted bodice, appliqued with alencon lace and tiny pearl clusters, had a scoop neckline and elbow - length sleeves. Motifs of the lace accented the sheath skirt front and the Watteau chapel - length train. A crown of alencon lace embellished with tiny pearls held her bouffant veil of illusion tulle and she carried a bouquet arrangement of white carnations, centered by a white orchid.

Miss Jane Raley, sister of the bride, served as maid of honor and Miss Rebecca Cooper was her cousin's bridesmaid. Their identical gowns of emerald green velveteen were designed with a modified empire bodice, elbow - length sleeves and bell - shaped floor-length skirts. They wore matching Dior bows and carried cascade bouquets of off - white carnations and gladioli.

William L. Lyder served as best man. Ushers were Russell Wise and Gene Dawson, brothers-in-law of the bridegroom.

The bride's mother was attired in a two - piece ensemble of royal blue with matching accessories. The bridegroom's mother wore a cranberry red crepe dress, matching accessories and each wore a corsage of white carnations.

A RECEPTION was held following the ceremony in the church fellowship rooms, with guests present from New Jersey, Virginia and Ohio.

Johnson Fit, Prepared To Resume Work

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson shifted his base of operations back to the White House today, convinced he's once again in good shape and ready to face the heavy work load ahead.

To the unscientific eye of a newsman, Johnson looks and acts much as he did before his Oct. 8 gall bladder-kidney stone operation — except that he has shed a lot of weight. The weight loss is all to the good in Burkley's opinion.

Reporters who were invited to the LBJ Ranch in Texas Sunday to be served eggnog, coffee, cookies and candy by the President and Mrs. Johnson could detect no evidence of his earlier discomfort when he moved slowly, deliberately.

He walked with an easy stride around the ranch lawn, chatting informally with reporters and photographers and joshing some of his guests. He seemed to be in fine spirits.

Johnson had predicted a few weeks after surgery that he would be back at normal operating strength by the start of 1966.

His spirits and health appeared equally good earlier in the day when he attended services at St. Barnabas Episcopal Church in Fredericksburg, some 15 miles from the ranch.

In addition to directing his Viet Nam peace envoys scattered around the world, Johnson still has to finish work on the "big three" messages — State of the Union, budget aand economic report — to the next session of Congress beinning Jn. 10.

While Burkley or another White House doctor gives the President at least an eye-once-over every day, his last head-to-toe physical was Dec. 30.

Afterward, Burkley reported through assistant press secretary Joseph Laitin, "there is no indication of any deviation from normal."

Contrasted with his preoperation weight of about 220 pounds, Johnson's present weight is in the 191-192 area. Burkley likes it at that level.

Celebration Chairman Named For Wellsville

DIAMOND INVESTMENTS

I'm often asked about the use of diamonds for investment purposes. Throughout history, the people in Europe and Asia have kept much of their wealth in precious gems. In time of trouble, their easily transportable diamonds and other jewels made the difference between poverty and comfort when they had to make their home in a new area.

In this century, with our more stable government, this is not a major consideration in owning diamonds. Rather, the pleasure, pride of ownership, and delight in their beauty has made many of our citizens invest in fine gems. For another thing, there is no sliding scale of automatic depreciation on precious gems, as there is on furs, automobiles and other perishable luxury items.

If one is interested in monetary comparison, it can be said that a fine diamond purchased around World War I or in the 20's would now realize as much or more than its original purchase price. As an investment, what other commodity is there that could be in constant use for such a long period of time, maintain all its charm and beauty and still be worth more today?

The key to buying diamonds, of course, is in getting the best quality gem for the price you pay. As members of the American Gem Society, we are always ready to advise you on the fine points of diamond evaluation, in accordance with the Society's standards and rules. Please stop in at any time to see our fine collection of diamonds, and learn about the 4C's of diamond pricing.

War Cost Won't Trim Welfare, Aide Reports

WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite the rising costs of the Viet Nam war, 1966 will not be a slowdown year for welfare spending, says Secretary of Welfare John W. Gardner.

Interviewed on NBC's radio-television program "Meet the Press," Gardner said most of the Great Society programs will cost more money in 1966 than last year. He said, however, that because of the war some of the increases will be trimmed slightly.

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Just five days ago, the coroner's office ruled that actress Marie McDonald's death was accidental, not probable suicide.

Sunday, a friend found the body of her sixth husband, movie producer Donald F. Taylor, 47, a few feet from the bedroom dressing table where Taylor had found the body of the 42-year-old actress Oct. 21.

The verdict was the same as the first delivered in Miss McDonald's death.

The coroner said Thursday that a "suicide team" of consulting psychologists and psychiatrists had reviewed Miss McDonald's life and ruled her death accidental. The cause, said the coroner, was "drug intoxication due to multiple drugs."

Taylor's body was discovered by William Baile, 22, of Hidden Hills, who had come to visit Taylor with Denise Karl, 15. Denise was Miss McDonald's daughter by her former marriage to shoe magnate Harry Karl. She lives with Karl and his present wife, actress Debbie Reynolds.

THE BRIDE was given in marriage by her father. Her gown of ivory peau de soie, fashioned with a fitted bodice, appliqued with alencon lace and tiny pearl clusters, had a scoop neckline and elbow - length sleeves. Motifs of the lace accented the sheath skirt front and the Watteau chapel - length train. A crown of alencon lace embellished with tiny pearls held her bouffant veil of illusion tulle and she carried a bouquet arrangement of white carnations, centered by a white orchid.

Miss Jane Raley, sister of the bride, served as maid of honor and Miss Rebecca Cooper was her cousin's bridesmaid. Their identical gowns of emerald green velveteen were designed with a modified empire bodice, elbow - length sleeves and bell - shaped floor-length skirts. They wore matching Dior bows and carried cascade bouquets of off - white carnations and gladioli.

William L. Lyder served as best man. Ushers were Russell Wise and Gene Dawson, brothers-in-law of the bridegroom.

The bride's mother was attired in a two - piece ensemble of royal blue with matching accessories. The bridegroom's mother wore a cranberry red crepe dress, matching accessories and each wore a corsage of white carnations.

A RECEPTION was held following the ceremony in the church fellowship rooms, with guests present from New Jersey, Virginia and Ohio.

MRS. ROBERT McMAHAN

New York Probe Due On Yule Mail Rackets

NEW YORK (AP) — State Atty. Gen. Louis J. Lefkowitz says his office has received a "virtual avalanche of complaints" about unordered merchandise received during the Christmas season by residents of the New York City metopolitan area.

He said the complaints had prompted him to order a study "as to what action might be taken to ban this racket in New York State."

Johnson Fit, Prepared To Resume Work

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson shifted his base of operations back to the White House today, convinced he's once again in good shape and ready to face the heavy work load ahead.

To the unscientific eye of a newsman, Johnson looks and acts much as he did before his Oct. 8 gall bladder-kidney stone operation — except that he has shed a lot of weight. The weight loss is all to the good in Burkley's opinion.

Reporters who were invited to the LBJ Ranch in Texas Sunday to be served eggnog, coffee, cookies and candy by the President and Mrs. Johnson could detect no evidence of his earlier discomfort when he moved slowly, deliberately.

He walked with an easy stride around the ranch lawn, chatting informally with reporters and photographers and joshing some of his guests. He seemed to be in fine spirits.

Johnson had predicted a few weeks after surgery that he would be back at normal operating strength by the start of 1966.

His spirits and health appeared equally good earlier in the day when he attended services at St. Barnabas Episcopal Church in Fredericksburg, some 15 miles from the ranch.

In addition to directing his Viet Nam peace envoys scattered around the world, Johnson still has to finish work on the "big three" messages — State of the Union, budget aand economic report — to the next session of Congress beinning Jn. 10.

While Burkley or another White House doctor gives the President at least an eye-once-over every day, his last head-to-toe physical was Dec. 30.

Afterward, Burkley reported through assistant press secretary Joseph Laitin, "there is no indication of any deviation from normal."

Dennis Dailey was best man and Mrs. William Spooner was matron of honor. A reception followed at the Spooner home for the immediate families.

Hints from Heloise

– By Heloise Cruse –

Dear Heloise: I keep a pretty wicker basket at the foot of the stairway, and another one by the top landing.

Articles to be taken upstairs are put in the basket at the bottom, and items to be brought down are put in the one at the top.

Each member of the family checks the baskets to see if there is anything to be taken up or down with him.

This eliminates many unnecessary steps.

MRS. J. C. MOORE.

-:-

I think this idea is wonderful, and can be used by all households that have an upstairs, or those with a basement.

What's left in the baskets (and that should be very little —if Mon has taught each member of the family to do his part) could be put away by the backbone of the home. . . . "Mother."

ANOTHER MOTHER.

DEAR HELOISE: When painting floors (porch floor, for instance), I nailed a three-foot stick on the three-inch paint brush, and now I do not have to kneel down on the floor to paint, except at the corners and near the walls.

GRANDMA PERKINS.

DEAR HELOISE: This may sound like a letter of laughter but it really works.

Ever find yourself without those little plastic sticks we put in our rollers when fixing hair?

I lose more than I can afford to buy, so I got a box of round toothpicks!

They are the same size as the sticks.

FAITHFUL READER.

DEAR HELOISE: I save all the steak juices and put them in a container in the freezer; then, when I have a roast of beef, I use the juice along with the roast gravy.

Yummy! Plus, it gives me more gravy, as there never seems to be enough.

MARGE.

Well, what do you know? That steak juice would also be wonderful used as part of the liquid when cooking egg noodles, soups, etc., wouldn't it?

HELOISE.

DEAR HELOISE: If you hang clothes on an extension pole across the back seat of your auto, alternate the directions of the hangers.

Place the first hanger so that the hook points toward you, the next one so that the hook points away from you.

This will not only make it extremely difficult for even an experienced thief to steal your travel wardrobe, but as the clothes rub against each other, in opposite directions, they won't fall off the hangers.

DEAR HELOISE: I suppose everyone has a "fright closet" in the basement, where miscellaneous items are stored.

When you want something, it is invariably behind all the other items.

But mine are different — it's all in the training — mine come running to me!

I store my little-used items in wooden orange crates which have had casters attached. (One could label contents on the end of each box.)

I merely reach out, crook my finger, give a little pull, and the box comes running to me.

LAURA McGREW.

DEAR HELOISE: If you want cuffless work pants (which are safer and cleaner than the cuffed ones), buy the next size shorter, and let the cuff down.

They are fastened in only two spots at the seams. It takes only about a minute to snip these threads, and the pants are hemmed with a nice, wide hem, and require no sewing or fitting.

MAE AKELEWICZ.

Heloise welcomes all mail, especially household hints which she can pass on to readers as space permits. However, because of the tremendous volume of mail she receives daily, Heloise is unable to answer all individual letters. She will answer readers' questions in her column whenever possible.

Blatt Eyes Pennsylvania Race For Governor Post

HARRISBURG (AP) — A woman governor of Pennsylvania?

This question vaulted into the political limelight over the week end with an announcement by Miss Genevieve Blatt that she is available as a candidate for governor on the Democratic ticket.

Miss Blatt, serving her third four-year term as state secretary of internal affairs, said in a New Year's Day statement:

"I have decided to announce my availability as a candidate for governor. Nominating petitions will be circulated as soon as possible and they will be filed if the response is sufficiently encouraging."

A gubernatorial election will be held in Pennsylvania this November. Gov. Scranton, a Republican, is prohibited by law from succeeding himself.

Political "firsts" are nothing new to Miss Blat. 52. When elected internal affairs secretary in 1954, she became the first woman in Pennsylvania to win state-wide office.

In 1964 the state Democratic organization picked State Supreme Court Justice Michael A. Musmanno as its choice for a candidate for the U.S. senate.

Miss Blatt refused to go along with this, staged a bitter primary fight with Musmanno and won. But she lost in the general election to U.S. Sen. Hugh Scott, the incumbent.

Miss Blatt, a native of East Brady, said in her statement that she felt as qualified as any gubernatorial candidate.

"I shall be glad to hear now from anyone who shares my hope for the strongest possible ticket for the Democratic party and the best possible government for Pennsylvania," she added.

Informed of her intentions, U.S. Sen. Joseph S. Clark, a long-time political ally of Miss Blatt, said:

"Her candidacy should be taken very seriously. She is one of the very best Democratic vote-getters in the state. I have no candidate on or off the record."

Also being mentioned for the Democratic gubernatorial candidacy are former Gov. George M. Leader, Pittsburgh Mayor Joseph M. Barr, State Sen. Robert Casey, Rep. Thomas E. Morgan and Philip P. Kalodner of Montgomery County, a former state deputy attorney general.

6 Children Watch As Their Parents Slay Each Other

JACKSON, Ohio (AP) — Six children, the evident crux of the quarrel that led to the tragedy, reportedly watched as their parents fell victim to a double-fatal shooting Sunday.

Authorities said the deaths of Mr. and Mrs. George Frey at their rural home near Ray in northern Jackson County were murder and suicide.

Evelyn Mae Frey, 30, was shot in the head. Her husband, 42, was shot in the chest.

Before he died, sheriff's deputies said, he told them:

"I shot myself. She was going to take my kids."

Mrs. Frey was outside with the children, leaving the house, when her husband got out a .410-gauge shotgun, officers were told.

After she was shot, she was carried about 100 feet uphill to where a trail of blood ended at the family car.

There deputies found Mrs. Frey lying alongside the auto, one leg inside the front door. Frey lay nearby.

He was taken to Chillicothe Hospital, where he died several hours later.

Bus Driver Credited With Rescues In Fire

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Flames were pouring from the top of a three-story apartment building on Pittsburgh's North Side.

It was 8 a.m. Sunday morning and no one was about. But police said a bus driver bound from Pittsburgh to Detroit spotted the fire and probably averted a tragedy.

John C. Olliffe of suburban Ross Twp. stopped his bus, gave an alarm and then raced through the building waking up more than a score of residents.

No one was injured. Damage was estimated at $15,000.

Steel Anticipates High Output For Industry In '66

CLEVELAND (AP) — Steelmakers will produce about 130 million ingot tons this year, and ship around 87 million product tons, Steel Magazine reported today.

While production will be slightly less than in 1965, when 131 million ingot tons were produced and 92 million product tons shipped, the metalworking weekly said 1966 should be one of the industry's best years.

"Consumption—the best measure of the steel industry's vitality — will rise. It should be around 95 million tons compared to 92 million in 1965, 83.5 million in 1964 and 77.5 million in 1963," the magazine said.

Steel said military requirements are developing in greater-than-anticipated volume as the Viet Nam situation continues.

"At the same time," Steel said, "business expansion is expected to continue despite higher interest rates on capital investment.

"Also, while the automakers still hold large strike hedge stocks, they are ordering fill-in and February delivery tonnage."

Steel reported an order-entry increase, saying some steelmakers have order entries running as much as 20 per cent above the pace a month ago.

Hints from Heloise

-- By Heloise Cruse --

Dear Heloise: I keep a pretty wicker basket at the foot of the stairway, and another one by the top landing.

Articles to be taken upstairs are put in the basket at the bottom, and items to be brought down are put in the one at the top.

Each member of the family checks the baskets to see if there is anything to be taken up or down with him.

This eliminates many unnecessary steps.

MRS. J. C. MOORE.

-:-

I think this idea is wonderful, and can be used by all households that have an upstairs, or those with a basement.

What's left in the baskets (and that should be very little —if Mon has taught each member of the family to do his part) could be put away by the backbone of the home. . . . "Mother."

ANOTHER MOTHER.

DEAR HELOISE: When painting floors (porch floor, for instance), I nailed a three-foot stick on the three-inch paint brush, and now I do not have to kneel down on the floor to paint, except at the corners and near the walls.

GRANDMA PERKINS.

DEAR HELOISE: This may sound like a letter of laughter but it really works.

Ever find yourself without those little plastic sticks we put in our rollers when fixing hair?

I lose more than I can afford to buy, so I got a box of round toothpicks!

They are the same size as the sticks.

FAITHFUL READER.

DEAR HELOISE: I save all the steak juices and put them in a container in the freezer; then, when I have a roast of beef, I use the juice along with the roast gravy.

Yummy! Plus, it gives me more gravy, as there never seems to be enough.

MARGE.

Well, what do you know? That steak juice would also be wonderful used as part of the liquid when cooking egg noodles, soups, etc., wouldn't it?

HELOISE.

DEAR HELOISE: If you hang clothes on an extension pole across the back seat of your auto, alternate the directions of the hangers.

Place the first hanger so that the hook points toward you, the next one so that the hook points away from you.

This will not only make it extremely difficult for even an experienced thief to steal your travel wardrobe, but as the clothes rub against each other, in opposite directions, they won't fall off the hangers.

DEAR HELOISE: I suppose everyone has a "fright closet" in the basement, where miscellaneous items are stored.

When you want something, it is invariably behind all the other items.

But mine are different — it's all in the training — mine come running to me!

I store my little-used items in wooden orange crates which have had casters attached. (One could label contents on the end of each box.)

I merely reach out, crook my finger, give a little pull, and the box comes running to me.

They are lined up like carts in a super market . . . sure makes a neat closet.

LAURA McGREW.

DEAR HELOISE: If you want cuffless work pants (which are safer and cleaner than the cuffed ones), buy the next size shorter, and let the cuff down.

They are fastened in only two spots at the seams. It takes only about a minute to snip these threads, and the pants are hemmed with a nice, wide hem, and require no sewing or fitting.

MAE AKELEWICZ.

Heloise welcomes all mail, especially household hints which she can pass on to readers as space permits. However, because of the tremendous volume of mail she receives daily, Heloise is unable to answer all individual letters. She will answer readers' questions in her column whenever possible.

Blatt Eyes Pennsylvania Race For Governor Post

HARRISBURG (AP) — A woman governor of Pennsylvania?

This question vaulted into the political limelight over the week end with an announcement by Miss Genevieve Blatt that she is available as a candidate for governor on the Democratic ticket.

Miss Blatt, serving her third four-year term as state secretary of internal affairs, said in a New Year's Day statement:

"I have decided to announce my availability as a candidate for governor. Nominating petitions will be circulated as soon as possible and they will be filed if the response is sufficiently encouraging."

A gubernatorial election will be held in Pennsylvania this November. Gov. Scranton, a Republican, is prohibited by law from succeeding himself.

Political "firsts" are nothing new to Miss Blat, 52. When elected internal affairs secretary in 1954, she became the first woman in Pennsylvania to win state-wide office.

In 1964 the state Democratic organization picked State Supreme Court Justice Michael A. Musmanno as its choice for a candidate for the U.S. senate.

Miss Blatt refused to go along with this, staged a bitter primary fight with Musmanno and won. But she lost in the general election to U.S. Sen. Hugh Scott, the incumbent.

Miss Blatt, a native of East Brady, said in her statement that she felt as qualified as any gubernatorial candidate.

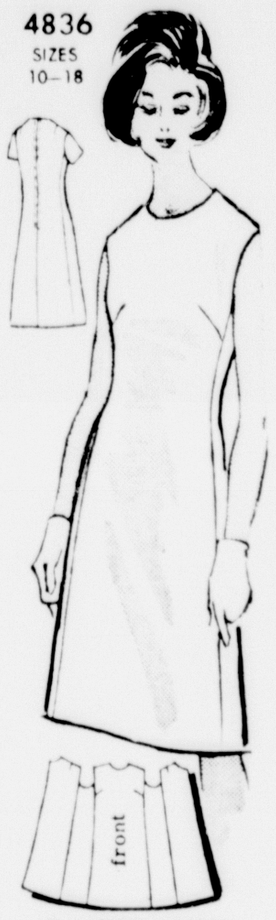

"I shall be glad to hear now from anyone who shares my hope for the strongest possible ticket for the Democratic party and the best possible government for Pennsylvania," she added.

Informed of her intentions, U.S. Sen. Joseph S. Clark, a long-time political ally of Miss Blatt, said:

"Her candidacy should be taken very seriously. She is one of the very best Democratic vote-getters in the state. I have no candidate on or off the record."

Also being mentioned for the Democratic gubernatorial candidacy are former Gov. George M. Leader, Pittsburgh Mayor Joseph M. Barr, State Sen. Robert Casey, Rep. Thomas E. Morgan and Philip P. Kalodner of Montgomery County, a former state deputy attorney general.

6 Children Watch As Their Parents Slay Each Other

JACKSON, Ohio (AP) — Six children, the evident crux of the quarrel that led to the tragedy, reportedly watched as their parents fell victim to a double-fatal shooting Sunday.

Authorities said the deaths of Mr. and Mrs. George Frey at their rural home near Ray in northern Jackson County were murder and suicide.

Evelyn Mae Frey, 30, was shot in the head. Her husband, 42, was shot in the chest.

Before he died, sheriff's deputies said, he told them:

"I shot myself. She was going to take my kids."

Mrs. Frey was outside with the children, leaving the house, when her husband got out a .410-gauge shotgun, officers were told.

After she was shot, she was carried about 100 feet uphill to where a trail of blood ended at the family car.

There deputies found Mrs. Frey lying alongside the auto, one leg inside the front door. Frey lay nearby.

He was taken to Chillicothe Hospital, where he died several hours later.

Bus Driver Credited With Rescues In Fire

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Flames were pouring from the top of a three-story apartment building on Pittsburgh's North Side.

It was 8 a.m. Sunday morning and no one was about. But police said a bus driver bound from Pittsburgh to Detroit spotted the fire and probably averted a tragedy.

John C. Olliffe of suburban Ross Twp. stopped his bus, gave an alarm and then raced through the building waking up more than a score of residents.

No one was injured. Damage was estimated at $15,000.

Rice Conference Set

LAKE CHARLES, La. (AP) — An international rice conference with representatives from six nations will be held here July 18-30. Steel Anticipates High Output For Industry In '66

CLEVELAND (AP) — Steelmakers will produce about 130 million ingot tons this year, and ship around 87 million product tons, Steel Magazine reported today.

While production will be slightly less than in 1965, when 131 million ingot tons were produced and 92 million product tons shipped, the metalworking weekly said 1966 should be one of the industry's best years.

"Consumption—the best measure of the steel industry's vitality — will rise. It should be around 95 million tons compared to 92 million in 1965, 83.5 million in 1964 and 77.5 million in 1963," the magazine said.

Steel said military requirements are developing in greater-than-anticipated volume as the Viet Nam situation continues.

"At the same time," Steel said, "business expansion is expected to continue despite higher interest rates on capital investment.

"Also, while the automakers still hold large strike hedge stocks, they are ordering fill-in and February delivery tonnage."

Steel reported an order-entry increase, saying some steelmakers have order entries running as much as 20 per cent above the pace a month ago.

Ann Landers

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: I'd like to say something to the mother who told her daughter to give the engagement ring back because the diamond was so small. A dear friend of mine married a young man who drove a delivery truck during the day and went to night school five evenings a week.

Every Saturday Edie's sweetheart took her for a ride on the street car. That was their big date. When they became engaged he gave her a ring with a diamond chip in it. You could hardly call it a stone. That was 35 years ago.

Today the man is a multimillionaire. Edie could have a rock the size of an airport beacon if she wanted it. For birthdays and anniversaries her husband has given her a diamond necklace, bracelets, pins and earrings. But Edie still wears that gold ring with the tiny diamond chip in it.

She says it is the only piece of jewelry she cherishes and she never would wear another in its place. What do you say about this, Ann Landers?—A.B.C.

Dear A.B.C.: Edie has class.

Letter Of Comfort

Dear Ann: Several months ago you printed a letter from a woman in Arizona who wanted to know where she had failed in raising her children. My heart went out to her because I have asked myself the same question.

My daughter was a lovely, sensitive girl who was unable to cope with life's problems. She turned to the bottle. It was the same story you've heard hundreds of times — broken home, disturbed children, a stretch in jail and three suicide attempts.

My pocketbook was nearly empty and my heart was broken from worry and grief. Family and friends did all they could to help her make a fresh start but it was useless. The tragic story ended when she died at the wheel of her car.

I asked myself dozens of times why I failed to raise a well - adjusted, self - sufficient daughter. And then I read your answer to the other mother and I knew it was my answer, too. You told her, "Stop beating yourself. If you did your best, accept the peace you have earned. Angels can do no more."

On that day, Ann, I found peace. I will always be thankful to you. — A CALIFORNIA MOTHER.

Dear Mother: One of the real rewards of writing this column is knowing that an answer directed to one person can bring some measure of comfort and strength to others. Thank you for letting me know.

Cinderella Bride

Dear Ann: I'm 20 years old and plan to be married on St. Valentine's Day. I need help with a very important decision.

I attended the wedding of a friend last Sunday. She wore the most beautiful gown and veil I have ever seen. It must have cost a fortune. I have always wanted to be married in the traditional bridal ensemble but I could never afford a gown and veil like that.

She is just about my size, maybe a wee bit taller and slimmer, but I'm sure her gown would fit me. Do you think it would be all right if I asked her to let me wear it for my wedding? I would take very good care of it. —WANT TO BE EXQUISITE.

Dear Want To Be: Your friend knows you are planning to be married and if she offers you her gown, fine, but don't put her on the spot by asking.

I asked myself dozens of times why I failed to raise a well - adjusted, self - sufficient daughter. And then I read your answer to the other mother and I knew it was my answer, too. You told her, "Stop beating yourself. If you did your best, accept the peace you have earned. Angels can do no more."

On that day, Ann, I found peace. I will always be thankful to you. — A CALIFORNIA MOTHER.

Dear Mother: One of the real rewards of writing this column is knowing that an answer directed to one person can bring some measure of comfort and strength to others. Thank you for letting me know.

Cinderella Bride

Dear Ann: I'm 20 years old and plan to be married on St. Valentine's Day. I need help with a very important decision.

I attended the wedding of a friend last Sunday. She wore the most beautiful gown and veil I have ever seen. It must have cost a fortune. I have always wanted to be married in the traditional bridal ensemble but I could never afford a gown and veil like that.

She is just about my size, maybe a wee bit taller and slimmer, but I'm sure her gown would fit me. Do you think it would be all right if I asked her to let me wear it for my wedding? I would take very good care of it. —WANT TO BE EXQUISITE.

Dear Want To Be: Your friend knows you are planning to be married and if she offers you her gown, fine, but don't put her on the spot by asking.

Crashes Kill 46 Over Ohio

By The Associated Press

The new year started the way the old one ended on Ohio roads—with more than a score of traffic deaths in a 48-hour period.

The New Year's Day toll of Saturday rivaled the huge New Year's Eve tally that closed out 1965, and only moderation Sunday kept the 78-hour weekend count from exceeding Christmastime's record slaughter a week earlier.

By the time Sunday midnight finally rolled around — for the survivors—at least 46 persons had been killed since 6 p.m. Thursday. Ohio's total was the nation's highest through most of the period.

State safety officials had predicted 54 fatalities for the two weekends combined.

Highway safety Director Warren C. Nelson said he felt one reason the estimates went awry was the unseasonable mild weather in that it meant more motorists on the roads, and higher speeds.

The new year also came in with considerable rain around the state, slicking highways and obscuring visibility.

There were four double-fatal wrecks Saturday, matching Friday's figure and making a total of nine such accidents for the weekend.

A Parma Heights couple killed in a home fire Saturday, two other fire deaths and one miscellaneous fatality shot the total Ohio accident toll for the period past 50.

Among eastern Ohio deaths were:

Sunday

Jack Swiercinski, 44, Cleveland, died Sunday of injuries received Saturday when his car collided with another auto at a Parma intersection.

Mrs. Reuben Childs, 57, Cleveland, invalid from a stroke, trapped in a fire that destroyed her home.

Saturday

Russell W. Draughm, 43, Dayton, and Joyce McBride, 23, Fairborn in a train-automobile crash near Springfield.

Mickey Lee Ewing, 18-year-old marine, struck near Medina while hitchhiking on Interstate 71. Highway patrolmen said he set out from Mansfield to visit an uncle in Akron.

Charles Brown, Marion, of injuries received in a two-car collision Friday in which six others were hurt on a county road.

Donald Marion, 41, and his wife, Joyce, 35, in a fire which officials said apparently started in a davenport from a cigarette in their Parma Heights home.

Robert Campbell, 26, and Raymond H. Patterson, 26, both of Bellaire in the crash of their car against a utility pole beside Ohio 7 near Bellaire.

Pennsylvania Counts 19 Highway Fatalities

By The Associated Press

Accidents killed 24 persons in Pennsylvania over the three-day New Year's holiday weekend.

Nineteen ditd on the state's streets and highways, made treacherous in most places by an off-and-on two-day rain starting early Saturday.

The traffic toll was a good deal less than last year's three-day New Year's weekend, when 28 died in Pennsylvania. The toll also compared with 29 persons killed in traffic accidents during a similar three-day Christmas holiday period.

Western Pennsylvania deaths include:

Monessen — Helen Guzman, about 50, of Monessen, killed Friday by a car on Route 906, just north of this Westmoreland County town.

Pittsburgh—Richard Wilcher, 28, killed Friday when he was tossed from his car as it hit a guard rail in nearby Monroeville.

Flames Destroy Downtown Area In Sitka, Alaska

SITKA, Alaska (AP) — A $3.5 million fire destroyed an estimated 50 per cent of the business district of this historic southeastern Alaska town Sunday, including the 121-year-old Greek-Russian Orthodox Cathedral of St. Michael.

"We can rebuild St. Michael's Cathedral," said Sen. Ernest Gruening, D-Alaska, after flying here from Juneau, the state capital, with Gov. William A. Egan.

No one was killed or injured. Power was off only briefly.

The blue-gray wooden cathedral, built in 1844, stood in the middle of Sitka's main street, like a traffic island. It was the seat of Bishop Ambrossy Merejko, bishop of Sitka and Alaska of the Greek-Russian Orthodox Church in North America. It was also a favorite with tourists visiting this Baranof Island town of 3,300.

Poland Reports Hanoi Ready For Truce Bid

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — Government officials of Communist Poland report that North Viet Nam is ready to negotiate a truce in the Vietnamese fighting, Rep. Clement J. Zablocki, D-Wis., says.

Zablocki said Sunday night he believed that the North Vietnamese were being blocked from seeking a settlement by Red China. He is chairman of the House Foreign Affairs' Far East and Pacific subcommittee which deals with Vietnamese matters.

Zablocki talked with Polish leaders on a recent visit to that nation and Southeast Asia. He said "they insisted that Hanoi was sincere and ready to get together on an honorable truce."

Poland apparently had taken steps to try to bring about negotiations, but had been frustrated by Communist China, he said.

Zablocki was interviewed by telephone after he said on a program on station WTMJ-TV Sunday, "I personally believe that Ho Chi Minh is ready to negotiate now. It is Peking that is causing the trouble."

New York City's Verrazano Bridge, which links Brooklyn and Staten Island, handled 17 million vehicles and collected more than $9 million in tolls during its first year of operation.

1965 Fruitful For Pennsylvania Education

By VINCENT P. CAROCCI

HARRISBURG (AP) — The year 1965 was, on the whole, a rather fruitful year for education in Pennsylvania.

First off, the Scranton Administration finally recruited a new superintendent of public instruction—Dr. John Ralph Rackley, a vice president at Pennsylvania State University.

The two-year-old state Board of Education, meanwhile, found its sea legs and began to assert itself more and more on policy matters, even though the board's recommendations sometimes were ignored by Gov. Scranton.

The board became the leading force behind the development and expansion of a community college system throughout the state.

THE BOARD, however, had its differences with Penn State on the matter of community colleges versus new campus centers for the university.

The politically divided legislature, on the other hand, put aside its partisan haggling long enough to enact significant education bills.

These included a state-related status for Temple University, lower tuition for Pennsylvania students attending Temple and Penn State, a new broad-based college scholarship program, and an expanded college loan program.

Rackley's selection as the new superintendent, ending a 16-month vacancy caused by the resignation of Dr. Charles H. Boehm, was undoubtedly the major news in education this year.

RACKLEY was one of Scranton's original favorites for the position, but first rejected the offer because, he said, he wanted to remain at Penn State.

Sixteen months, and one nationwide search later, he was persuaded by Scranton and Penn State president Eric A. Walker to accept the post "in the public interest."

Dr. George H. Hoffman did an admirable job in serving as acting superintendent before Rackley finally said "yes," but he obviously was handicapped without the full powers of the superintendency. He now serves under Rackley as a special deputy.

It is too early accurately to assess Rackley's performance. But a Democratic senator paid him a compliment recently which served to indicate that some people are impressed by his start.

"I WAS TALKING to some friends in the department and they tell me that Rackley is really doing a job over there," the senator said in a private conversation.

It might be noted that the superintendent's salary was raised by the legislature this year from $20,000 to $30,000.

The state Board of Education was assigned a variety of taks by the 1963 legislature and 1965 was the year that these projects began to take shape.

The board's Council of Higher Education was charged with developing a master plan for higher education in Pennsylvania — still six or seven months away — and in line with that, held a series of hearings to sound out public sentiment.

THREE PRIORITY recommendations grew out of those hearings and two were implemented this year by the General Assembly.

The hearings cited a need—and desire among most officials—for an eastern state university, with Temple the odds—on choice for the role. The legislature then passed a bill, subsequently signed by Scranton, making Temple a state-related university like Penn State.

The second priority called for the immediate establishment of a broad-based college scholarship program and this, too, was enacted by the lawmakers — after the expected struggle between Democrats and Republicans was resolved over the size and the scope.

The third recommendation dealt with a state university for western Pennsylvania, but the board held back on a specific proposal to study suitable sites in more detail.

MANY FEEL that the University of Pittsburgh is the logical selection and some authorities, including Scranton, hint that the university eventually will seek the same state-related status according Temple.

The board also received its first report from a Princeton, N. J., consultant on ways to measure quality education.

In essence, the report said something as nebulous as "quality education" could be measured accurately, but no firm yardsticks were in existence as yet.

Now remains the more difficult task of developing the accurate measuring devices and applying them across the state.

THE BOARD also completed its disposition of the numerous appeals on school district reorganization, scheduled to be effected next July 1.

Some 110 districts in 23 counties carried their fight to Commonwealth Court, however, and only 29 arguments have been heard to date.

Reorganization will be implemented according to the timetable in the 43 counties—Philadelphia was exempt from the 1963 act—where no court action is pending.

A number of the appellant districts have succeeded in halting the reorganization machinery pending a decision on their court appeals. In these counties, the reorganization picture is confused and probably will remain that way until the court sets down a ruling.

THE GENERAL Assembly turned its attention to the flourishing community college program and passed a bill to correct constitutional deficiencies in the 1963 law.

Montgomery County Court held in February that trustee debts could not be made binding on the tax-raising sponsor.

The bill Scranton signed into law gives the sponsors annual review of the college budget, but requires them to enter into long-term written agreements with the trustees to finance capital and operating expenses.

Several members of the state board, meanwhile, accused Penn State of attempting to quash the community college movement by expanding its network of off-campus branch centers.

Penn State replied by denying any intention of competing with the new colleges, but refused to delay its own progress simply to permit the new movement to grow.

THIS DEBATE can be expected to ring out again when the university seeks board approval for new centers.

Legislatively, Scranton proposed a new subsidy formula to simplify the complex system presently used in distributing state aid each year to local school districts.

This issue still was before the legislature in December.

In its present form, the proposal also would provide special bonuses for the most densely and most sparsely populated districts, plus added reimbursement for children from low-income families.

If it passes, and reportedly the measure has been agreed to by both parties, the bill would supply nearly $100 million in additional subisidies.

THE JOB of financing the program, including the prospect of increased taxes, remains for the next administration and the next legislature to tackle.

The legislature also approved a one-shot $34 million bonus subsidy to school districts from the record-high $105 million surplus in tax collections.

The law also set a new minimum salary schedule for all classes of public school teachers and professional employes and required those districts not paying the salaries to use their bonus to make the adjustments over the next two years.

Some 40,000 of the state's 94,500 public school teachers will have their salaries raised under the new law, according to best estimates.

If the new subsidy bill eventually is passed, the administration figures the additional money will cushion the impact on the districts.

If not, however, then the districts themselves will have to finance the raises and this may mean an increase in taxes.

That's the way it went for education in Pennsylvania in 1965.

Rhodes Requests Road Care Talks

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Gov. James A. Rhodes today called for a meeting of state and big city officials to discuss the question of responsibility of maintenance of interstate highways within city limits.

Rhodes instructed Finance Director Richard Krabach, Highway Director P. E. Masheter and Attorney General William Saxbe to meet with representatives of Ohio's eight major cities. They are Cleveland, Columbus, Cincinnati, Dayton, Toledo, Akron, Canton and Youngstown.

Saxbe ruled recently that the state no longer is responsible for maintaining interstate highways within city limits. The ruling resulted in a number of cities filing lawsuits which still are pending.

Krabach said officials attending the meeting will attempt to work out a satisfactory agreement which would give the cities some relief in maintenance costs.

Deal Involves Bottling Firm

The Coca-Cola Bottling Co. of Youngstown announced over the weekend it has completed purchase of the assets and sales territory rights of the Coca-Cola Bottling Co., Inc., of East Liverpool, which occupies a plant on Webber Way.

All production, distribution and other responsibilities of the East Liverpool plant will be handled from the Youngstown plant. Virtually all employes of the East Liverpool plant will join the Youngstown plant, the firm announced.

The business was acquired from Robert T. McDaniel of Broadview Circle, president. Robert Miller of Lousiana Ave., Chester, is secretary-treasurer of the firm.

The Youngstown firm said that Miller, also manager of the East Liverpool firm, has been appointed sales manager of the Youngstown company.

The territory served by the East Liverpool plant includes about 80,000 persons. The Youngstown plant serves about 290,000.

The total new territory now will include East Liverpool, Wellsville, Salineville, Lisbon, Columbiana, East Palestine, Youngstown, Campbell, Struthers, Lowellville, Poland, Petersburg, New Springfield, North Jackson, Canfield and Austintown.

The Isle of Man covers 277 square miles in the Irish Sea, 20 miles from Scotland. Its mild climate attracts tourists.

1965 Fruitful For Pennsylvania Education

By VINCENT P. CAROCCI

HARRISBURG (AP) — The year 1965 was, on the whole, a rather fruitful year for education in Pennsylvania.

First off, the Scranton Administration finally recruited a new superintendent of public instruction—Dr. John Ralph Rackley, a vice president at Pennsylvania State University.

The two-year-old state Board of Education, meanwhile, found its sea legs and began to assert itself more and more on policy matters, even though the board's recommendations sometimes were ignored by Gov. Scranton.

The board became the leading force behind the development and expansion of a community college system throughout the state.

THE BOARD, however, had its differences with Penn State on the matter of community colleges versus new campus centers for the university.

The politically divided legislature, on the other hand, put aside its partisan haggling long enough to enact significant education bills.

These included a state-related status for Temple University, lower tuition for Pennsylvania students attending Temple and Penn State, a new broad-based college scholarship program, and an expanded college loan program.

Rackley's selection as the new superintendent, ending a 16-month vacancy caused by the resignation of Dr. Charles H. Boehm, was undoubtedly the major news in education this year.

RACKLEY was one of Scranton's original favorites for the position, but first rejected the offer because, he said, he wanted to remain at Penn State.

Sixteen months, and one nationwide search later, he was persuaded by Scranton and Penn State president Eric A. Walker to accept the post "in the public interest."

Dr. George H. Hoffman did an admirable job in serving as acting superintendent before Rackley finally said "yes," but he obviously was handicapped without the full powers of the superintendency. He now serves under Rackley as a special deputy.

It is too early accurately to assess Rackley's performance. But a Democratic senator paid him a compliment recently which served to indicate that some people are impressed by his start.

"I WAS TALKING to some friends in the department and they tell me that Rackley is really doing a job over there," the senator said in a private conversation.

It might be noted that the superintendent's salary was raised by the legislature this year from $20,000 to $30,000.

The state Board of Education was assigned a variety of taks by the 1963 legislature and 1965 was the year that these projects began to take shape.

The board's Council of Higher Education was charged with developing a master plan for higher education in Pennsylvania — still six or seven months away — and in line with that, held a series of hearings to sound out public sentiment.

THREE PRIORITY recommendations grew out of those hearings and two were implemented this year by the General Assembly.

The hearings cited a need—and desire among most officials—for an eastern state university, with Temple the odds—on choice for the role. The legislature then passed a bill, subsequently signed by Scranton, making Temple a state-related university like Penn State.

The second priority called for the immediate establishment of a broad-based college scholarship program and this, too, was enacted by the lawmakers — after the expected struggle between Democrats and Republicans was resolved over the size and the scope.

The third recommendation dealt with a state university for western Pennsylvania, but the board held back on a specific proposal to study suitable sites in more detail.

MANY FEEL that the University of Pittsburgh is the logical selection and some authorities, including Scranton, hint that the university eventually will seek the same state-related status according Temple.

The board also received its first report from a Princeton, N. J., consultant on ways to measure quality education.

In essence, the report said something as nebulous as "quality education" could be measured accurately, but no firm yardsticks were in existence as yet.

Now remains the more difficult task of developing the accurate measuring devices and applying them across the state.

THE BOARD also completed its disposition of the numerous appeals on school district reorganization, scheduled to be effected next July 1.

Some 110 districts in 23 counties carried their fight to Commonwealth Court, however, and only 29 arguments have been heard to date.

Reorganization will be implemented according to the timetable in the 43 counties—Philadelphia was exempt from the 1963 act—where no court action is pending.

A number of the appellant districts have succeeded in halting the reorganization machinery pending a decision on their court appeals. In these counties, the reorganization picture is confused and probably will remain that way until the court sets down a ruling.

THE GENERAL Assembly turned its attention to the flourishing community college program and passed a bill to correct constitutional deficiencies in the 1963 law.

Montgomery County Court held in February that trustee debts could not be made binding on the tax-raising sponsor.

The bill Scranton signed into law gives the sponsors annual review of the college budget, but requires them to enter into long-term written agreements with the trustees to finance capital and operating expenses.

Several members of the state board, meanwhile, accused Penn State of attempting to quash the community college movement by expanding its network of off-campus branch centers.

Penn State replied by denying any intention of competing with the new colleges, but refused to delay its own progress simply to permit the new movement to grow.

THIS DEBATE can be expected to ring out again when the university seeks board approval for new centers.

Legislatively, Scranton proposed a new subsidy formula to simplify the complex system presently used in distributing state aid each year to local school districts.

This issue still was before the legislature in December.

In its present form, the proposal also would provide special bonuses for the most densely and most sparsely populated districts, plus added reimbursement for children from low-income families.

If it passes, and reportedly the measure has been agreed to by both parties, the bill would supply nearly $100 million in additional subisidies.

THE JOB of financing the program, including the prospect of increased taxes, remains for the next administration and the next legislature to tackle.

The legislature also approved a one-shot $34 million bonus subsidy to school districts from the record-high $105 million surplus in tax collections.

The law also set a new minimum salary schedule for all classes of public school teachers and professional employes and required those districts not paying the salaries to use their bonus to make the adjustments over the next two years.

Some 40,000 of the state's 94,500 public school teachers will have their salaries raised under the new law, according to best estimates.

If the new subsidy bill eventually is passed, the administration figures the additional money will cushion the impact on the districts.

If not, however, then the districts themselves will have to finance the raises and this may mean an increase in taxes.

That's the way it went for education in Pennsylvania in 1965.

some Americans. Eighteen Viet Cong were reported killed.

By venturing into the canal-ribbed, swampy delta country, the U.S. paratroopers were probing a Communist stronghold that the French were unable to control in eight years of fighting. Government forces have had no more success in recent years.

In one operation, helicopters scattered tear-gas powder onto suspected Communist positions. Much of the gas was swallowed up by the swamps with little apparent effect on the Viet Cong. Some was blown toward the paratroopers. The ground troops followed up the helicopters by firing gas grenades from their rifles.

It was the first time U.S. troopers had used the nonlethal "CN" type gas on such a large scale. The gas is frequently used elsewhere in the world by police for riot control.

Another Allied column of U.S., South Vietnamese, Australian and New Zealand troops drove to within 12 miles of the Cambodian frontier hoping to catch the Viet Cong or push them across the border. Other troops secured both banks of the Vaico Orientale River after coming under sniper fire.

A U.S. spokesman said the paratroopers located a large pocket of guerrillas on the east bank. The enemy pulled back rather than fight, he said.

However, Viet Cong snipers hidden in a clump of trees killed several American paratroopers and wounded a dozen just after they were landed by helicopters. Sinking sometimes waist-deep into mud, this American unit secured the landing zone but made little progress because of the snipers.

One battalion advanced only 30 yards in seven hours, the men rarely moving out of a crouch because of sniper bullets.

Artillery shells and bombs poured onto the Viet Cong. Four paratroopers were killed and several others were wounded when a 500-pound bomb from a Skyraider accidentally fell on their area. Officers at the scene said Allied artillery may have hit an Air Force L19 spotter plane over the battle ground. The plane exploded in the sky and the pilot was killed.

As the U.S. paratroopers got their first taste of swamp fighting, the suspension of American air attacks on North Viet Nam went into the 11th day against a background of U.S. diplomatic moves abroad.

U. S. spokesmen said they had no indication when Washington would order a resumption of the raids, which began last Feb. 7. But reconnaissance of the North is apparently continuing. The lull in the air war began with the start of the 30-hour Allied Christmas cease-fire Dec. 24.

American fighting men regarded the fast movement of U. S. envoys around the globe on the so-called peace offensive and the related bombing pause with battle-hardened skepticism.

A soldier from the 1st Cavalry, Airmobile, Division summed up these doubts: "We're going to have to give them (the Communists) a couple of more good lickings before we talk to them."

nerva and Earl Strait, an auxiliary patrolman. Stripped of their weapons, the two were forced into their own cruiser.

When the cruiser became bogged down in a corn field north of Lynchburg in West Township, the robbery suspects smashed the two-way radio and fled on foot, taking the officers' guns.

Area law enforcement officers surrounded a house west of Summitville Saturday night on a tip the two suspects had been seen entering it, but the operation proved futile.

Police said the two were believe to be hiding in a new home, where they apparently had gone in search for food. But when a cordon closed in on the house, they found it empty.

The pair went to the home of Pitts' uncle, Oscar Pitts, at Hanoverton Sunday morning. Oscar Pitts and another uncle, Virgil Pitts of Dungannon, advised them to surrender and accompanied them to the sheriff's office, deputies reported.

Virgil Pitts said he was told that the fugitives hid in wooded areas and slept in vacant buildings while they were sought by the Ohio Highway Patrol and sheriff's deputies from five counties.

some Americans. Eighteen Viet Cong were reported killed.

By venturing into the canal-ribbed, swampy delta country, the U.S. paratroopers were probing a Communist stronghold that the French were unable to control in eight years of fighting. Government forces have had no more success in recent years.

In one operation, helicopters scattered tear-gas powder onto suspected Communist positions. Much of the gas was swallowed up by the swamps with little apparent effect on the Viet Cong. Some was blown toward the paratroopers. The ground troops followed up the helicopters by firing gas grenades from their rifles.

It was the first time U.S. troopers had used the nonlethal "CN" type gas on such a large scale. The gas is frequently used elsewhere in the world by police for riot control.

Another Allied column of U.S., South Vietnamese, Australian and New Zealand troops drove to within 12 miles of the Cambodian frontier hoping to catch the Viet Cong or push them across the border. Other troops secured both banks of the Vaico Orientale River after coming under sniper fire.

A U.S. spokesman said the paratroopers located a large pocket of guerrillas on the east bank. The enemy pulled back rather than fight, he said.

However, Viet Cong snipers hidden in a clump of trees killed several American paratroopers and wounded a dozen just after they were landed by helicopters. Sinking sometimes waist-deep into mud, this American unit secured the landing zone but made little progress because of the snipers.

One battalion advanced only 30 yards in seven hours, the men rarely moving out of a crouch because of sniper bullets.

Artillery shells and bombs poured onto the Viet Cong. Four paratroopers were killed and several others were wounded when a 500-pound bomb from a Skyraider accidentally fell on their area. Officers at the scene said Allied artillery may have hit an Air Force L19 spotter plane over the battle ground. The plane exploded in the sky and the pilot was killed.

As the U.S. paratroopers got their first taste of swamp fighting, the suspension of American air attacks on North Viet Nam went into the 11th day against a background of U.S. diplomatic moves abroad.

U. S. spokesmen said they had no indication when Washington would order a resumption of the raids, which began last Feb. 7. But reconnaissance of the North is apparently continuing. The lull in the air war began with the start of the 30-hour Allied Christmas cease-fire Dec. 24.

American fighting men regarded the fast movement of U. S. envoys around the globe on the so-called peace offensive and the related bombing pause with battle-hardened skepticism.

A soldier from the 1st Cavalry, Airmobile, Division summed up these doubts: "We're going to have to give them (the Communists) a couple of more good lickings before we talk to them."

nerva and Earl Strait, an auxiliary patrolman. Stripped of their weapons, the two were forced into their own cruiser.

When the cruiser became bogged down in a corn field north of Lynchburg in West Township, the robbery suspects smashed the two-way radio and fled on foot, taking the officers' guns.

Area law enforcement officers surrounded a house west of Summitville Saturday night on a tip the two suspects had been seen entering it, but the operation proved futile.

Police said the two were believe to be hiding in a new home, where they apparently had gone in search for food. But when a cordon closed in on the house, they found it empty.

The pair went to the home of Pitts' uncle, Oscar Pitts, at Hanoverton Sunday morning. Oscar Pitts and another uncle, Virgil Pitts of Dungannon, advised them to surrender and accompanied them to the sheriff's office, deputies reported.

Virgil Pitts said he was told that the fugitives hid in wooded areas and slept in vacant buildings while they were sought by the Ohio Highway Patrol and sheriff's deputies from five counties.

The House of Commons had 630 members during its last session.

The excise tax cut means lower phone bills!"

GOOD NEWS FOR TELEPHONE CUSTOMERS. By an Act of Congress, the 10% Federal Excise Tax on your telephone service has been reduced to 3%. The new lower rate will be effective starting with your January, 1966 bill. It will be reduced another 1% each succeeding year until it is completely eliminated by January, 1969. The savings in a year's time will amount to almost the cost of a month's telephone service.

We are happy to report the reduction and eventual removal of this "temporary luxury tax" which we have collected for so many years for the Government. With more people enjoying telephone service than ever before, this means a tax savings of about $24,000,000 in 1966 for Ohio Bell customers.

Local telephone rates have remained constant since 1959. Long distance rates have been reduced 20 times in the past 50 years. Now, with gradual disappearance of the excise tax, your telephone service becomes a bigger value than ever — and you can be sure that there will be no reduction in our efforts to continue giving you the best possible telephone service. Happy telephoning!

...and this little piggy said, "wheee!
The excise tax cut means lower phone bills!"

GOOD NEWS FOR TELEPHONE CUSTOMERS. By an Act of Congress, the 10% Federal Excise Tax on your telephone service has been reduced to 3%. The new lower rate will be effective starting with your January, 1966 bill. It will be reduced another 1% each succeeding year until it is completely eliminated by January, 1969. The savings in a year's time will amount to almost the cost of a month's telephone service.

We are happy to report the reduction and eventual removal of this "temporary luxury tax" which we have collected for so many years for the Government. With more people enjoying telephone service than ever before, this means a tax savings of about $24,000,000 in 1966 for Ohio Bell customers.

Local telephone rates have remained constant since 1959. Long distance rates have been reduced 20 times in the past 50 years. Now, with gradual disappearance of the excise tax, your telephone service becomes a bigger value than ever — and you can be sure that there will be no reduction in our efforts to continue giving you the best possible telephone service. Happy telephoning!

Year's Activities Reported By County Extension Office

LISBON — "Operation Cookie Jar" and County Fair were two of the biggest events mentioned in the year - end report of the Cooperative Extension Service.

Recalling these and other events in a nine - page report covering the areas of 4-H, home economics, agriculture and community development were the staff of the service and two summer assistants.

Contributing to the report were Don Myers, agriculture; Robert B. Lewis, 4-H, and Ann Overturf, home economics. The summer assistants were Kay Dunkle and Jerry Russell.

Seen as the most important accomplishment in the field of community development and public affairs was the completion of the county youth, family living, community and public affairs and agricultural studies in May. After meeting with various committees during the previous 12 months, long-time recommendations were made concerning various problems in the county.

The 4-H "Operation Cookie Jar," which sent a ton of cookies to American servicemen in Viet Nam, was listed as "an unforgettable lesson in citizenship." Each 4-H'er sent a letter of appreciation to a GI in Viet Nam, along with a pound of homemade cookies.

The County and State Fairs also proved to be valuable experiences for the youngsters. With the highest number of junior livestock exhibits at the County Fair and several going to the state exhibition earning statewide recognition, it was considered a very successful year for fair participants, the report stated.

A joint Mahoning - Columbiana home economics program was initiated in an effort to increase teaching quality and preparation efficiency. However, some work in each count, such as mass media and personal questions, were handled by the individual office.

Considered to be one of the most interesting agriculture activities was an air tour of the county in cooperation with the Soil Conservation Service. Both town and country people saw many conservation practices in operation from a different angle.

"Railroad transportation employes have not adequately shared in the great prosperity of the industry, but 1966 will alter that situation," Gilbert said.

In addition to the wage increases, the union's demands include a 25 per cent increase in all arbitraries, miscellaneous rates and special allowances; a cost-of-living adjustment of 1.5 cents per hour for each .4 and .5 increase in the consumer price index; daily and monthly work guarantees; increase in daily earnings minimal of $5 in freight, passenger and other road service; differential pay of 20 cents per hour for all time on duty between 6 p.m. and 6 a.m.

The union also demanded that the carrier give a five-day written notice before abolishing any assignment; payment of double time or double mileage to employes held in service in excess of the monthly maximum mileage, and improved lodging and meal allowances for any employe held away from his home terminal three hours or more.

Year weekend could reach 600 if the death pace did not slacken. Before the start of the holiday period, the council had estimated between 360 and 440 persons would be killed during the 78 hours between 6 p.m. (local time) Thursday to midnight Sunday.

A safety council statement of the New Year record said, "It's clear that the nation can't depend on mere horror to terrify drivers into safe highway behavior."

Safety officials also said that there was little comfort that the New Year's toll was less than the Christmas toll, since fewer persons travel on the year-end holiday.

New Year's was the sixth holiday period in recent months to set a national record for traffic deaths.

In addition to Christmas, the 1965 Thanksgiving, Labor Day, Fourth of July and Memorial Day weekends established records for long weekend observances of those holidays.

The Thanksgiving holiday period cost 615 lives, Labor Day 564, July Fourth 551, and Memorial Day 474.

Police said the two rifled the cash register first and then hit the safe after binding Mrs. Peterson. The safe was unlocked.

The two were seen running away from the store by a young boy. One ran toward the Ohio River, while the other went toward Center St.

The boy entered the store and found Mrs. Peterson. He untied her and police were notified.

Area police were notified and roadblocks were set up by highway patrolmen, the Columbiana and Jefferson County sheriff's offices and other law enforcement officers.

Mingo Soldier Given Humphrey's Greeting

HONOLULU (AP) — To the "folks" of Larry Lutz in Mingo, Ohio, there's a personal hello from Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey.

The vice president told Pfc. Lutz, 21, to send it along from Tripler Army Hospital. Visiting the hospital, Humphrey chatted Sunday with the Ohio GI and other men wounded in the Viet Nam conflict. He learned that Lutz was injured by enemy fire when he walked into a Viet Cong encampment Dec. 19.

Formula For Early Decor

Authentic Early American decorating graces this bedroom suite. Antique brass bedstead and carved oak chests are set off by walls paneled in ponderosa pine to eight-foot height, figured walpaper above. What-not around dressing room doorway holds books, figurine collection.

Who says Early American decorating is dead?

More than ever before, there is a deep interest in capturing the warmth and charm of the ancestral American abode and working it into the tapestry of 20th-century living.

In a bedroom, particularly, the homey warmth of Early American decor is pleasing. A brass bedstead, an heirloom quilted coverlet, and fine, old carved oak chests can form a nucleus for a happy return to the past.

IF THESE exist already in the family, most of the job is done. If not, a search for furnishings must begin — either through antique dealers or in furniture stores where good reproductsions are to be had. Once the principal pieces are procured, decorating turns to the walls and floor to provide the proper setting.

Traditional in Early American decor are pine paneling and finely-figured wallpapers, often used in combination. Both are easily obtainable today. Ponderosa pine, with its honey brown coloring, is the favorite among the pines for full-wall paneling and wainscoting.

The choice between pine boards with knots and knot-free paneling is personal. But, as a general rule of thumb, gear the selection to the amount of pattern and texture needed in the room.

If figured wallpaper is also to be used, plus a braid rug and patterned quilt, it's wise to select clear vertical grain or flat grain boards in preference to those that have distinctive knots. If pattern is at a minimum, knotty grade panel boards can be delightful.

FINISH THE pine clear to capture its warm coloring. A modern plastic varnish in the "hand-rubbed" finish is smart to use and has the soft sheen of waxed, rubbed wood.

For the floor covering there are several possibilities. One carpeting pattern successfully simulates the appearance of a rag rug, bringing with it the multitude of color tones and textures that creates a surprisingly neutral look. Good florals are also making a return. And, of course, an authentic braid rug over polished wood is always a winner.

Remember, always, that Early American decorating is an intensely personal affair. Its charm depends directly on the personal touch and on the mix of European and American crafted furnishings that existed in Great Grandfather's home.

Kenmar Buys Another Firm

EAST PALESTINE — The Kenmar Manufacturing Co. has purchased 100 per cent of the stock of the Pittsburgh Chair Co., Robert Maurer, Kenmar president, announced today.

Workmen are being called back today to the Pittsburgh plant near W. Main St. to resume production which has been restricted for several months.

The Pittsburgh concern will be operated as a separate corporation, and will continue with the same lines of furniture, Maurer said.

Heading the new corporation will be Raymond Maurer of Columbiana, brother of the Kenmar president. Robert Maurer will be vice president, and Ralph Lebowitz of Youngstown, who was chairman of the board, will be vice president in charge of sales, merchandising and styling.

Pittsburgh Chair has been in operation here since 1935. At one time, it employed almost 100. More recently, the work force was about 45.

2 Men Arrested For Robbery Of Pittsburgh Bank

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Two young men sought in a New Year's Eve holdup of a downtown bank were arrested Sunday, one of them suffering from a fresh but unexplained gunshot wound.

Kenneth Owens Jr., 19, was found by police lying on a couch in his North Side home, a bullet wound in his thigh.

Police said Brown and Owens were part of a trio that held up the Stanwix Street branch of Mellon National Bank shortly before closing Friday and fled with $2,500.

A third man is still being sought.

Owens was free on bail awaiting trial on charges of staging a $60,000 jewelry store robbery last September.

In that case, Owens, police said, was arrested as he stepped off a trolley a few minutes after the robbery carrying a milk tray with the jewels in it.

Chemist Charged With Killing Man In West Virginia

MORGANTOWN (AP) — Arraignment was scheduled today for a West Virginia University Hospital chemist accused of gunning down another man on a Morgantown street Sunday morning.

Olgerts Grinvalds, 39, was charged with murder for the death of John Huggins, a tavern operator about 50 years old.

Police said Huggins was shot with a 25-caliber pistol as he drove on a downtown street. He managed to stop his car and get out, but was dead on arrival at University Hospital.

Grinvalds telephoned police from his apartment a few minutes after the shooting, officers said. Police said they learned the two men had argued recently, but did not know the exact cause of the shooting.

Total Over $2 Million

Building Permits Set New Record

New construction and remodeling hit a record - breaking $2,150,485 in East Liverpool during 1965.

The total exceeds by $31,832 the previous record of $2,118,653 established in 1954. The third biggest year for local construction work was $1,569,362, set in 1953.

The 1965 projects bring to $16,326,647 the estimated dollar value of building projects in the city since the close of World War II in 1954.

THE PRECEDING year had only one major project to help push up the total — a $75,000 permit for a structure at Minerva and Walnut Sts. scheduled to be occupied by a Kroger Co. market.

But the list of 1965 permits is thick with major projects. The peak month was July, when work estimated to cost $759,675 was authorized in permits issued by the mayor's office.

The July permits included: $40,000 for another addition at City Hospital; $250,000 for the Gilmore Convalescent Home on W. 5th St., and $100,000 for remodelling of the First Church of Christ.

June's permit hit $387,475, pushed ahead by a $350,000 authorization for the new Inn Town Motel on E. 3rd St. near Broadway.

A permit for a $275,000 Gaston Pl. apartment development helped swell the August total to $354,000. A permit for another $100,000 motel on E. 3rd St., near the Chester Bridge, pushed the April total to $192,325.

By contrast, 1963 permits hit $922,839 and 1962 building authorizations reached $1,071,932. The total for 1961 was $443,308.

THE TOTAL does not represent all the new construction work in the immediate East Liverpool area.

Millions have been spent on new housing in the suburban areas immediately outside the corporate limits in a postwar migration to the adjoining townships that began 20 years ago. Governmental projects are not included, as building permits are not required. The $850,000 rebuilding of St. Clair Ave. is an example.

Here's a monthly breakdown on the dollar value of 1965 building permits, contrasting the totals with the same months in 1964:

January, $11,567 and $4,800; February, $1,500 and $38,700; March, $60,800 and $4,250; April, 192,325 and $84,200; May, $72,870 and 74,899; June, $387,475 and $60187.

July, $759,675 and $25,924; August, $354,380 and $51,025; September, $142,917 and $28,142; October, $52,734 and $61,700; November, $106,650 and $148,875, and December, 2,300 and $8,167.

Broader Medical Care Plan Starts In Pennsylvania

HARRISBURG (AP) — Needy Pennsylvanians, regardless of their age, are now eligible for a new state program providing medical and hospital care.

The program, which went into effect Saturday, was made possible by the new federal Medicare Law which goes into effect across the country in July.

The difference between the state and federal programs is that the state program has no age restriction while medicare applies only to citizens 65 years or older.

The Scranton Administration said the state program would take the place of Pennsylvania's Medical Assistance for the Aged and Purchase of Hospital Care Programs.

Eligibility standards under the new plan are: $2,000 for single persons, $2,500 for married couples, plus an additional $750 for each dependent.

Under the old programs, there were different eligibility standards for persons over 65 and under 65.

New services to be offered:

—Inpatient hospital care for up to 60 days.

—180 days of home care, to be provided by hospitals.

—Up to 60 days of private nursing home care after leaving the hospital.

—Mental hospital care for persons 65 and over.

Crash Blocks Traffic

MOUNT GILEAD, Ohio (AP) —A seven-car pileup on Interstate 71 at the Ohio 61 interchange south of here jammed southbound traffic Sunday night. The Highway Patrol said that with both southbound lanes blocked by damaged vehicles, traffic came to a complete halt and strung out several miles on the superhighway before movement was restored.

5 Soldiers Meet Families In Viet Nam Rest Period

HONG KONG (AP) — Five Americans fighting in Viet Nam began a four-day holiday in Hong Kong today with members of their families.

The Smith brothers were met here by their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Norwood Smith; Lt. Allen by his wife; Kappenhagen by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Kappenhagen; and Yonker by his father, Robert Yonker.

The families were flown here for the reunion sponsored by the Cleveland Press.

The servicemen were chosen by lot from a list of Cleveland men who were eligible for a rest and relaxation trip to Hong Kong. Such "R and R" trips out of Viet Nam to Hong Kong, Bangkok, Manila and Taipei are normal procedures for men fighting in Viet Nam.

Proper Steps Outlined For Setting Of Screw

By DOUGLAS TUOMEY

The person who has tried to drive a screw into oak, maple or other hardwood is well aware of the difficulty encountered.

At the same time, there are places where nothing but a screw is satisfactory—in fact a screw is about five or six times as strong as any nail.

You can fasten two pieces of wood together with a solid nail and then, by using the claw of the hammer, you can pry them apart without too much effort. If the pieces are fastened together with a screw, you might tear and rip the wood, but the screw will still hold.

Professional carpenters avoid any difficulty in using screws by the use of a simple method. It takes a few seconds longer, but the screw will sink into any wood without effort if the following technique is followed:

After establishing the point at which the screw is to be sunk, a drill or nail is used to make an entrance. If a drill is used, it should be about half of the diameter of the shank of the screw. And when a nail is used, it should be driven in a half-inch, twisted around, driven in another fraction of an inch and then withdrawn.

The threads of the screw should be drawn over a piece of soap or smeared with vaseline, and then set in the hole and turned up. This procedure not only makes the work easy, but also prevents splitting the wood.

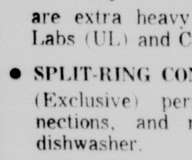

Another point to be remembered in setting a screw is that it is impossible to exert the required amount of strength unless you are in a position where the weight of your body and the thrust of your arms is right against the screw. If the job is attempted incorrectly, the effort is exhausting and in all probability the setting will be inaccurate.

Mingo Soldier Given Humphrey's Greeting

HONOLULU (AP) — To the "folks" of Larry Lutz in Mingo, Ohio, there's a personal hello from Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey.

The vice president told Pfc. Lutz, 21, to send it along from Tripler Army Hospital. Visiting the hospital, Humphrey chatted Sunday with the Ohio GI and other men wounded in the Viet Nam conflict. He learned that Lutz was injured by enemy fire when he walked into a Viet Cong encampment Dec. 19.

Formula For Early Decor

Authentic Early American decorating graces this bedroom suite. Antique brass bedstead and carved oak chests are set off by walls paneled in ponderosa pine to eight-foot height, figured walpaper above. What-not around dressing room doorway holds books, figurine collection.

Who says Early American decorating is dead?

More than ever before, there is a deep interest in capturing the warmth and charm of the ancestral American abode and working it into the tapestry of 20th-century living.

In a bedroom, particularly, the homey warmth of Early American decor is pleasing. A brass bedstead, an heirloom quilted coverlet, and fine, old carved oak chests can form a nucleus for a happy return to the past.

IF THESE exist already in the family, most of the job is done. If not, a search for furnishings must begin — either through antique dealers or in furniture stores where good reproductsions are to be had. Once the principal pieces are procured, decorating turns to the walls and floor to provide the proper setting.

Traditional in Early American decor are pine paneling and finely-figured wallpapers, often used in combination. Both are easily obtainable today. Ponderosa pine, with its honey brown coloring, is the favorite among the pines for full-wall paneling and wainscoting.

The choice between pine boards with knots and knot-free paneling is personal. But, as a general rule of thumb, gear the selection to the amount of pattern and texture needed in the room.

If figured wallpaper is also to be used, plus a braid rug and patterned quilt, it's wise to select clear vertical grain or flat grain boards in preference to those that have distinctive knots. If pattern is at a minimum, knotty grade panel boards can be delightful.

FINISH THE pine clear to capture its warm coloring. A modern plastic varnish in the "hand-rubbed" finish is smart to use and has the soft sheen of waxed, rubbed wood.

For the floor covering, there are several possibilities. One carpeting pattern successfully simulates the appearance of a rag rug, bringing with it the multitude of color tones and textures that creates a surprisingly neutral look. Good florals are also making a return. And, of course, an authentic braid rug over polished wood is always a winner.

Remember, always, that Early American decorating is an intensely personal affair. Its charm depends directly on the personal touch and on the mix of European and American crafted furnishings that existed in Great Grandfather's home.

Kenmar Buys Another Firm

EAST PALESTINE — The Kenmar Manufacturing Co. has purchased 100 per cent of the stock of the Pittsburgh Chair Co., Robert Maurer, Kenmar president, announced today.

Workmen are being called back today to the Pittsburgh plant near W. Main St. to resume production which has been restricted for several months.

The Pittsburgh concern will be operated as a separate corporation, and will continue with the same lines of furniture, Maurer said.

Heading the new corporation will be Raymond Maurer of Columbiana, brother of the Kenmar president. Robert Maurer will be vice president, and Ralph Lebowitz of Youngstown, who was chairman of the board, will be vice president in charge of sales, merchandising and styling.

Pittsburgh Chair has been in operation here since 1935. At one time, it employed almost 100. More recently, the work force was about 45.

2 Men Arrested For Robbery Of Pittsburgh Bank

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Two young men sought in a New Year's Eve holdup of a downtown bank were arrested Sunday, one of them suffering from a fresh but unexplained gunshot wound.

Kenneth Owens Jr., 19, was found by police lying on a couch in his North Side home, a bullet wound in his thigh.

Police said Brown and Owens were part of a trio that held up the Stanwix Street branch of Mellon National Bank shortly before closing Friday and fled with $2,500.

A third man is still being sought.

Owens was free on bail awaiting trial on charges of staging a $60,000 jewelry store robbery last September.

In that case, Owens, police said, was arrested as he stepped off a trolley a few minutes after the robbery carrying a milk tray with the jewels in it.

Chemist Charged With Killing Man In West Virginia

MORGANTOWN (AP) — Arraignment was scheduled today for a West Virginia University Hospital chemist accused of gunning down another man on a Morgantown street Sunday morning.

Olgerts Grinvalds, 39, was charged with murder for the death of John Huggins, a tavern operator about 50 years old.

Police said Huggins was shot with a 25-caliber pistol as he drove on a downtown street. He managed to stop his car and get out, but was dead on arrival at University Hospital.

Grinvalds telephoned police from his apartment a few minutes after the shooting, officers said. Police said they learned the two men had argued recently, but did not know the exact cause of the shooting.

Total Over $2 Million

Building Permits Set New Record

New construction and remodeling hit a record - breaking $2,150,485 in East Liverpool during 1965.

The total exceeds by $31,832 the previous record of $2,118,653 established in 1954. The third biggest year for local construction work was $1,569,362, set in 1953.

The 1965 projects bring to $16,326,647 the estimated dollar value of building projects in the city since the close of World War II in 1954.

THE PRECEDING year had only one major project to help push up the total — a $75,000 permit for a structure at Minerva and Walnut Sts. scheduled to be occupied by a Kroger Co. market.

But the list of 1965 permits is thick with major projects. The peak month was July, when work estimated to cost $759,675 was authorized in permits issued by the mayor's office.

The July permits included: $40,000 for another addition at City Hospital; $250,000 for the Gilmore Convalescent Home on W. 5th St., and $100,000 for remodelling of the First Church of Christ.

June's permit hit $387,475, pushed ahead by a $350,000 authorization for the new Inn Town Motel on E. 3rd St. near Broadway.

A permit for a $275,000 Gaston Pl. apartment development helped swell the August total to $354,000. A permit for another $100,000 motel on E. 3rd St., near the Chester Bridge, pushed the April total to $192,325.

By contrast, 1963 permits hit $922,839 and 1962 building authorizations reached $1,071,932. The total for 1961 was $443,308.

THE TOTAL does not represent all the new construction work in the immediate East Liverpool area.

Millions have been spent on new housing in the suburban areas immediately outside the corporate limits in a postwar migration to the adjoining townships that began 20 years ago. Governmental projects are not included, as building permits are not required. The $850,000 rebuilding of St. Clair Ave. is an example.

Here's a monthly breakdown on the dollar value of 1965 building permits, contrasting the totals with the same months in 1964:

January, $11,567 and $4,800; February, $1,500 and $38,700; March, $60,800 and $4,250; April, 192,325 and $84,200; May, $72,870 and 74,899; June, $387,475 and $60187.

July, $759,675 and $25,924; August, $354,380 and $51,025; September, $142,917 and $28,142; October, $52,734 and $61,700; November, $106,650 and $148,875, and December, 2,300 and $8,167.

The December permits covered these projects:

Walter Lane, to remodel a storeroom at 167 Center St. into an apartment, $500.

Howard L. Mason, to install a new roof on the Keys Co. building on Market St., $1,500.

William J. Treleven, to repair a porch on a house at 311 Beaver St., $100.

In addition, two tear - down permits were issued. Henry Ward received authorization to raze a structure on Lincoln Ave. and Dorothy Bowdler obtained a permit to tear down a small frame building at 209 W. 6th St.

Nearly a third of the United States is forest land, including more than 1,000 different kinds of trees. Commercial areas include land capable of producing timber of commercial quantity and quality. Non-commercial areas include alpine, semi-desert, chaparral, and other forest types of low timber productivity, although much of this is important for watershed protection.

Hancock Gets New Cuts On Power Rates

FAIRMONT, W. Va. — Customers of the Monongahela Power Co. will share in the benefits of that utility's record 1965 operations.

A general reduction in rates amounting to $2,200,000 on an annual basis will be reflected in all bills issued on and after today.

At the same time, President Don Kammert predicted that 1966 will be a record year in capital expenditures, which are expected to total approximately $25 million.

The newest reduction in rates, by far the largest in the history of the 75-year-old company, applies to virtually all of its more than 231,000 customers.

For those residential customers in West Virginia covered by the company's standard Schedule "A", the new schedules provide a reduction of one - half cent on each of the first 30 kilowatt hours of electric service per month.

Customers under Schedule "AE", those who heat their home water supply with electricity, will get an additional 50 kilowatt hours at a rate of one cent. Previously that schedule provided a floating block of 300 kilowatt hours at such a low rate. Now it has been expanded to 350 kilowatt hours. The "AE" schedule also includes a bottom block of kilowatt hours at 1.4 cents.

The "total electric" or "TE" customer also gets a reduction under the new schedules. A new bottom block of electricity at a flat price of one cent per kilowatt hour has been added, to cover all electricity after the first 1,600 kilowatt hours per month. Presently, most of the electricity under this rate is billed at 1.2 cents. The new block will mean important savings particularly during the home heating season.

Small commercial and power customers will benefit by changes in the first two energy blocks of General Service Rate Schedule "OB". For instance, a customer paying $15 per month on this rate will find his bill reduced to $12.32 for the same quantity of electricity.

More than a million dollars of the rate reduction is distributed over rates for large commercial and industrial service. In addition, an important reduction is made in the price of electricity for a growing new type of service — that of space heating in schools and churches. For this use a flat rate of 1.2 cents per kilowatt hour replaces the former price of 1.5 cents.

Air Force Chief Cites Speedy U.S. Buildup

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—U.S. Air Force Secretary Harold Brown, winding up a three-day inspection of American bases in South Viet Nam, Monday night described the buildup of forces against the Communists as "the most rapid in many, many years."

Without taking anything from the Berlin airlift in 1948, the World War II lift "over the Hump" in Asia or the air lift of the entire 2nd Armored Division to Germany in 1963, Brown declared:

"None of those was more impressive, and perhaps this is the most impressive of all. Remember this involved transport and construction combat, fighter planes and reconnaissance."

The pair of 30-year-old Packer backs toted the heavy load Sunday in the snow, rain and fog while the old-fashioned ball control game carried the Packers to the National Football League title on a 23-12 victory over Cleveland's defending champions before 50,852 damp fans at Lambeau Field.

Taylor, named the most valuable player in the game, carried 27 times for 96 yards. Hornung, the former Golden Boy of the pack, carried 18 times for 105 yards, including one beautiful 34-yard run and a 13-yard ramble on the old Green Bay touchdown sweep.

Ball control did the job for the Packers, a strategy dear to the heart of Coach Vince Lombardi.

"You have to control the ball against the Browns if you are going to beat them," said Lombardi. "We planned to stick to the basics. Yes, I think there is a little spark left yet in Jimmy and Paul."

Lombardi probably provided some of the spark when he signed Anderson, the fabulous Texas Tech halfback for a reported $600,000, and Grabowski, Illinois' record - breaking fullback, for a reported $250,000.

Taylor and Hornung aren't about to step aside for the rookies.

"Donny is going to be a great one," said Hornung, who was instrumental in getting Anderson to sign with the Packers. "I took him out in Baltimore and talked to him."

Asked if the high-priced rookies were going to elbow their way into the starting lineup next fall, Hornung said: "We'll wait and see about that next year."

Neither Anderson nor Grabowski was present since they are playing in the Hula Bowl in Honolulu.

Bart Starr, a doubtful starter all week because of the back bruises he suffered in the Western Conference playoff game with Baltimore, called a great game for Green Bay and completed 10 of 18 passes for 147 yards and one touchdown. His TD pass was a 47-yarder to Carroll Dale for the first score of the game.

"Starr called a great game," said Lombardi. "It was a tough day to throw. The ball was slippery, and the receivers couldn't make good cuts."

Lombardi wasn't kidding. It was a miserable day in Packerland. About 3 inches of snow fell during the morning, and it snowed and rained intermittently during the afternoon as the temperature hovered around 33 degrees.

Yeoman work by the city sanitation department and a crew of youngsters brushed the snow off the tarpaulin so the field was playable by game time. Despite the snow and ice there were no fumbles, and each team scored its first TD on a pass.

Starr hit Dale on the 47-yard score at 3:52 of the first quarter, and Cleveland came right back with a touchdown on a 17-yard pass from Frank Ryan to Gary Collins.

Groza picked it up and fired a desperation forward pass to Franklin, who was caught on the 5-yard line by Willie Wood. Instead of a 7-7 tie, the Browns trailed 7-6.

Groza, the 41-year-old field goal artist who has been playing pro ball since 1946, had made 96 straight conversions until this one was messed up. A few minutes later he kicked a 24-yard field goal that gave Cleveland a 9-7 edge.

Don Chandler, kicking hero of the sudden - death playoff game at Baltimore, booted a 15-yarder early in the second and a 23-yarder later in the quarter after Wood intercepted a Ryan pass and ran it back from the Cleveland 25 to the 10.

Despite's Groza's 28-yard field goal in the dying seconds of the half, after Walt Beach had intercepted a Starr pass, the Browns trailed 13-12 at the half.

Green Bay's inspired defense rose to the occasion in the second half and blanked the Browns, shutting out the fabulous Jim Brown who made only 50 yards on 12 carries and scored no touchdowns during the afternoon.

Ray Nitschke did a tremendous job on Brown when he ran and when he went down field as a pass receiver.

The Packers ground it out in the second half, controlling the ball. They moved 90 yards in 11 plays, eating up six minutes, 48 seconds, for a third-period TD scoring on Hornung's 13-yard sweep around left end.

"That really killed us," said Brown after the game. "They adjusted to the conditions. We couldn't. Those two guys (Taylor and Hornung) really did a great job."

Trailing 20-12 in the third period, the Browns got close enough to try for a field goal, but Henry Jordan broke through and blocked Groza's kick. Just a few seconds earlier Nitschke and Wood had broken up a Ryan pass to Brown in the end zone.

Green Bay, setting a record with its ninth league championship, ran 69 offensive plays to 39 by Cleveland. The Packers gained 332 yards over-all to 161 and outgained the Browns on the ground 204 to 64.

Chandler's three field goals tied a title game record shared by six others, including Hornung, Groza and Jerry Kramer.

It was a particularly satisfying triumph for the Packers, who floundered in midseason with offensive headaches and needed help from the Chicago Bears to catch Baltimore.

The NFL announced no financial figures, but the victory figured to be worth about $7,000 to each Packer. Each Brown will get about $4,600 as a losing share from the gate receipts and the $720,000 of television money that went into the pot.

Soggy Going For Both Teams

Green Bay Adjusts Better To Condition Of Gridiron

By JOE MOOSHIL

GREEN, BAY, Wis. (AP)—There were no goats. There were no alibis. There was little jubilation and less gloom.

Green Bay's 23-12 victory over Cleveland for the National Football League championship Sunday was a professional showpiece from start to finish despite adverse weather conditions.

A snowstorm which dropped 3½ inches of snow, followed by mild temperatures and intermittent rains left Lambeau Field soggy.

The Packers, relying on ball possession in the running of Jim Taylor and Paul Hornung, adjusted to the situation. The Browns were unable to do so. And the coveted title again fell upon the city of Green Bay, which calls itself "Title Town, U.S.A."

The Browns, right down the line, had nothing but praise for the victors.

"We got licked by a good team," said Cleveland Coach Blanton Collier. "Their possession game was excellent. They made the big play. We couldn't."

Collier heaped admiration upon quarterback Bart Starr, who was a touch-and-go starter because of rib injuries until the day of the big game when Lombardi said, "Starr will start because he wants to."

"That one point made us play catch-up football," said Jim Brown. "The field was not in the best of condition for a running game. Sure, it is the same for everybody, but the team which is ahead has an advantage on that kind of a field."

Wilt Becomes 2nd Player To Surpass 20,000 Points

"That's the only thing left — collectively," the Philadelphia 76ers 7-foot-1 star said Sunday after becoming the second player in NBA history to score more than 20,000 points in a career. "Individually . . personally . . there's nothing left."

Wilt scored 50 points in the 76ers' 133-122 victory over the New York Knickerbockers, reaching a total of 20,019 in 499 games over a seven-year period.

In other NBA games, San Francisco whipped Detroit 136-113, Cincinnati bombed Baltimore 138-107 and Boston knocked off Los Angeles 124-113.

"I consider it a great achievement," Wilt said of the milestone, "because it took a long while to get it. It's not a fly-by-night thing. I'm very, very proud of it."

The shot that put him over the 20,000 mark was a free throw, hooped after he was fouled by Willis Reed with 2:11 to play in the third quarter. He missed the first, but made the second of two shots. The game was stopped and he was presented with the game ball.

Wilt also had 23 rebounds and six assists in the game.

College Poll Slated For Reshuffling

By The Associated Press

The college basketball rankings are due for a major reshuffling today as the nation's top teams happily turn their attention from the scores of holiday tournaments to conference races.

The tournament mania was bad news for most of the nationally ranked teams — five of them losing in major tournaments last week.

Still another, third-ranked Bradley, lost its lone regular season start, and the list of major college unbeatens dwindled to two — fifth-ranked Kentucky, 8-0, and unranked Texas Western, 10-0, winner of the Sun Bowl tournament.

No. 8 St. Joseph's, Pa., and No. 10 Providence were the only ranked teams participating in tournament action to escape unscathed. St. Joe's, 9-2, won the Quaker City, and Providence, 8-1, took the Holiday Festival in New York.

The Missouri Valley and the SEC also opened last week. The Big Eight starts tonight, and action picks up in most of the others later in the week.

Georgia took Louisiana State 82-59 in the SEC opener, and Louisville beat St. Louis 84-80 in the Missouri Valley. Tonight the Big Eight opens with Kansas at Colorado, Oklahoma State at Oklahoma and Kansas State at Missouri.

The Atlantic Coast has Clemson at South Carolina and Maryland at North Carolina. The Southern Conference has Virginia Military at George Washington and The Citadel at East Carolina.

The Southwestern and Yankee conferences open Thursday, and the Mid-American, Pacific Coast and Big Ten start up Saturday.

Knocked off in tourney competition last week were No. 2 Vanderbilt in the Los Angeles Classic; Nov. 4 Iowa fell before Texas Western 86-68 in the Sun Bowl; No. 6 Brigham Young and No. 9 Minnesota lost in the Quaker City, and No. 7 Michigan in the Far West Classic.

TESTIMONIAL as to the condition of the field at Green Bay Sunday is given by Elijah Pitts, Packers defensive halfback, whose helmet is covered with grass and mud as he leaves the field in the NFL title game. Pitts didn't mind the mud one bit after the Packers won the championship with a 23-12 victory. (UPI Telephoto)

Final score: NFL 38, AFL 11.

NFL teams finished sweeping the country from end to end at the sites of the weekend college bowl games and wound up with 38 of their first 43 draft eligibles signed while the AFL latched on to only 11 of 23 top draft choices picked on the first three rounds.

The NFL's overwhelming victory in the competition was sealed when such prized catches as Donny Anderson, Johnny Roland, Harold Lucas and Francis Peay signed after concluding their college careers in bowl games.

The Houston Oilers made the big final push for the AFL by signing four tackles, including Glen Ray Hines, George Rice and Dave McCormick for a $1-million package, while Kansas City pulled off a surprise by nabbing Heisman Trophy winner Mike Garrett.

Anderson, Texas Tech's two-time All-America running back, signed with Green Bay for a reported $600,000 that might be the highest on record — but less than the $887,000 Houston owner Bud Adams said he had offered for Anderson's services.

Roland, Missouri's all-purpose back, received more than $300,000 for signing with the St. Louis Cardinals, who also grabbed Lucas, Michigan State's huge tackle. Peay, Missouri's standout tackle and a first-round pick, went with the New York Giants as did Nebraska end Freeman White.

Besides Lucas, NFL teams signed four other second-round selections — Missouri tackle Butch Allison going with Baltimore, Arkansas halfback Jim Lindsay with Minnesota, Florida guard Larry Gagner with Pittsburgh and Nebraska tackle Walter Barnes with Washington.

Anderson and Roland both were high future picks in each league; Peay, Allison and Lindsey were second-round choices in the AFL draft, and Lucas, Gagner and Barnes had been chosen on the AFL's third round.

The Oilers, with money to spend after missing out on Anderson, did just that in signing the four tackles — Hines and Jim Williams of Arkansas and Rice and McCormick of LSU. McCormick was acquired in a trade with Boston.

McCormick, a No. 1 future in the AFL draft last year, was a fifth-round pick of San Francisco. Hines was Houston's No. 2 pick as a future and St. Louis' sixth. Rice was the Oilers' third-round pick this season and Chicago's first in the NFL draft.

Adams, who was specific about the figure he offered Anderson, refused to divulge individual figures about the foursome because "we never give out figures on tackles." But, he said, "we're talking in excess of a million dollars."

Rice was only the second of 16 first-round picks lost by the NFL to the American League. The NFL also signed 11 of 13 second-round eligibles and 13 of 14 third-round picks.

Alabama Rates Leading Contender For National Title After Upsets

By JIM HACKLEMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Joe LaBruzzo, a chunky little line-buster.

And Steve Sloan, a spectacular marksman.

Those were the headliners as UCLA, Louisiana State and Alabama humbled college football's Big Three in a sensational string of bowl games New Year's Day.

Beban led the attack and Stiles performed magnificently on defense in UCLA's 14-12 upset of top-ranked Michigan State in the Rose Bowl. LaBruzzo was the back of the game as LSU topped second-ranked Arkansas 14-7 in the Cotton Bowl, ending the Razorbacks' winning streak at 22 games. And Sloan was a record-smashing passer in sparking Alabama over third-ranked Nebraska 39-28 in the Orange Bowl.

Each of the losers went into the post-season classic with a 10-0 record — and it was a sure-shot bet that one of them would wind up as national champion.

But Saturday's surprises changed all that and Alabama, which was ranked No. 4 after an 8-1-1 regular season, must rate the leading contender for the title off its domination of Nebraska's massive Cornhuskers.

The championship will be decided in The Associated Press' poll of experts, with results announced Tuesday.

In another post-season thriller Saturday, Missouri withstood the passing artistry of Steve Spurrier and edged Florida 20-18 in the Sugar Bowl at New Orleans.

Beban scored both UCLA touchdowns, was an ever-dangerous running and passing threat, and quarterbacked the Bruins superbly. Stiles was a defensive standout all day, particularly in clutch situations. He intercepted two passes, setting up a TD on one with 42-yard return, and helped pull down Bob Apisa short of the goal when the Michigan State fullback went for the tying two-point conversion attempt in the closing seconds.

UCLA stunned the heavily favored Spartans with two second-quarter touchdowns and Kurt Zimmerman kicked the vital extra points. Michigan State got its two scores in the final period, but failed on two tries for two-point conversions.

LSU also scored its 14 points in the second quarter, overcoming a 7-0 lead held by the favored Razorbacks in the Cotton Bowl at Dallas. LaBruzzo, a 5-foot-9 halfback, rammed over twice from the one for the Tigers, carrying four straight times from the Arkansas 16 for his first touchdown and three times from the five for his second.

Sloan was an amazing sharpshooter as 'Bama ran off from Nebraska in their night game at Miami's Orange Bowl. Although hampered by a torn rib cartilage suffered in the opening period, he hit on 20 of 29 passes for 296 yards and two touchdowns. Ray Perkins caught 10 passes for the Crimson Tide, two for TDs.

Sloan's 20 completions and 296 yards and Perkins' 10 catches were Orange Bowl records.

Missouri went into the last quarter against Florida with a seemingly comfortable 20-0 lead, but Steve Spurrier made it edgy for the Tigers. He threw for two touchdowns and scored another in the final period — but the stirring comeback proved futile for the Gators as they failed on two-point pass attempts after each touchdown.

Spurrier tried 45 passes and connected on 27 — both Sugar Bowl records — gaining 352 yards through the air.

In Friday's post-season action — sophomore Lenny Snow ran for 136 yards, leading Georgia Tech over Texas Tech 31-21 in the Gator Bowl; Texas Western upset Texas Christian 13-12 in the Sun Bowl; and Tod Hullin of Washington tossed three scoring strikes as the West beat the East 22-7 in the Shrine game at San Francisco.

League Play To Start For Ohio Cagers

By HAL PARIS

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Now that holiday tournament competition is out of the way, Ohio's college basketball teams can settle down to the business of shooting for conference titles.

League warfare begins in earnest this week. Ohio State catches Big Ten champion Michigan at St. John Arena Saturday afternoon; surging Cincinnati (8-1) has two Missouri Valley contests on the road and thre's full slate of activity in the Mid-American Conference.

The Buckeyes (5-4) have not been impressive in non-conference competition but could get a strong psychological boost with a victory over the hot-and-cold Wolverines.

Cincinnati showed it will be a prime contender in the Missouri Valley with a pair of one-sided conquests last week over Utah and Wake Forest.

Miami and Ohio University were pre-season co-favorites in the MAC and nothing happened late in 1965 to change that picture much. Western Michigan rates a darkhorse role in the seven-team loop.

Akron and Otterbein, both 4-0 in the sprawling 15-member Ohio Conference, appear likely to fight it out for honors with improving Wittenberg expected to be a serious challenger.

Youngstown (8-0) and Akron (7-0) are the only unbeaten Buckeye schools but the Penguins put their winning streak on the line Saturday at Niagara.

Central State (7-1), Youngstown, Findlay (7-2) and Steubenville (7-2) look like the best of the small school independents.

Dayton (8-1) dropped its first of the young campaign last week in a tough 77-75 loss to Maryland in the finale of the Sugar Bowl Classic. The Flyers entertain arch-rival Xavier tonight and visit once-beaten DePaul Saturday.

Other top attractions this week:

Tuesday: Central State at Wittenberg.

Thursday—Cincinnati at North Texas State.

Saban Quits Bills, Ready To Take Post At Maryland

The Associated Press, meanwhile, learned that Saban will be named head coach at the University of Maryland.

The university plans a news conference today but officials were not available for comment on the report that Saban will be named as Tom Nugent's successor.

Saban made his stunning announcement Sunday night in the Bills' office at a hastily called news conference, surprising even team officials as they stood around listening while Saban read slowly from a prepared statement.

The affable 44-year-old coach, pointing to his playing days with the champion Cleveland Browns and his two AFL championships with the Bills, said, "No man who has been a part of pro football can leave without regrets. But there can be little left to conquer in professional football."

Then he added:

"I feel my decision would be the same regardless of the team or city in which I was coaching."

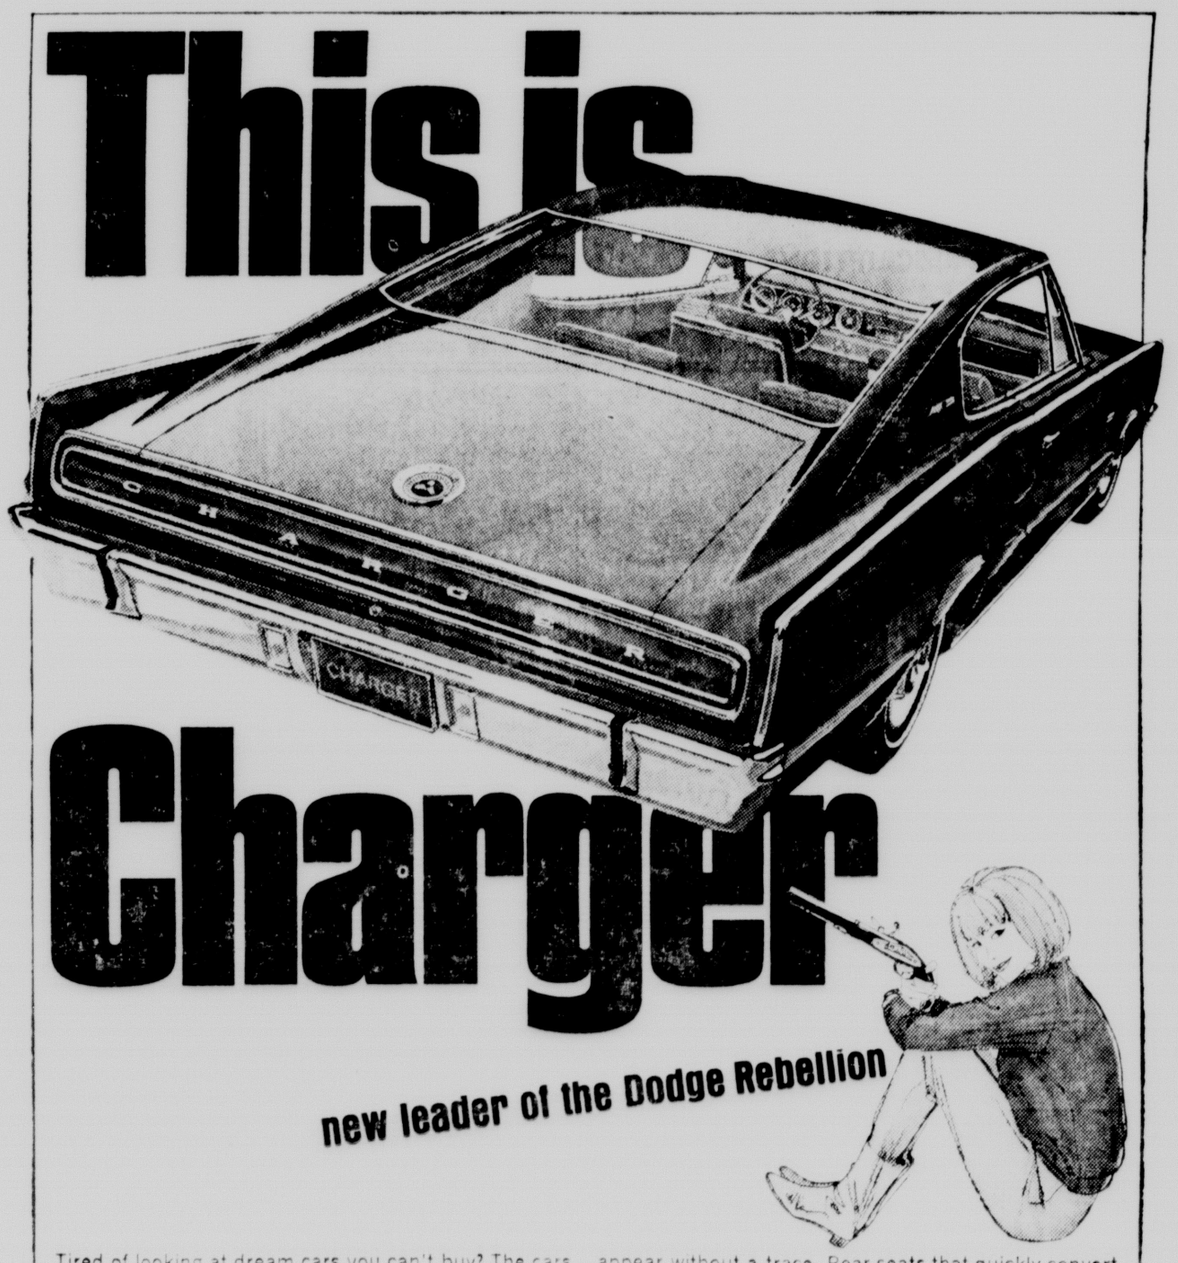

Besides those two pointed statements and additional words in praise of the Bills organization and owner Ralph C. Wilson, Saban shed no further light on why he was stepping down in such an unusual manner.

Saban, who had a checkered college coaching career and had many detractors after becoming a pro coach with Boston's AFL entry the year the league began, built the Bills and his reputation at the same time in his four years at Buffalo.

Despite an 0-5 beginning his first year with the Bills, the club always finished above .500 under Saban's guidance, ending the 1962 season with a 7-6-1 record. The mark was the same in 1963 but a bitter loss to his former Boston team in a playoff for the Eastern Division title was tacked on.

Saban, however, had his revenge last year when the Bills won the Eastern title with a 12-2 record and clinched against the Patriots. Buffalo then went on to beat San Diego 20-7 in the championship game and repeated 23-0 against the Chargers this year after finishing with a 10-3-1 regular season record.

Farm Output Goes Up, Less Than Population

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department reports that world farm production last year increased by 1.5 per cent over 1964 and the production of food goods increased by 1 per cent.

But those gains, the department said in its annual survey, were offset by a population gain of 2 per cent. Because of this, the report said, the per-capita food supply was estimated at 100 per cent of the 1957-59 average, down 1 per cent from 1964.

The report said production rose faster than population in only two areas — the Western Hemisphere and Western Europe.

The United States per-capita supply was 104 per cent of the 1957-59 base average.

NFL Finishes Far In Front Signing Top Choices

AFL Behind 38-11 After Bowl Games

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

The National and American football leagues, who do not meet on the playing field, have concluded their annual game for the top draft choices in the country.

Final score: NFL 38, AFL 11.

NFL teams finished sweeping the country from end to end at the sites of the weekend college bowl games and wound up with 38 of their first 43 draft eligibles signed while the AFL latched on to only 11 of 23 top draft choices picked on the first three rounds.

The NFL's overwhelming victory in the competition was sealed when such prized catches as Donny Anderson, Johnny Roland, Harold Lucas and Francis Peay signed after concluding their college careers in bowl games.

The Houston Oilers made the big final push for the AFL by signing four tackles, including Glen Ray Hines, George Rice and Dave McCormick for a $1-million package, while Kansas City pulled off a surprise by nabbing Heisman Trophy winner Mike Garrett.

Anderson, Texas Tech's two-time All-America running back, signed with Green Bay for a reported $600,000 that might be the highest on record — but less than the $887,000 Houston owner Bud Adams said he had offered for Anderson's services.

Roland, Missouri's all-purpose back, received more than $300,000 for signing with the St. Louis Cardinals, who also grabbed Lucas, Michigan State's huge tackle. Peay, Missouri's standout tackle and a first-round pick, went with the New York Giants as did Nebraska end Freeman White.

Besides Lucas, NFL teams signed four other second-round selections — Missouri tackle Butch Allison going with Baltimore, Arkansas halfback Jim Lindsay with Minnesota, Florida guard Larry Gagner with Pittsburgh and Nebraska tackle Walter Barnes with Washington.

Anderson and Roland both were high future picks in each league; Peay, Allison and Lindsey were second-round choices in the AFL draft, and Lucas, Gagner and Barnes had been chosen on the AFL's third round.

The Oilers, with money to spend after missing out on Anderson, did just that in signing the four tackles — Hines and Jim Williams of Arkansas and Rice and McCormick of LSU. McCormick was acquired in a trade with Boston.

McCormick, a No. 1 future in the AFL draft last year, was a fifth-round pick of San Francisco. Hines was Houston's No. 2 pick as a future and St. Louis' sixth. Rice was the Oilers' third-round pick this season and Chicago's first in the NFL draft.

Adams, who was specific about the figure he offered Anderson, refused to divulge individual figures about the foursome because "we never give out figures on tackles." But, he said, "we're talking in excess of a million dollars."

Rice was only the second of 16 first-round picks lost by the NFL to the American League. The NFL also signed 11 of 13 second-round eligibles and 13 of 14 third-round picks.

Farm Output Goes Up, Less Than Population

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department reports that world farm production last year increased by 1.5 per cent over 1964 and the production of food goods increased by 1 per cent.

But those gains, the department said in its annual survey, were offset by a population gain of 2 per cent. Because of this, the report said, the per-capita food supply was estimated at 100 per cent of the 1957-59 average, down 1 per cent from 1964.

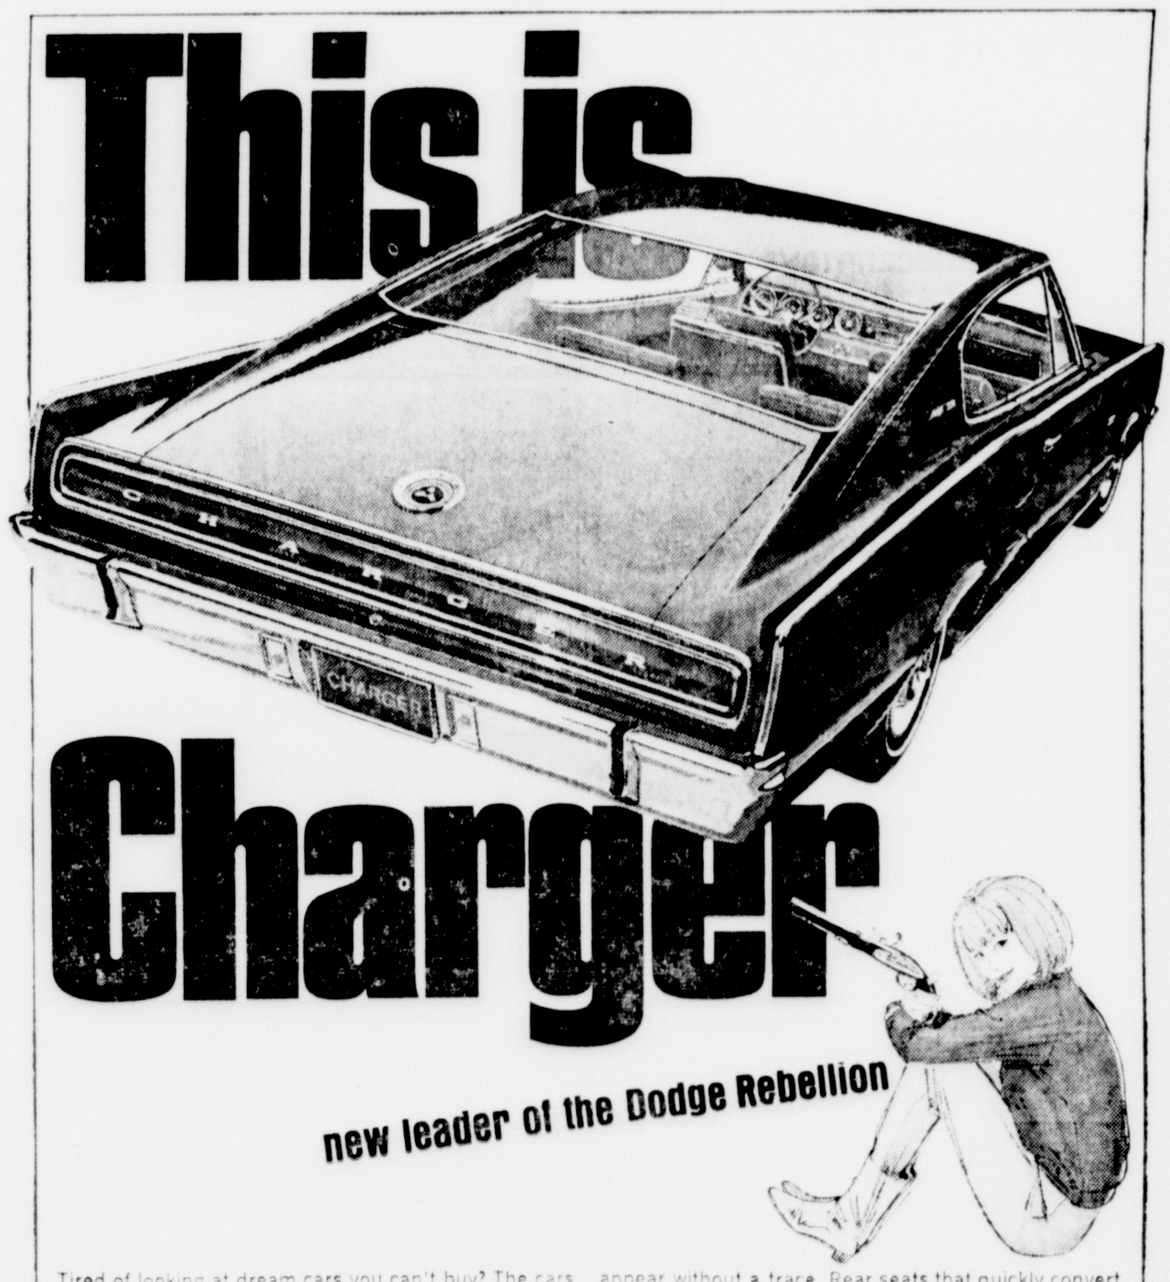

The report said production rose faster than population in only two areas — the Western Hemisphere and Western Europe.

The United States per-capita supply was 104 per cent of the 1957-59 base average.

Much Time Spent On Peace Move

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson did a lot of personal soul-searching before deciding to launch a Viet Nam peace offensive.

Johnson, who returned to the White House Sunday night after a 13-day stay at his Texas ranch, was described by close associates as having spent many hours reviewing and revising before beginning his peace moves.

The President's stance became more evident during the weekend when White House sources disclosed he is prepared to enter peace talks without preconceived solutions or the thought of a quick settlement.

They said the President is willing to seek gradual step-by-step progress — much as occurs in domestic politics when public officials seek to resolve differences on such questions as civil rights.

Johnson's views, as relayed to newsmen, indicated that he concluded, in rethinking his position on Viet Nam, that the United States could do more to promote peace.

For example, he was said to blame himself and his administration for what he regards as a failure to convince Hanoi and Peking of American sincerity in seeking a settlement.

The sources said he thought this country's earlier peace efforts had been handicapped by unwillingness to state the government's position in credible terms.

Moreover, he was described as feeling that propagandists on both sides had so obscured the basic issues that, at this point, it is difficult to tell where either side stands.

Perhaps the most surprising attitude attributed to Johnson was a view that, should his administration end now, history would judge him harshly because of Viet Nam.

Sources said it was not accidental that the summary of his views included references to failures reminiscent of his language in a telephone address to the AFL-CIO convention Dec. 9 in which he mentioned failings, failures and shortcomings.

It was in that speech that Johnson said he was "determined that every prospect for peace be exhausted before other broad steps are taken" in Viet Nam.

— His biggest disappointment last year stemmed from frustrations he faced in Viet Nam. He got greatest personal satisfaction from progress in civil rights.

— The President thinks laws already on the books mark the end of the Negro's search for liberty and equality and the start of another, more difficult search for true brotherhood with the white majority.

— Johnson hopes to strengthen personal ties with European leaders through some foreign travel in the months ahead. A meeting in France with President Charles de Gaulle is a possibility.

— The President was disappointed by lack of progress in improving American-Soviet relations in 1965. He hopes 1966 will produce better results in this area.

— He believes the Dominican Republic crisis had some beneficial consequences but will await the verdict of history on the ultimate results of American military intervention.

— The "welfare state" is dead as a political issue, Johnson believes, because in his view the great majority of Americans feel the federal government has a responsibility to promote opportunity through social welfare programs.

— Johnson is satisfied with the latest national polls showing 62 per cent or more approve his performance.

— He considers himself back in good shape physically and ready for the job ahead.

Out Of The Air

By HAL HUMPHREY

He Runs 'Cause He's A Coward

Something about the "Run For Your Life" series bothers me whenever I see it on Monday nights, and I think I've finally figured out what it is. The hero of the piece is a coward. Why wasn't he charging around the world righting wrongs and loving with abandon before his doctor told him that he had only two years to live?

Hal Humphrey

I'll tell you why. He had no guts. But now that he knows his string has about run out, Paul Bryan, as he is called, is suddenly a big man. He doesn't have to worry about keeping up his Blue Cross payments and as a bachelor he has a built-in safety device against predatory females bent on marriage.

A fellow who has nothing to lose isn't really taking any risks when he chooses the town bully. Paul Bryan's coolness as his plane runs out of gas over the Sahara Desert is pure sham, since he knows anyway that the Grim Reaper has him marked down for an early departure from this planet.

I TRIED to pin down Ben Gazzara about how it feels to play TV's first cowardly hero but being a man on the run for an hour every week makes it difficult to catch up with him for any length of time. He came in for a quick beer at the commissary on the Universal lot where the series is filmed but excused himself in about 30 minutes—he said to get back to the set.

Later I spotted him running off the lot into the Rickshaw, a cocktail bar and cafe, where I could only assume the next scene in "Run For Your Life" was being shot.

Anyway, during our brief meeting, Ben said he had been screaming for the producers to come up with a hometown-revisited episode in which Paul Bryan could be better explained.

"Paul was the kind of attorney who would take unpopular cases and he rubbed status the wrong way always. If we can get him back to San Francisco in an episode where all this started, then some of this could be brought out as he talks to old friends. He has to be made more complex in order to explain why he's doing what he is," said Ben.

OCCASIONALLY the character Paul Bryan finds it necessary to reveal the state of his health to someone involved in the plot. This is supposed to make for a gripping dramatic moment but I'm sure many viewers, especially those fans of "Dr. Kildare" and "Ben Casey", would rather know the nature of Paul's terminal disease so they could prescribe for him or tell him about a friend who has had the same thing for the pat 50 years.

Ben reports that he discovered early in the series that the only way to act the role of Paul Bryan is to forget that Paul is doomed to an early death but I'm not sure he always accomplishes this. Ben belongs to that group of method actors who lean heavily on the long ominous stare. Someone asks them a question and they stare at their interrogator for several seconds, not with a look of indecision, but like a man searching his soul and everyone else's for deep hidden meanings.

AFTER ONE of these pregnant stares, Ben as Paul will utter some simple reply like, "Of course, you're right," and you the viewer are sure you've missed something in the translation.

I still insist that the mysticism, or whatever it is, that permeates "Run For Your Life" is a phony cover-up for a guy who was only an ambitious play-the-game kind of lawyer and now that he knows he's going to die he's suddenly found the courage to live the way he dreamed of living.

He must have saved a tidy sum from that law practice of his, too, because wherever Paul goes it is first cabin all the way—the best hotels, most expensive women and champagne, etc. If he doesn't die on schedule, Paul will either have to go into bankruptcy or really run for his life to keep ahead of creditors.

Falopa, who complained of minor injuries, was cited for making an improper turn while Crawford was cited for failure to stop in the assured clear distance.

Baumgarner lost control of the car, which spun around in the highway and went off the right side into the guardrails.

A car driven by Donald G. Alexander, 28, of Cleveland ran into a ditch along Route 30 eight-tenths of a mile south of Route 7 Saturday at 8 a. m. He lost control when the wheels of his car dropped off the highway onto the soft berm, officers said.

Mail boxes owned by Neal Kidder and Phyllis Green, both of Negley R. D. 1, and two Review newspaper boxes were damaged by an unknown vehicle Saturday at 5 a. m. along Route 170 three and a half miles south of Route 154. The driver did not halt after striking the boxes, officers said.

Assembly Heads Toward Collision In Pennsylvania

HARRISBURG (AP) — This is a new calendar year but — the 1965 general assembly is still alive and on a collision course with the 1966 general assembly which convenes at noon Tuesday.

Democrats who rule the house previously raised the question of whether it is possible to conduct a general legislative session along with a fiscal session.

Like all meetings in even-numbered years, the 1966 session is limited by the state constitution to fiscal matters.

The house rules committee was scheduled to consider the question of final adjournment for 1965 at a meeting today.

Informed political observers speculated that the Democrats would forsake further legal argument and allow the 1965 session to dissolve automatically with the opening of the 1966 session.

As long as there is no interruption between legislative sessions, Gov. Scranton can't make interim appointments to various boards and commissions.

One such key vacancy is on the turnpike commission. Some Democrats fear that if a Republican were appointed during an interim it would give control over hundreds of turnpike jobs to the GOP.

The house and the Republican-controlled senate, meanwhile, returned today in continuation of the 1965 legislative session.

A major fight was expected on the proposed multi - million dollar captial budget for the 1965-67 biennium.

The great flat barges on the Barge Canal in upstate New York still push about 3,800,000 tons of cargo each year. There also has been a tremendous increase in the use of the 527-mile canal system by pleasure craft.

Meeting Planned By Democrats At Salem Saturday

The Columbiana County Democratic Executive Committee will meet Saturday night at 6:30 at Timberlane's Restaurant in Salem, Don R. Gosney, county party chairman, announced.

The committee will make a recommendation to Ohio Secretary of State Ted W. Brown on an appointment to the County Board of Elections.

Gosney, whose term will expire March 1, said he will be a candidate for another 4 - year term on the board. He first was appointed in 1951.

Gosney said Ohio law requires the executive committee of each party make a recommendation for such an appointment.

Rep. and Mrs. Wayne L. Hays will be guests, and Hays will speak.

Wives and husbands of the 60-member committee will be guests.

One of the most deadly and dreaded creatures in South America is a fish that is only about six inches long. This is the piranha, or cannibal fish, which will rip to pieces and devour any animal, man or beast unfortunate enough to get near him.

Sweeney Slated To Seek Nod As Attorney General

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—U. S. Rep. Robert E. Sweeney was expected to announce today that he will seek the Democratic nomination for attorney general.

A source close to the congressman said it was not official, but that he would make a formal statement at a noon news conference, indicating he would oppose former Atty. Gen. Mark McElroy for the Democratic nomination.

Sweeney's entry into the attorney general's race would clear the way for state Sen. Frank King to seek the Democratic nomination for governor. Sweeney has said he favors King as the strongest candidate to challenge Republican Gov. James A. Rhodes.

Officials Given Wellsville Oaths

The oath of office was issued by Solicitor Delmar O'Hara, who was elected in November. He received his oath of office Thursday from Common Pleas Judge Joel Sharp at Lisbon.

The new Council, headed by Allen Baldwin, president, will hold its first formal meeting Tuesday at 7:30 p. m. A clerk will be elected.

In giving the oath, O'Hara commented: "Wellsville has many problems to be solved and the next two years are going to be busy ones. May you all work together for a common goal to make Wellsville a better place in which to live and a town to be proud of."

The Rev. L. Wohrley of the First Methodist Church gave the closing prayer. Friends and families of the councilmen attended.

Bringing Up A Family

By Dr. GARRY MYERS

Chair-Sitting Punishment Effective

In any week one or several young mothers write to tell me how effectively chair - sitting for punishment works. Some seem to suppose it's a new idea, but I've been writing about its virtues in this column for over a quarter of a century. Until recent years hardly a letter mentioned it. For a long while I had almost despaired and feared I was not getting the idea across. A mother from Wisconsin wrote:

Dr. Garry Myers

"I read your column regularly and am so pleased with the results I have had with my children using the 'chair - sitting' method you recommend for discipline. I started this with my first child when he was about a year old and everyone scoffed, but it has worked so well through the last seven years.

"I AM surprised everyone doesn't try using the 'chair sitting' method. It has given me such a feeling of security with my children. They know they can't argue with that timer! They even set the timer themselves now when I have to announce this punishment."

Some other mothers say that the youngster from two to five or six would much rather have a spanking than to sit unamused for fifteen or twenty minutes. Other parents say it's very effective with the child as old as eight or ten.

As you know, I recommend it for the chronic dawdler on a school morning who has the whole family worn out getting him ready for school on time.

You may recall the advice—Have him stay home that day and sit unamused, doing nothing, while school is in session, with a recess of five or ten minutes at the end of each hour or so.

AN OCCASIONAL parent writes and says it won't work, that "the youngster won't stay in the chair unless I hold or tie him;" or that, "as soon as I turn my back he's out of the chair;" or that, "he cries and screams so terribly I can't stand it."

These parents started with chair - sitting before they had trained the youngster to stay where put, to respect the little word "no."

As soon as your little child, through pain from your bare flat hand applied to his bare fat thigh, has learned the meaning of "no" and will stay where put, you can abandon spanking. No need then for you to hold or tie him in the chair or to stay and watch him. Just go about your work but be alert.

Your child will soon learn that, the moment you find him down before the announced-beforehand time is up, he will get physical pain. He won't risk getting down. He will stay there until the bell rings or your tell him the time is up.

WHILE IN the chair your child will have no toys, radio, TV or other amusement. If he cries or screams you will be deaf. No amount of crying or pleading will change the clock. It will tick on and on. It has no feeling, never gets nervous or has a headache.

But many a parent will tell the child, "You sit there till I let you get down." When she tells him will depend on how he acts and how she feels.

Instead, she should tell him he must stay there till the clock rings or its big hand "gets there." She will make the sentence for exactly so many minutes, "about fifteen for the youngster two or three, thirty minutes for the child five or six."

A parent will not need to say more. If the child wishes to visit with her, in case she is near enough, she will talk to him as if nothing unusual had happened, but not about his offense. When the time is up he can go. He won't need to make any promises or hear a lecture.

My bulletins, "Love and Restraint" and "How to Teach Tot Meaning of No," may be secured by sending a self - addressed, stamped envelope to me in care of The Review.

Attack Injures Youth Near Irondale Tavern

Raymond Scott Clutter, son of Clarence Clutter of Irondale R. D. 1, suffered abrasions and contusions of the face, neck and chest in the fracas.

Clutter told the Jefferson County Sheriff's office that he was attacked by three men as he left Abdalla's Tavern at Cream City. He was admitted to the hospital Saturday at 5 a.m.

Midland Man Hurt In Fight

A Midland man was listed in "satisfactory" condition this morning at Rochester General Hospital following a fight with an East Liverpool man at the Midland Elks Lodge at 4th and Midland Aves. Sunday morning.

The fight occured at 2:45 when Kenneth Williams of 347 Penn Ave., Midland, and Ronald Roach of 1051 Pennsylvania Ave., East Liverpool, got into a heated argument, police said.

Williams pulled out a gun and pointed it at Roach, but before he could discharge it, Roach slugged him in the right jaw, knocking him to the floor, officers said.

Midland police said Williams will be charged with violation of the Uniform Firearms Act.

Possibly the first person in U. S. history to sound off about the population problem was Benjamin Franklin, who observed back in the 1760's that the way the world population was headed, under normal conditions it was going to double every 25 to 30 years.

Out Of The Air

By HAL HUMPHREY

He Runs 'Cause He's A Coward

Something about the "Run For Your Life" series bothers me whenever I see it on Monday nights, and I think I've finally figured out what it is. The hero of the piece is a coward. Why wasn't he charging around the world righting wrongs and loving with abandon before his doctor told him that he had only two years to live?

Hal Humphrey

I'll tell you why. He had no guts. But now that he knows his string has about run out, Paul Bryan, as he is called, is suddenly a big man. He doesn't have to worry about keeping up his Blue Cross payments and as a bachelor he has a built-in safety device against predatory females bent on marriage.

A fellow who has nothing to lose isn't really taking any risks when he chooses the town bully. Paul Bryan's coolness as his plane runs out of gas over the Sahara Desert is pure sham, since he knows anyway that the Grim Reaper has him marked down for an early departure from this planet.

I TRIED to pin down Ben Gazzara about how it feels to play TV's first cowardly hero but being a man on the run for an hour every week makes it difficult to catch up with him for any length of time. He came in for a quick beer at the commissary on the Universal lot where the series is filmed but excused himself in about 30 minutes—he said to get back to the set.

Later I spotted him running off the lot into the Rickshaw, a cocktail bar and cafe, where I could only assume the next scene in "Run For Your Life" was being shot.

Anyway, during our brief meeting, Ben said he had been screaming for the producers to come up with a hometown-revisited episode in which Paul Bryan could be better explained.

"Paul was the kind of attorney who would take unpopular cases and he rubbed status the wrong way always. If we can get him back to San Francisco in an episode where all this started, then some of this could be brought out as he talks to old friends. He has to be made more complex in order to explain why he's doing what he is," said Ben.

OCCASIONALLY the character Paul Bryan finds it necessary to reveal the state of his health to someone involved in the plot. This is supposed to make for a gripping dramatic moment but I'm sure many viewers, especially those fans of "Dr. Kildare" and "Ben Casey", would rather know the nature of Paul's terminal disease so they could prescribe for him or tell him about a friend who has had the same thing for the pat 50 years.

Ben reports that he discovered early in the series that the only way to act the role of Paul Bryan is to forget that Paul is doomed to an early death but I'm not sure he always accomplishes this. Ben belongs to that group of method actors who lean heavily on the long ominous stare. Someone asks them a question and they stare at their interrogator for several seconds, not with a look of indecision, but like a man searching his soul and everyone else's for deep hidden meanings.

AFTER ONE of these pregnant stares, Ben as Paul will utter some simple reply like, "Of course, you're right," and you the viewer are sure you've missed something in the translation.

I still insist that the mysticism, or whatever it is, that permeates "Run For Your Life" is a phony cover-up for a guy who was only an ambitious play-the-game kind of lawyer and now that he knows he's going to die he's suddenly found the courage to live the way he dreamed of living.

He must have saved a tidy sum from that law practice of his, too, because wherever Paul goes it is first cabin all the way—the best hotels, most expensive women and champagne, etc. If he doesn't die on schedule, Paul will either have to go into bankruptcy or really run for his life to keep ahead of creditors.

Young Motorist Cited After Chester Crash

John William Brenneman, 18, of New Cumberland R.D. 2 was cited for failure to have his vehicle under control about 1:30 a.m. Saturday by Chester Police Chief Harold Davis when his 1962 car ran off Route 30 near Pyramus Rd., in the vicinity of Rock Springs Park.

Brenneman, who was uninjured, is scheduled to appear before Mayor Harry Abrams Jan. 25 at 10 a. m.

Man Injured In Auto Crash

One man suffered a minor injury in one of five area accidents investiagted Saturday and Sunday by the State Highway Patrol at Lisbon.

Two crashes were reported Sunday. A car operated by George Falopa, 45, of Lisbon R. D. 4 was hit in the rear by another operated by Kenneth George Crawford, 19, of Lisbon R. D. 2 yesterday at 5:15 p.m. on Route 164 almost four miles south of Lisbon.

Officers said Falopa had backed from a private road across the highway onto the opposite berm. He then started to turn back onto the highway and his car was hit in the rear by Crawford's.

Falopa, who complained of minor injuries, was cited for making an improper turn while Crawford was cited for failure to stop in the assured clear distance.

Station wagons operated by Clifford Hall, 43, of Braynard, N. Y., and Lily O. Cline, 44, of Canton figured in a minor collision Sunday at 2:10 p. m. on Route 30 two - tenths of a mile north of Route 170.

Hall halted in the line of traffic and his car was struck in the rear by the Cline auto. She was cited for failure to stop in the assured clear disance.

Three accidents were investigated Saturday. A 1961 coupe operated by Darrell A. Baumgarner, 23, of 822 Washington St., Wellsville, damaged 40 feet of guardrail along Route 7 a mile and three-tenths south of East Liverpool at 2:30 p. m.

Baumgarner lost control of the car, which spun around in the highway and went off the right side into the guardrails.

A car driven by Donald G. Alexander, 28, of Cleveland ran into a ditch along Route 30 eight-tenths of a mile south of Route 7 Saturday at 8 a. m. He lost control when the wheels of his car dropped off the highway onto the soft berm, officers said.

Mail boxes owned by Neal Kidder and Phyllis Green, both of Negley R. D. 1, and two Review newspaper boxes were damaged by an unknown vehicle Saturday at 5 a. m. along Route 170 three and a half miles south of Route 154. The driver did not halt after striking the boxes, officers said.

Assembly Heads Toward Collision In Pennsylvania

HARRISBURG (AP) — This is a new calendar year but — the 1965 general assembly is still alive and on a collision course with the 1966 general assembly which convenes at noon Tuesday.

Democrats who rule the house previously raised the question of whether it is possible to conduct a general legislative session along with a fiscal session.

Like all meetings in even-numbered years, the 1966 session is limited by the state constitution to fiscal matters.

The house rules committee was scheduled to consider the question of final adjournment for 1965 at a meeting today.

Informed political observers speculated that the Democrats would forsake further legal argument and allow the 1965 session to dissolve automatically with the opening of the 1966 session.

As long as there is no interruption between legislative sessions, Gov. Scranton can't make interim appointments to various boards and commissions.

One such key vacancy is on the turnpike commission. Some Democrats fear that if a Republican were appointed during an interim it would give control over hundreds of turnpike jobs to the GOP.

The house and the Republican-controlled senate, meanwhile, returned today in continuation of the 1965 legislative session.

A major fight was expected on the proposed multi - million dollar captial budget for the 1965-67 biennium.

The great flat barges on the Barge Canal in upstate New York still push about 3,800,000 tons of cargo each year. There also has been a tremendous increase in the use of the 527-mile canal system by pleasure craft.

Sweeney Slated To Seek Nod As Attorney General

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—U. S. Rep. Robert E. Sweeney was expected to announce today that he will seek the Democratic nomination for attorney general.

A source close to the congressman said it was not official, but that he would make a formal statement at a noon news conference, indicating he would oppose former Atty. Gen. Mark McElroy for the Democratic nomination.

Sweeney's entry into the attorney general's race would clear the way for state Sen. Frank King to seek the Democratic nomination for governor. Sweeney has said he favors King as the strongest candidate to challenge Republican Gov. James A. Rhodes.

Officials Given Wellsville Oaths

The oath of office was issued by Solicitor Delmar O'Hara, who was elected in November. He received his oath of office Thursday from Common Pleas Judge Joel Sharp at Lisbon.

The new Council, headed by Allen Baldwin, president, will hold its first formal meeting Tuesday at 7:30 p. m. A clerk will be elected.

In giving the oath, O'Hara commented: "Wellsville has many problems to be solved and the next two years are going to be busy ones. May you all work together for a common goal to make Wellsville a better place in which to live and a town to be proud of."

The Rev. L. Wohrley of the First Methodist Church gave the closing prayer. Friends and families of the councilmen attended.

Bringing Up A Family

By Dr. GARRY MYERS

Chair-Sitting Punishment Effective

In any week one or several young mothers write to tell me how effectively chair - sitting for punishment works. Some seem to suppose it's a new idea, but I've been writing about its virtues in this column for over a quarter of a century. Until recent years hardly a letter mentioned it. For a long while I had almost despaired and feared I was not getting the idea across. A mother from Wisconsin wrote:

Dr. Garry Myers

"I read your column regularly and am so pleased with the results I have had with my children using the 'chair - sitting' method you recommend for discipline. I started this with my first child when he was about a year old and everyone scoffed, but it has worked so well through the last seven years.

"I AM surprised everyone doesn't try using the 'chair sitting' method. It has given me such a feeling of security with my children. They know they can't argue with that timer! They even set the timer themselves now when I have to announce this punishment."

Some other mothers say that the youngster from two to five or six would much rather have a spanking than to sit unamused for fifteen or twenty minutes. Other parents say it's very effective with the child as old as eight or ten.

As you know, I recommend it for the chronic dawdler on a school morning who has the whole family worn out getting him ready for school on time.

You may recall the advice—Have him stay home that day and sit unamused, doing nothing, while school is in session, with a recess of five or ten minutes at the end of each hour or so.

AN OCCASIONAL parent writes and says it won't work, that "the youngster won't stay in the chair unless I hold or tie him;" or that, "as soon as I turn my back he's out of the chair;" or that, "he cries and screams so terribly I can't stand it."

These parents started with chair - sitting before they had trained the youngster to stay where put, to respect the little word "no."

As soon as your little child, through pain from your bare flat hand applied to his bare fat thigh, has learned the meaning of "no" and will stay where put, you can abandon spanking. No need then for you to hold or tie him in the chair or to stay and watch him. Just go about your work but be alert.

Your child will soon learn that, the moment you find him down before the announced-beforehand time is up, he will get physical pain. He won't risk getting down. He will stay there until the bell rings or your tell him the time is up.

WHILE IN the chair your child will have no toys, radio, TV or other amusement. If he cries or screams you will be deaf. No amount of crying or pleading will change the clock; it will tick on and on. It has no feeling, never gets nervous or has a headache.

But many a parent will tell the child: "You sit there till I let you get down." When she tells him will depend on how he acts and how she feels.

Instead, she should tell him he must stay there till the clock rings or its big hand "gets there." She will make the sentence for exactly so many minutes, "about fifteen for the youngster two or three, thirty minutes for the child five or six."

A parent will not need to say more. If the child wishes to visit with her, in case she is near enough, she will talk to him as if nothing unusual had happened, but not about his offense. When the time is up he can go. He won't need to make any promises or hear a lecture.

Attack Injures Youth Near Irondale Tavern

An 18-year-old Irondale area youth remains in "fairly good" condition at City Hospital today with injuries suffered when apparently attacked by three men outside an Irondale tavern over the weekend.

Raymond Scott Clutter, son of Clarence Clutter of Irondale R. D. 1, suffered abrasions and contusions of the face, neck and chest in the fracas.

Clutter told the Jefferson County Sheriff's office that he was attacked by three men as he left Abdalla's Tavern at Cream City. He was admitted to the hospital Saturday at 5 a.m.

Midland Man Hart In Fight

A Midland man was listed in "satisfactory" condition this morning at Rochester General Hospital following a fight with an East Liverpool man at the Midland Elks Lodge at 4th and Midland Aves. Sunday morning.

The fight occured at 2:45 when Kenneth Williams of 347 Penn Ave., Midland, and Ronald Roach of 1051 Pennsylvania Ave., East Liverpool, got into a heated argument, police said.

Williams pulled out a gun and pointed it at Roach, but before he could discharge it, Roach slugged him in the right jaw, knocking him to the floor, officers said.

Williams was taken to the Rochester hospital, where he was admitted for possible head injuries and a laceration of the right cheek.

Midland police said Williams will be charged with violation of the Uniform Firearms Act.

Possibly the first person in U. S. history to sound off about the population problem was Benjamin Franklin, who observed back in the 1760's that the way the world population was headed, under normal conditions it was going to double every 25 to 30 years.

Place your ad by calling East Liverpool Review Want Ad Dept. 385-4545.

The entire want ad section of this newspaper is at your service. It's yours . . . for news of homes for sale or apartments people have for rent . . . information on the best person to fix your roof or your oil burner. It's yours if you want to hire help or find a job. It's yours if you want to sell used furniture or an automobile. It's yours if you want to buy or sell any items. The Want Ad columns are at your service. Read and use them for profit. To place a Want Ad simply Phone 385-4545.

Deadline: 5:00 P. M. the day before publication. On Mondays and on morning following legal holidays advertisements are accepted until 9:00 A. M. the day of publication.

If you are planning to use your Savings to pay for the extra needs . . . perish the thought. Here's an easier way . . . one which thousands have been using lately with good results. You have unused furniture in the attic, a piano or a bedstead, or you have a fur coat or a bicycle which no one is using. Why not sell them and get good hard cash in return? All you do is place an ad with what you have to sell listed under the proper classification. Our Want Ad taker will help you word your ad to appeal to the greatest number of people . . . Then watch the buyers begin to call.

The Review endeavors to print only truthful classified advertisements and will appreciate having its attention called to any advertising not conforming to the highest standard of honesty. Junior Editors Quiz on WATER MOLECULES

QUESTION: How does water stay inside a spoon even when it is higher than the edges of the spoon?

ANSWER: You should certainly try the interesting experiment the young folks are making. Look closely at a full spoonful of water to see the rounding up effect above the edge where the water joins the spoon. To do this, be sure to pick up enough water in your spoon. By rocking the spoon gently, you can see the water pile up to the side or end and yet not spill off.

The explanation of this is the principle called surface tension. When a liquid lies with a flat, open surface, the force called cohesion makes the minute molecules at or close to the surface attract each other. In the lower diagram, we have symbolized these molecules as molecule men which are trying to stay together by locking arms. The force of the surface tension is slight and can be easily overcome. But in the case of the water in the spoon, this tension is enough to hold some extra water on the top of that which fills the spoon level, without this extra water spilling over. As the pull of the surface molecules on water tends to round the surface, it is this force which makes a soap bubble round; the sphere being the smallest shape the soapy water film can take to include the amount of air inside.

FOR YOU TO DO: The force of surface tension is enough to float certain metal objects on water, which, since they contain no air, you would imagine would sink. Borrow a needle from your mother and put it down flat, very carefully, on the surface of water in a glass. Be sure to return the needle. It is dangerous to leave it around.

Steve Hall of Fort Morgan, Colo., wins today's combined prize of Compton's Illustrated Science Dictionary plus $10 cash for this question. Mail yours on a postcard to Junior Editors in care of The Review.

How Can I?

By ANNE ASHLEY

Q.—How can I produce an attractive high polish on apples, oranges, pears and other such fruits I am using for a centerbowl on my table?

A.—By using a good grade of salad oil. Saturate a small cloth with the oil and rub over the surfaces of the fruits, then buff with a dry cloth. Your fruits will have a lovely sheen, and they'll last longer, too.

Q.—How can I clean tarnished brass or copper articles?

A.—After extracting the juice from a lemon, dip the lemon rind into salt and rub this well over the surface of the metal. Then rinse with warm water. The cleaning and polishing of brass, copper, bronze and pewter are fully explained in my new household-hints book.

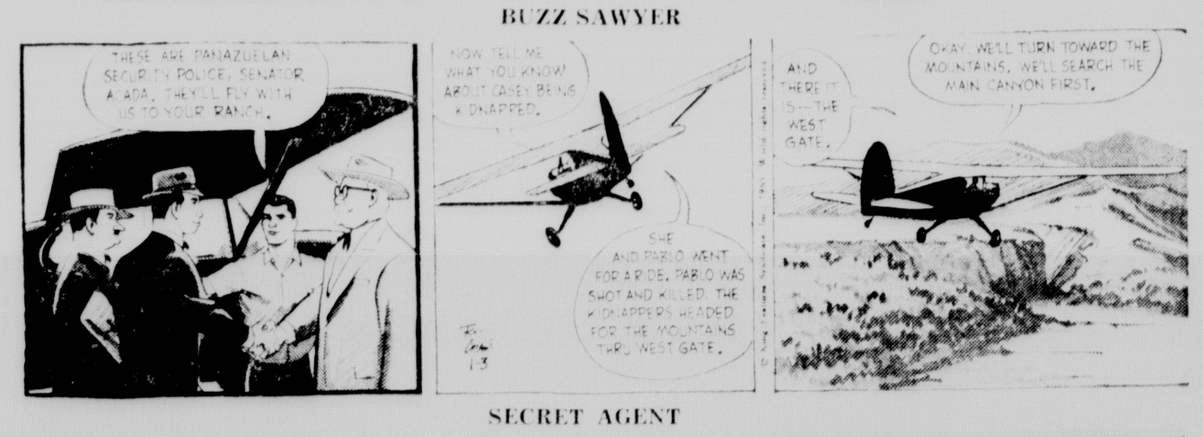

Q.—How can I perform a good cleaning job on some of my rings?

A.—With an old toothbrush and soap and water — unless the rings are badly tarnished, in which case try using bicarbonate of soda. Just dip the brush into the bicarb, scrub the ring with this and rinse.

Junior Editors Quiz on WATER MOLECULES

QUESTION: How does water stay inside a spoon even when it is higher than the edges of the spoon?

ANSWER: You should certainly try the interesting experiment the young folks are making. Look closely at a full spoonful of water to see the rounding up effect above the edge where the water joins the spoon. To do this, be sure to pick up enough water in your spoon. By rocking the spoon gently, you can see the water pile up to the side or end and yet not spill off.

The explanation of this is the principle called surface tension. When a liquid lies with a flat, open surface, the force called cohesion makes the minute molecules at or close to the surface attract each other. In the lower diagram, we have symbolized these molecules as molecule men which are trying to stay together by locking arms. The force of the surface tension is slight and can be easily overcome. But in the case of the water in the spoon, this tension is enough to hold some extra water on the top of that which fills the spoon level, without this extra water spilling over. As the pull of the surface molecules on water tends to round the surface, it is this force which makes a soap bubble round; the sphere being the smallest shape the soapy water film can take to include the amount of air inside.

FOR YOU TO DO: The force of surface tension is enough to float certain metal objects on water, which, since they contain no air, you would imagine would sink. Borrow a needle from your mother and put it down flat, very carefully, on the surface of water in a glass. Be sure to return the needle. It is dangerous to leave it around.

How Can I?

By ANNE ASHLEY

Q.—How can I produce an attractive high polish on apples, oranges, pears and other such fruits I am using for a centerbowl on my table?

A.—By using a good grade of salad oil. Saturate a small cloth with the oil and rub over the surfaces of the fruits, then buff with a dry cloth. Your fruits will have a lovely sheen, and they'll last longer, too.

Q.—How can I clean tarnished brass or copper articles?

A.—After extracting the juice from a lemon, dip the lemon rind into salt and rub this well over the surface of the metal. Then rinse with warm water. The cleaning and polishing of brass, copper, bronze and pewter are fully explained in my new household-hints book.

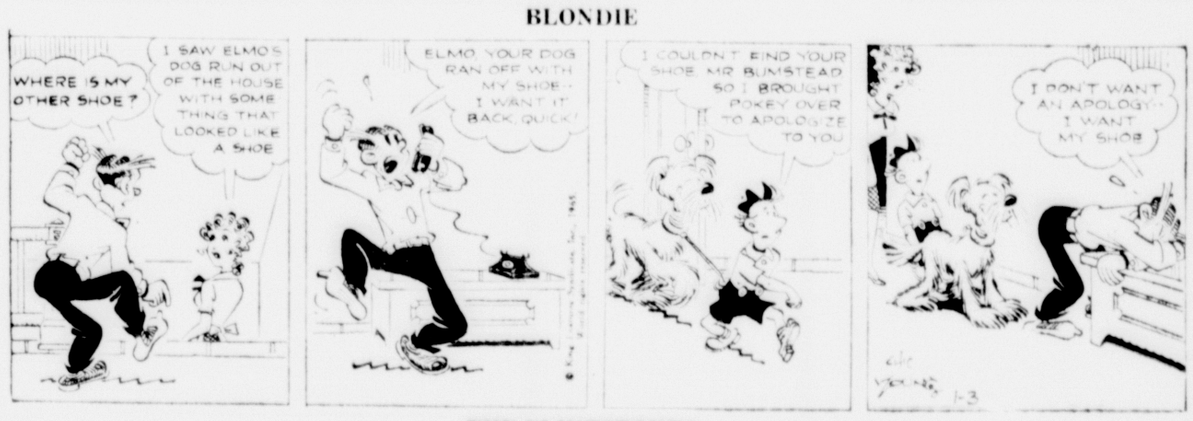

Q.—How can I perform a good cleaning job on some of my rings?

A.—With an old toothbrush and soap and water — unless the rings are badly tarnished, in which case try using bicarbonate of soda. Just dip the brush into the bicarb, scrub the ring with this and rinse.

A New Perspective On Diet Aims

Traditionally, the first Monday of the New Year is National Diet Day. It's in the very air. Many of you, eager to banish 10 pounds, or 20, have firmly resolved to start today. Fine! But instead of viewing this as another go at dieting, stretch your mind to a new dimension.

Ida Jean Kain

Analyze what your aim really is. It's not just to lose pounds fast and then allow them to ease back on. Unless this is just a game you play at the start of each new year, you must decide to change your thinking along with your food habits. Why not get the pattern by which you can lick your weight to a standstill and stay slim?

HUNGER IS the biggest hurdle. Apply nutrition know-how, change the character of your meals and you can control hunger scientifically. A high protein diet is the most effective in assauaging hunger, for protein stays by you longer.

The body uses protein more effectively when it is included at each one of the three meals, starting with breakfast. Food causes an increase in metabolism, protein more so than other foods. By eating a good breakfast, including protein, you get the benefit of increased metabolism all morning.

Four hours later you'll feel hungry again. Regular meal hours help you to establish an appetite - time - clock. It is the best way to cut out the haphazard eating that fosters wrong food habits.

Eat a balanced lunch, planned around a protein food — cheese, cottage cheese, fish, or meat; plus a vegetable or salad, and fruit and a glass of skim milk. Or have a sandwich made with thinly sliced bread and a thick protein filling, plus fruit and a beverage.

IT'S WISE to have an afternoon pickup around 4:00, particularly if dinner is eaten late. There is a scientific basis for having a pickup. With some individuals, blood sugar is less stable, and for them a protective pickup in the afternoon is essential.

Otherwise, you experience an energy letdown. Moreover, you feel so intensely hungry that you can't help over - compensating at the evening meal. Overeating at any one meal should be avoided.

Change your meal pattern and you will be able to control your hunger and your weight far better. Be alert to when you tend to do your overeating, and change that pattern. Dinner is the meal to watch.

"Set" your mind in advance to watch toward the end of the meal so that you will stop before you feel replete. It will help you to know that 20 minutes after finishing a modest meal you will feel content and in control — and if calories are trimmed you'll be slimming down.

Prospect Dim For Kashmir Peace Action

MOSCOW (AP) — The top leaders of India and Pakistan arrived in Tashkent today for a summit conference that is expected to have little effect on the basic Indian-Pakistani conflict over Kashmir.

The talks begin Tuesday.

The meeting might produce polite words on minor problems or lower somewhat the tensions threatening the cease-fire between the two nations of the Asian subcontinent. But both governments have remained adamant in their stand on the disputed Himalayan state of Kashmir, the root of the trouble between them.

Pakistan has never relaxed its demand that the people of Kashmir decide their future in a plebiscite. Since Moslems are in the majority, the Pakistanis expect the Kashmiris to vote to join them or at least for independence from India.

India, which occupies the most populous part of Kashmir, says the state is irrevocably part of India and its future is not a subject for discussion.

Shastri told newsmen as he left New Delhi: "It will require all our ingenuity and skill to come to some kind of agreement so the conflict does not further escalate. Let us hope for the best."

Ayub on his way to the conference stopped in Peshawar, on Pakistan's northwest frontier, to meet with U.S. roving Ambassador W. Averell Harriman and with the British ambassador to Pakistan, Sir Maurice James.

Harriman's chief mission is to explain President Johnson's Viet Nam policy to Asian leaders, but it was assumed he would also touch on the Tashkent meeting. After a conference Sunday in New Delhi with Shastri, he said, "We wish this conference well" but added that it was entirely an Indian-Pakistani affair.

Auto Kills Boy, 7

XENIA, Ohio (AP)—A 7-year-old Beavercreek youngster died Sunday as the result of being hit by a car last Tuesday in his home neighborhood. He was Richard Dumbrowski, who was with another boy, 8, when they tried to dash across a street.

Snow Covers North Areas

By The Associated Press

Heavy, drifting snow closed schools and highways in portions of the Pacific Northwest today while a storm that lashed the upper Great Lakes region Sunday bore down on New England.

Idaho officials shooed all but emergency vehicles off 250 miles of roads between Moscow and the tiny ski resort village of McCall Sunday as falling snow made travel impossible.

Resort owners said about 500 college students were trapped in McCall, crowding as many as eight to a room with little hope of making classes today.

Police turned back students attempting to drive from McCall. Both the University of Idaho, Moscow, and Washington State University, Pullman, said rolls would not be called today although classes would be in session.

Depths reportedly reached 18 inches as the snow continued to fall in Idaho and Washington. Drifts were four feet deep in places. A foot of snow covered Oregon highways north of the California border and more than 10 southbound cars were tied up for five hours as snowplows heaved snow from Interstate 5 at the Siskiyou summit. Drifts there were measured at five feet.

Highway patrolmen at Yreka and Weed in North California halted some 200 vehicles because of snow, allowing through only those equipped with chains.

The first significant snowfall left 4 to 5 inches on the ground at Minneapolis-St. Paul.

Early this morning, the storm had moved far enough east to dump 4 inches of snow on Boston and 3 on Albany, N.Y. Forecasters predicted continuing snow, sleet, freezing rain and rain through the morning.

Rain washed over Kentucky and Ohio over the holiday weekend, and by today 10.2 inches had fallen at Hickman, Ky., on the Mississippi River.

Bus Strike Hits Part Of Capital Of Ireland

DUBLIN, Ireland (AP) — A wildcat strike cut off public transport to Dublin's heavily populated north side today, but buses ran as usual in the rest of the Irish capital.

About 280 drivers, conductors and mechanics operating out of the Clontarf depot walked out in protest against the removal of conductors from some routes. The buses had had a driver and a conductor.

Fireman Does Duties Despite Loss Of Truck

Losing traction on an icy hill, Belleville's fire truck skidded into nearby Indian Lake. Seizing a fire extinguisher, he ran an eighth of a mile to a burning car and put out the blaze.
